DO YOU DREAD WINTER?

If every man, woman and child in this vicinity would only take one spoonful of

SCOTT'S EMULSION

after meals for one month, it would put vigor in their blood to withstand the rigors of winter weather and help prevent colds, grippe and winter sickness.

SCOTT'S is a fortifying medicinal-food of particular benefit in changing seasons, and every drop yields direct returns in richer blood, stronger lungs, and greater resistive power. No alcohol in SCOTT'S.

Ashland Featured In New Booklet

Ashland, Crater Lake and Southern Oregon are featured prominently in "Oregon Outdoors" which is a new annual illustrated folder issued by the passenger department of the Southern Pacific at Portland.

This folder this year is one that will be of great assistance to people of Western Oregon in acquainting the tourist with our matchless scenery and the general beauty of this state as a place to spend a summer outing.

The front cover is in three colors and shows a combination bathing and outing scene. The inside cover shows a birdseye view of the city of Portland with Mt. Stevens in the distance. The Willamette river is seen winding its way through the heart of the city.

There are over 70 illustrations in this folder showing various scenes throughout Western Oregon from Portland on the north to Ashland on the south. These illustrations include hunting, fishing, hiking, camping, bathing, mountains, waterfalls, lakes, beaches, forests, rivers, parks—in short, everything that is apt to appeal to the tourist from the east.

Special sections in this folder describe Portland, Rose Festival, Columbia highway, Oregon City and Willamette falls, Willamette valley, Salem, Corvallis, Eugene, Jefferson country, Three Sisters country, Roseburg and the Umpqua country, Grants Pass and the Marble Halls, Medford and Rogue river, Crater Lake, Klamath Lake country, Ashland and Lithia park, mountain climbing, camping, hunting and fishing.

Copies of this booklet are free and may be obtained from any Southern Pacific agent or by addressing John M. Scott, general passenger agent, Portland, Oregon.

Home Poets

MY VERY OWN.

(By Mary Agnes Daily, Talent, Ore.)

Upon the springtime breezes
Wafted essences of flowers,
Beguile my raptured senses,
Enthralling them for hours.

And oft' I roam, in fancy,
To the crest of yonder hill,
And gaze afar o'er crag and dale,
My thirsty soul to fill.

Of earthly treasures not possest,
Yet vastly rich am I,
For all of Nature's wonder gifts
I can and do enjoy.

The matin song of little birds,
The sunrise golden rays,
The cooling breeze, the flowers and trees—
Ah! Crowend are my days.

Nor might nor power can wrest from me
The sunset's majesty,
Nor take from me the joy I feel
From all eternity.

Tho I may not, like others, go
Where vagrant fancy leads,
I fet may say "All's mine today."
Suffice it for all needs.

Not only what I see and hear,
Nor what I know alone,
But all things good, and peace and joy
I make my very own.

SOWING IN HOPE.

(By Mary O. Carey, Talent, Ore.)

I placed the bulbs in the ground today;
They were ugly and rough and brown.
How can I know that April's warm rays
Each bulb a flower will crown?
Sowing with hope.

I planted the seeds of the sweet peas, too,
And naught of their fragrance rare,
Or of their color of red, white and blue—
How could I know it would be there?
Sowing with hope.

We sow the wheat, bare grain,
Will the blades and the heads appear,
After the winter's snow and rain,
In the springtime of the year?
We sow in hope.

And so it is with all we do—
We sow, and wait, and hope
That all our golden dreams come true
Within ambition's scope.
Sowing and hoping.

Then ever sow good seed, waiting its reaping,
Ever do good deeds, and ever love.
The Father in heaven is keeping
His watch on thee from above,
Till thou cease hoping.

Nat'l Parks Assn. To Meet in Spokane

Spokane—A call has been issued for the third annual meeting of the National Parks Highway association to be held in Spokane, Friday, April 27. The call is issued in the name of W. G. Edens, of Chicago, president, and Frank W. Guilbert, Spokane, secretary of the association.

"This meeting is called for the purpose of bringing together representatives of the wide awake communities all along the line of the highway from the Great Lakes to Puget Sound, to hear the reports of officers regarding the work of the past year and make plans for broadening the general scheme of popularizing this highway with the people of all parts of the nation," states Mr. Guilbert. "The permanent marking of the highway is a subject calling for earnest consideration and discussion at this meeting.

"Concerted effort to influence the expendature of federal funds on the National Parks Highway will be discussed. Each community should be represented by men who are interested in the development of the Northwest and in the cause of good roads and tourist travel."

Siemens, city treasurer and president of the First State and Savings Bank of this city, received word this morning that credit has been placed at the disposal of the city of Klamath Falls in New York to the amount of $302,100—the amount of the bonds issued by the city for the construction of the Strahorn railroad.

The Klamath Indians have notified the department that they will offer their services for a cavalry regiment that may be formed, if needed for patrol or other active duty. They are all good riders, good shots, and used to living outdoors. They would at once be able to take the field and care for themselves, and would prove invaluable if it became necessary to protect our coasts from attack and landing parties.

Marshfield Record: At the regular meeting of the North Bend Chamber of Commerce last evening, which in spite of the inclement weather was well attended, the secretary read a communication pertaining to the proposed installation on Coos Bay of a chemical plant which would, at the outset, manufacture charcoal adjacent to Coos Bay. The writer, Mr. Blaser, said that he was seeking a location for the plant in which he and several others are interested.

Oregon City Courier: In view of the numerous inquiries which have been directed to her office, County Clerk Harrington has asked the Courier to point out the fact that Oregon pioneers are not required to pay for hunting and fishing licenses within this state. All residents of Oregon who have been in the state since 1860 are subject to receive free fishing and hunting rights, according to advice Miss Harrington has received from the state fish and game commission. Application, however, is necessary and a form license will be given to such as are entitled to its use.

East Oregonian: The lowly spud has become such a thing of value these days that the management of the Cosy Theatre today announced that on Thursday or Friday of this week any child presenting a potato at the box office will be granted admission. A crew of ten men has gone to the Pelikea mine on Sixes river in northern Curry county to begin operations for the summer. The men will cut 200,000 feet of lumber with which to construct a 30-inch wooden pipe line for a distance of two and one-half miles. During the summer months the flow of the river is to be diverted through this pipe and the power developed will be utilized in mining the bed of the river for gold and platinum. A sawmill is on the ground and a planer is being shipped there from Bandon.

After 16 Hours Jury Acquits Hobbs

The jury acquitted Henry Hobbs and Beatrice, his wife, of the murder of Edwin C. Way, Algoma Lumber company logging foreman, last October, by returning a verdict of "not guilty" at Klamath Falls Sunday afternoon. The verdict was signed by Charles Mack, foreman.

The defense submitted its case to the jury Saturday at 4 o'clock without argument, and the jury deliberated until 12 o'clock Saturday night when they retired. They resumed deliberation Sunday morning at 8. The evidence adduced in this trial was similar to that of the first trial in February, excepting that some of the testimony admitted at the first trial was eliminated.

The defense contended that Way had persistently forced his attentions on Mrs. Hobbs, both at her own home and elsewhere and complaint had been made to the district attorney a few days before the tragedy.

Way was shot at the Hobbs home after he had been ordered out by Mr. Hobbs.
