Gold Hill to Vote On Irrigation Bonds

One of the most important steps looking towards local development was taken this last week when the two sets of managers of the Gold Hill-Grants Pass Irrigation districts decided to call an election upon the question of voting bonds for the purpose of construction of their respective irrigation projects. The protracted dry season of the present year with a deficiency of rainfall for several years past, have been an impetus to bring this move about.

ANTOINETTE GAGE

—See this Gage pattern hat at Mrs. Simons', Saturday, Sept. 8. 26 So. Pioneer Ave.

By extending the Gold Hill project and uniting the two systems, the cost of the Grants Pass projects estimates have been reduced from $76 to $50 per acre, while the Gold Hill project from $60 to $50 per acre. The Grants Pass district will vote $290,000 bonds, with Gold Hill $60,000 for immediate construction of this extensive irrigation system.

The canal will be 33 miles long, which will place nearly 10,000 acres in the Grants Pass district, and 5,000 acres in the Gold Hill district under intensive cultivation through irrigation. The water will be taken from the south side of Rogue river three miles above Gold Hill into a canal high and large enough to serve both district, including the north side of the river and Jerome prairie, in the Grants Pass district.

This means that the co-operation ability of the several sections bordering the river for 20 miles have been brought behind one system, greatly increasing the chance of success and reducing the cost of construction.

The Gold Hill district election for voting the bonds will be held October 1. The members of the Gold Hill district managers consist of George B. Aiden, chairman; F. D. Eisman, and C. R. Boyd, and Charles P. Champlin, secretary.
