

NEURALGIC PAINS

Give Way to Soothing Hamlin's Wizard Oil

Hamlin's Wizard Oil is a safe and effective treatment for headache and neuralgia. Rubbed in where the pain is, it acts as a tonic to the tortured nerves and almost invariably brings quick relief.

Its healing, antiseptic qualities can always be relied upon to prevent infection, or other serious results, from sprains, bruises, cuts, burns, bites and stings. Just as good, too, for sore feet, stiff neck, frost bites, cold sores and canker sores.

Get it from druggists for 30 cents. If not satisfied return the bottle and get your money back.

Ever constipated or have sick headache? Just try Wizard Liver Whips, pleasant little pink pills, 30 cents. Guaranteed.

PROVIDE READING FOR THE SOLDIERS

"Clip as well as knit" is the request of the army men for the soldier boys. Anything in the way of newspaper clippings or, still better, whole newspapers or magazines, would be more than welcome in the camps, particularly in France.

Nothing would do a homesick soldier any more good than to be made a regular recipient of his home newspaper. If you can't afford to subscribe for him, roll up back numbers of the paper and send them to him. If you did feel like putting him on the list, he would bless you.

Much is said about the need for keeping our soldier boys away from the temptations of army life. One of the greatest causes of vice is an unoccupied mind. If the army lines are well supplied with tents where there is plenty of interesting reading matter, a great many idle hours will be pleasantly filled. The fellow who is quietly reading the home paper or an American magazine is not chasing around the outskirts of the camp looking for trouble.

There isn't any possibility of getting too much of this stuff. The home paper will be read by soldiers who come from many miles distant and know nothing of the place where it is published. But anything American will look good to them. Our popular magazines will be thumbed over until they are reduced to rags.

Any slacker who really wants to escape the war could no doubt do so by jumping in front of a railroad train and having a leg or two cut off.

Vernon Castle Is Killed In Texas

Captain Vernon Castle of the English Royal Flying Corps was killed near Fort Worth, Texas, Friday morning while flying fifteen miles west of that city. Captain Castle has made more than 150 flights over German lines, besides being the central figure in many heroic exploits along the Flanders front during the past nine months. He came back to the United States with Lord Wellesley, a short time ago, and was flying across country Friday morning. While endeavoring to avoid an aviation cadet and his machine, Castle swerved sharply, lost control of his plane and fell. Castle was a well-known movie star prior to his enlistment.

SOLDIER IN FRANCE SENDS LETTER HOME

The following letter recently published in the Rogue River Courier of Grants Pass was received by Mrs. J. A. Harvey from her son, Corporal Frank Harvey, Company D, 162nd Infantry, now stationed in France, which shows the fine stuff our Oregon boys are made of, in accepting the inevitable in the game they are engaged in playing at present:

Dear Mother and All: Your letter just received (January 15), the first mail we have received since we left the states. The package you speak of has not yet come, but it always takes packages longer than letters. Whenever you send anything, put it in a small wooden box, as packages get some pretty rough handling, but there is really no need of sending anything over here as we can get most everything we want.

That stuff you heard about us fellows being so badly abused is all "bunk." There is nothing to it at all. Of course I will admit that the place we were in before we left the states was awfully cold, but that could not be helped. I was pretty sick there myself, but I am not blaming anyone for it, and as to what we have to eat, it is all right. Of course we don't have ice cream or strawberry shortcake every meal, but what we do have is plentiful and good enough for anyone. I have fared lots worse in the summer camps than I have on this trip. The whole trouble is this: some fellows can never learn that war is not a parlor game and that one must expect hardships, so at any time you happen to hear any more of that kind of "bunk," just put it down as the homesick wailing of a "mamma's boy."

It is going to be fine over here this summer, but it is muddy at this time of the year.

I will try to write every week, but if I do not write that often, do not worry, because I am in no danger at all. I can't tell you why, but nevertheless it is a fact.

MILLION RAISED IN THRIFT STAMPS

Sales of thrift stamps and war savings stamps in Oregon are reported at over $1,000,000, almost simultaneously with the announcement from Washington that sales throughout the country had passed the $50,000,000 mark.

The following telegram was received recently by State Director C. S. Jackson from Frank A. Venderlip, chairman of the national war savings committee:

"The steadily growing volume of savings placed at the service of the nation by millions of citizens is splendid evidence of your effective work. Business as usual is a wholly wrong theory in war times. It is only by teaching the people to save and not to compete for labor and materials with the government that we can put the whole strength of our nation into this war.

"This is not only our most important contribution to the war, but it is the sure way to raise the required money. In the next few weeks we and our entire organization of nearly 200,000 workers must make it our common purpose and resolve to spread this gospel so that there will be a militant army of war-savers to put war savings certificates and the next liberty loan over the top."

L. A. Carmichael, who thought he was located in Marshfield for the remainder of the winter, received an urgent letter from the government, requesting him to hurry to Medford and assist in checking up the government cruise of the timber lands in Jackson county. Mr. Carmichael left Monday morning, accompanied by Mrs. Carmichael, who will spend a few days in Medford and then return to Coos county and reside with her mother at Bandon. The work at Medford will require Mr. Carmichael's services for about 90 days. Marshfield Evening Record.

POULTRY NOTES

Winter Rations for Pullets.

When the pullets are in winter quarters and are dependent upon the feeder for all green food and animal food as well as for grain, one of the following rations will supply the variety required. The proportions indicated are parts by weight.

Save Good Yearling Hens.

Among farmers generally it is the common practice to sell the hens that are past a year old for poultry when they stop laying in the fall. Under the usual conditions this is good policy, for as a rule only about half of the flock lay well enough the second year to be profitable, and the farmer who has pullets enough to replace all his old hens sees no advantage in keeping any of them over.

This year, however, those patriotic farmers who desire to do their part to increase the poultry and egg supplies will find it desirable to retain a considerable proportion of the yearling hens. Farmers in the corn belt especially will find it to their interest to hold all the good yearling hens they have, making such addition to their poultry house equipment as may be necessary to properly accommodate both pullets and hens. Overcrowding must be avoided, as neither pullets nor hens will do their best.

Selecting Hens to Keep.

In selecting hens to keep over, preference should be given to those that molt in September or later, for they are, as a rule, the most persistent layers.

ent layers. Such hens may not be at this time the best looking in the flock. They are likely to be rough in plumage with somewhat shriveled combs and pale colored legs. These things, however, are merely incidental to the nonlaying and molting period.

Hens that appear in prime condition at this time are those that molted in the summer because they stopped laying early. The exceptions which it may be desirable to retain are hens which reared broods in early summer and molted while running with the chicks.

Bulletin Aids Poultry Teachers.

To aid teachers of poultry husbandry in secondary schools in presenting the poultry-raising opportunities to their classes, a specialist in the state relations service of the United States Department of Agriculture has prepared a teachers' guide on the raising of ducks, geese and turkeys. Suggestions are made as to methods of presenting these subjects both in the classroom and in the laboratory, and study outlines calculated to help the teacher and student to correlate the home work with the work at school are given. The bulletin, known as States Relations Service Document 57, will be mailed free on request, while the supply lasts, to instructors or administrators of high-school agriculture.

Pullets that will not begin laying before winter sets in may be left in the coops which they occupied while growing as long as the weather permits them to range.

If our young men could be as free from disabilities now as they are when qualifying for the college and school ball teams, there wouldn't be so many exemption claims.

That new American bread has the taste of victory.

tell you the Germans took it off so that 'I never would lift my right hand against them.'

"I want to add my word against anything and everything that will impede victory for the army of the United States," was the first expression that brought the cheers of his audience.

F. A. Thomas, the Myrtle Creek youth who was arrested a short time ago charged with the attempted burglary of his step-father's store and who has since languished in the county jail, was this morning taken before Dr. E. B. Stewart, physician of the local exemption board, and subjected to an examination as to his fitness for military duty. It is understood that Mr. Thomas passed the test with flying colors, and in all probability he will be given a chance to fight for his country, instead of serving a term in the state's prison. —Roseburg News.

Mrs. Jesse M. Jones, living near Oregon City, recently cut the index finger off the right hand of her husband that he might evade the draft. When explaining the incident before Deputy District Attorney Burke, she said she did it so her husband would not be called away to war, and declared that she would rather be hanged than to have her husband taken away from her. The husband is held awaiting a hearing on the charge of being a slacker, and it is probable the wife will be held as an accomplice in the plot.—Oregon City Enterprise.
