WATERWAYS UNDER GOVERNMENT CONTROL

A committee of three has been appointed by Director General McAdoo to investigate the inland and coastwise waterways of the United States and advise him as to the best means of putting them to advantageous use and solving transportation problems.

The canals of the country and the coastwise Mississippi and lake traffic will be considered. Work has already been begun by the committee, which is headed by Maj. Gen. W. M. Black, chief of engineers of the United States army.

It was the irony of fate that while Chamberlain, Hitchcock, Wadsworth and other senators were telling the senate how poorly prepared our soldiers were, the boys "over there" were sailing into the Germans in true American fashion and winning warm praises from the allies.

La Follette's Crime Against His Country

William Phillip Simms, eminent newspaper correspondent, writing from Berne, Switzerland, under date of February 15, has this to say of criminal propaganda disseminated by pro-Germans in this country and its effect in Europe:

"The Prussian war party is belittling Americans to the utmost in Austria as well as in Germany. "American newspapers printing La Follette's Lusitania speech are handed about until they are black and worn out.

"A picture of a feathered Indian, probably a medicine show man, surrounded by gaping boys, is published in all illustrated papers, entitled 'Recruiting in America.'

"The wildest stories of American regiments mutinying are published broadcast. The stories say the American soldiers are refusing to fight for England and France.

"Both Archibald and Sumter—the latter's folks are from Detroit—constantly hearing the talk of the richest and sportiest circles, say nothing will be left undone to egg the masses on to further sacrifices.

"They believe the smashing of Germany and Austria will follow the failure of the drive on the west front into which they are plunging. The popular dislike for the Germans will prevent Austro-Hungarians from continuing in Prussia's train much longer. The sick, starving, dying population will rebel. Especially as it is understood that officialdom from the emperor down—less secretly than one might think—have the same distaste for continuing the war."

MYRTLE CREEK CASE ATTRACTS INTEREST

A question that may be of considerable interest to many persons in the county or state is involved in the application of Mrs. Mabel Hodgson of Myrtle Creek, for registration under the laws of the state, qualifying her for the right of franchise, the application being made before County Clerk Edward Lenox, recently. Mrs. Hodgson was refused the privilege of registration on the ground that through marriage to a British subject she lost her citizenship. Mr. Lenox construed the law of 1907 as covering the case, but through her attorney, Albert Abraham, Mrs. Hodgson took exception to the ruling, and a statement of the matter was placed before Clerk Lenox, who courteously consented to place the matter before Attorney General George M. Brown for a decision covering the meaning and intent of the law.

Mrs. Hodgson contends that since she was married to the British subject before the law of 1907 was enacted, its provisions do not apply to her. The matter will be watched with considerable interest, as there are doubtless many other women in the state who are similarly situated, and who will be deprived of the right of ballot if County Clerk Lenox's ruling is upheld.

STREAMS CLOSED TO FISHING FOR YEAR
At the regular monthly meeting of the state fish and game commission held at Portland last week a new system of fish protection was inaugurated by closing the following streams to all fishing, so as to give a chance for restocking and propagation:
Squaw creek, between upper and lower Squaw lakes.
Carberry creek, one of the branches of the Big Applegate, from its junction with the Applegate to its source, including branches.
Four Bit Creek, one of the branches of Big Butte creek, from its junction with the south fork of Big Butte to its source, including branches.
Middle Fork of Rogue river, one of the three principal branches of the Rogue, from its junction with the south fork to its source, including tributary branches.
This plan is to keep these streams closed for a two-year period, during which all fishing will be prohibited, and the streams restocked. At the end of the closed period these streams will be opened and another branch of east of the Applegate, Big Butte and Rogue will be closed for a similar period and restocked. By this plan, one headwaters fork of each important trout stream in the county will always be closed and restocked, thus insuring protection for young fish and a constant supply of fish to feed the main streams.
Another year, branches of other main streams will be closed for restocking, as the supply of trout hatched increases, there always remaining two forks open for every one closed.
Squaw creek between the two lakes is a spawning bed for the fish in both lakes, and the slaughter of fish in it during the spring spawning season is fast exterminating the fish. Both lakes will remain open for fishing, but the creek will be permanently closed.
Notices of the closing of the streams will be published and posted and anglers are asked to cooperate in the restocking operations by helping enforce the closure.

NO DISTINCTION IN RESERVATIONS
The often-asked question as to the difference between a national park and a national monument is now harder than ever to answer. Before the passage of the national park service act a well-defined distinction was recognized by common consent, based upon the idea that the monument was merely conserved with no idea of development, while the national park was created with the purpose of development. In the absence of formal definition, the new act, which several times mentions both kinds of reservations without any distinction whatever, must be held to abolish previous unwritten conceptions and establish the authority for the future.

What is left, then, of the distinction is the fact that the monuments are generally smaller and generally of less importance than the parks. But, on the other hand, there is one monument larger than all but the largest parks, and there are several parks as small as many of the smallest monuments. Furthermore, the Grand Canyon of the Colorado, which is a national monument, is at least equal in importance to any national park and of more importance than many.

British Eyes In Hindenburg's Head

The following description of Hindenburg is taken from J. M. Beaufort in "Behind the German Veil", and can well be believed to be a faithful picture of this German brute:

Hindenburg stands more than six feet high. His whole personality radiates strength—brute animal strength. He was, when I met him, 69 years of age, but looked much younger. His hair and mustache were still pepper and salt color. His face and forehead are deeply furrowed, which adds to his forbidding appearance.

His nose and chin are prominent, but the most striking feature of the man's appearance is his eyes. They are steel blue and very small, much too small for his head, which in turn is too small compared to his body. But what the eyes lack in size they fully make up for in intensity and penetrating powers. Until I met Hindenburg, I always thought that the eyes of the Mexican rebel Villa were the worst and most cruel I had ever seen. They are gold compared with those of Hindenburg; never in my life have I seen such hard, cruel utterly brutal eyes as those of Hindenburg.

"To provide for the organization of veterinary hospitals for duty overseas, and for other purposes, the veterinary corps will require at least 2,000 additional enlisted men within the next few weeks. It is desired to enlist as many men as possible between 18 and 35 years of age, and who are not registered under the selective draft law. These men should be accepted for, and enlisted in, the veterinary corps, national army, and sent to the medical officers' training camp at Fort Riley, Kansas, or to Fort Oglethorpe, Georgia, as may be most convenient.

"The following classes of men are desired: Horsehoers, 20; saddlers, 20; pharmacists, 20; cooks, 40; typists or stenographers, 40; veterinary students, agricultural students, farmers, stable men or men accustomed to handling horses, 1,860.

"The secretary of war directs that a recruiting campaign to obtain men between the ages specified, not subject to registration, and otherwise qualified as indicated, be at once initiated."

VETERINARY CORPS IS IN NEED OF MEN

The Grants Pass recruiting station has received the following instructions pertaining to the veterinary corps:

"To provide for the organization of veterinary hospitals for duty overseas, and for other purposes, the veterinary corps will require at least 2,000 additional enlisted men within the next few weeks. It is desired to enlist as many men as possible between 18 and 35 years of age, and who are not registered under the selective draft law. Printed Butter Wrappers

ACCORDING to the ruling of the Oregon Dairy and Food Commission all dairy butter sold or exposed for sale in this state must be wrapped in butter paper upon which is printed the words "Oregon Dairy Butter, 16 (or 32) ounces full weight," with the name and address of the maker.

To enable patrons of the Tidings to easily comply with this ruling this office has put in a supply of the standard sizes of butter paper and will print it in lots of 100 sheets and upward and deliver it by parcels post at the following prices:

100 Sheets, 16 or 32 ounces	$1.50
250 Sheets, 16 or 32 ounces	$2.15
500 Sheets, 16 or 32 ounces	$3.25

Send your orders to us by mail accompanied by the price of the paper and it will be promptly forwarded to you by parcel post, prepaid.

We use the best butter paper obtainable, and our workmanship is of the best. Let us have your order and you will not regret it.
