LOYALTY IN WAR TIME DIFFERENT FROM PEACE

Loyalty in peace times and loyalty in war times are two distinct things. Not much is required to pass the loyalty test when one's country is not at war; a simple compliance with the law is all that is required.

But loyalty in war times is not a passive quality. At such time one may be without loyalty and still not be disloyal. A person of this type will do nothing either to assist or to harm his country. He will not give himself to his country's service and he will not contribute financial support. Neither will he discourage others from doing this. He will do or say nothing treasonable and neither will he do or say anything to put heart in the fighting forces or to uphold the nation in its struggle. He will be simply a passive onlooker. And that is not being loyal.

Our country is fighting in the most desperate struggle of history. It is a struggle so vast and momentous as to demand the most complete support of every one of its citizens. Passive loyalty—the loyalty of peace times—is not sufficient. The brand of loyalty now demanded is the kind that impels one to offer himself and his all, if necessary, that his country may be victorious in the great conflict.

Most of us can not go into the fighting forces; most of us can not enter into those industries directly connected with the war, but all of us can show our neighbors that we have the right brand of patriotism.

Our government is urging upon us the necessity of saving as an essential to victory. We are told that there is not enough man power and not sufficient materials in the country to win a quick victory if we continue to use this man power and these materials as we did before the war. It is pointed out that there are now more than 2,000,000 men in the army and navy, and that by August 1 this number will be increased to 3,000,000, with a steady addition to that number from then on. These men not only cease to be producers, but they become consumers on a vast scale.

Thus it is that we are urged to buy only those things which we need in order that we shall not use up labor and waste materials and transportation, so vitally necessary to the government in its war work and so much needed to the health and efficiency of our citizens.

By following the government's request to produce to our maximum capacity and to consume as little as possible, we shall give practical ex-

The correct test for gasoline

Until recently many purchasers considered the gravity test the only proper measure of gasoline value. Then the National Bureau of Standards at Washington pointed out that this test tells nothing of the power value of gasoline. It further showed that the real test of gasoline lies in its vaporizing and combustive qualities, which can only be measured by its boiling points. Boiling points are vaporizing points. They determine the action of the gas developed from gasoline. As combustion starts with the lowest boiling points and flashes on through the gas, the continuous, uniform chain of boiling points—from the low to the high—is necessary for instantaneous, full-powered combustion. Eliminate one link and the power chain is broken. Only straight-distilled gasoline can have the continuous, uniform chain of boiling points. Mixtures always have "holes" in them. Red Crown is a straight-distilled, all-refinery gasoline, having the full and continuous chain of boiling points necessary for steady, dependable power: Low boiling points for easy starting, medium boiling points for quick and smooth acceleration, and high boiling points for power and mileage. Look for the Red Crown sign before you fill.

pression to our loyalty—a militant loyalty, the brand which stamps us as being willing to do our part at home by sacrificing, by getting down to a war basis, by backing up our government with all our strength. With our money savings we can then buy war savings stamps and perform a double service by giving the government current funds with which to buy the labor and materials so much needed for war purposes which we have refrained from using. That is loyalty.

We can better appreciate why we should now buy only the things we need when we stop to think that in the past the supply of labor and materials has been chiefly consumed by ordinary civilian needs while now a large proportion of it must be devoted to the needs of the army and navy. It is self-evident that the labor and materials the supply of which is now used by the government can not be used also for unnecessary civilian wants.

Samuel Gompers says: "If worthy of citizenship in a free country, no man or woman will dissipate our man power and economic resources through purchase of things to merely gratify tastes or appearances. All purchases should be governed by this one dominating thought, 'will they in any manner retard the winning of the war?'"

Buying war savings stamps and Liberty bonds is not only the safest investment that can be made but the easiest and most direct way to aid your government.

If you will think more of saving than of spending you will be surprised to learn that there are many things which you do not need after all.

Do not expect our men to die for you if you are not worth living for. Show our army and our navy that you are worthy of protection. Save to the utmost of your ability and buy W. S. S. with your savings.
