NUMBER 21

McAdoo Addressed Ashland in Interests of Victory Loan

Hon. William G. McAdoo, former secretary of the treasury and ex-railroad administrator, was the guest of honor of Ashland last Sunday evening when he paid this city a brief visit while on his way from San Francisco to Portland and Seattle. An announcement was made during the day that Mr. McAdoo would speak at the station at 6 o'clock during the twenty minutes' stop all trains make here, but an hour before No. 16 arrived on which the former secretary of the treasury was a passenger, the word was telegraphed here that the train would be held for about an hour in order to allow the noted traveler an opportunity to address the Ashland residents.

Mr. McAdoo was taken to the park in the automobile of O. Winter, local chairman of the Victory Loan campaign, who introduced the speaker to a large audience who had gathered there. Mr. McAdoo's address was in the interests of the Victory Loan and for twenty minutes he held his audience spell-bound with an eloquent and inspiring address.

He pointed out the necessity of completely conquering the Germans by paying for the financial cost of the war. The soldiers had bravely and valiantly gone forth and done their part so successfully, and it is now up to those who remained at home to complete the battle and pay the cost of the great victory by contributing as liberally to this fifth or Victory loan as they had in the previous loans.

Mr. McAdoo announced that it was a great privilege instead of a sacrifice to subscribe to the Victory loan. This is a duty, he said, that American people owe to the 60,000 boys of the United States army who were killed during the war, and the 200,000 or more maimed soldiers whom this government promised, when they went forth to fight its battles, to back to a finish.

In his appeal for the League of Nations plan Mr. McAdoo declared that this plan was a question of humanity and not one of partisan politics and that politics should enter into it in no way. "The good of humanity should always be above politics," he asserted, "and let us all bury all partisanship in considering this question. There has not been a more propitious time in the history of Christianity and with indications for success for the organization of the world for peace instead of for war as heretofore. Let us face this question of world humanity and world peace as patriotic Americans."

After the address an informal reception was held, during which the ex-secretary of the treasury graciously responded to the greetings of many of the city's residents.

Discharged Men Must Wear Stripe

Hundreds of discharged officers of the army and numbers of enlisted men are unconsciously laying themselves open to fine and imprisonment by wearing uniforms after discharge without the red chevron on the left sleeve, according to orders from the war department.

This order stated that the chevron must be worn on the uniform by officers and men after discharge. Few officers have been meeting this requirement, it is said, because the original order allowing men to wear uniforms after discharge was not construed to apply to officers wherein it required the wearing of the red chevron.

In connection with the announcement of the order all former service men are urged to take care of their uniforms.

WILL FORM SECOND TROOP OF BOY SCOUTS

There will be a meeting at the high school building Thursday evening of this week for the purpose of forming a second troop of Boy Scouts in Ashland. Any boy over twelve years of age may join, but those from 14 to 18 are especially desired. All wishing to become members will please be present at this meeting.

AGED MAN SUCCEDED TO SHORT ILLNESS

Thaddeus W. Elmore, the aged father of H. T. Elmore of this city, died at the latter's home on North Main street Sunday night after a short illness. Mr. Elmore was stricken Wednesday with broncho-pneumonia and on account of his advanced age death resulted in a short time. He was 81 years of age and had come from his home in Elmira, New York, last fall to spend the winter with his son.

A brief private funeral was held Monday in the Dodge undertaking parlors with a prayer service conducted by Rev. C. A. Edwards of the Methodist church. The body will be taken to Elmira where it will be laid to rest in the family plot beside his wife. Beside his son, H. T. Elmore of this city, Mr. Elmore is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Ira Allen of La Grange, Ill., and Miss May Elmore of Englewood, N. J.

Mr. Elmore was born in 1837 in Sherburne, N. Y. The family afterward moved to Elmira, N. Y., where the remainder of the life of the deceased was passed. Uniting early with the Park Congregational church, he became a faithful member, being at the time of his death a life deacon. In business life he associated first with his father and later alone for nearly fifty years, where he was honored and respected. He loved his home life and as father in the family circle he was happy in the tender love of his family and those who came into this circle.

Col. Leader Will Be Here Wednesday

Colonel John Leader, instructor in military science at the University of Oregon, will be in Ashland tomorrow, Wednesday, where he will make two addresses. The first will be given to the members of the Senior high school in the morning, while the other will be a mass meeting held in the city hall, at which the public is most cordially urged to be present.

The topics on which Colonel Leader will talk at these meetings will be the Victory loan, military training in high schools and various other military topics pertinent at the present time. He is one of the forceful speakers in the state, and his appearance here will be met with much interest by all who have long wished to hear him speak.

Colonel Leader will address the high school as early in the morning as arrangements can be made. This will be at 8:45 if he arrives at that time. The evening meeting in the city hall will be held at 8 o'clock.

LIME BOARD PAYS FOR MEDICAL CARE

Attorney General Brown has given as his opinion that medical care of convicts who have been employed at the Gold Hill state lime plant must be paid for out of the state lime board and not out of the penitentiary funds. This opinion was given in answer to a query made by Warden Stevens of the state prison. The attorney general holds that food and clothing should be paid for out of the penitentiary funds, but only until such time as the lime board is on a paying basis. The lime board must also pay for transportation, housing, fuel and other supplies as well as supervision and guarding.

WEATHER FORECAST FOR COMING WEEK

Saloons May Close During Train Time

Complaints of drunkenness and disorderly conduct on board passenger trains going thru northern California towns have resulted in train conductors and officials of the service inspection department of the U. S. railroad administration requesting that if this condition is not greatly modified or entirely eliminated, an ordinance be passed closing all saloons during the time the trains are in the yards at the various stations along the line in Siskiyou county.

This state of affairs is declared by trainmen to be worse on south-bound trains, and that discharged soldiers are the chief offenders. Coming from the "dry" north, soldiers who are freed from long restraint, are frequently treated by fellow passengers at the first opportunity presented, and scenes have been enacted on the trains that have caused so much annoyance that officials are compelled to make efforts to stop them.

Victory Loan Drive Planned; Ashland's Quota is $175,000

The executive committee for the Victory loan campaign met this morning in the First National Bank and arranged plans and formulated ways and means for conducting this last call of the government to finish up America's financial obligations in connection with the great world war. The executive committee, which consists of O. Winter, chairman; J. W. McCoy, W. H. McNair, V. O. N. Smith, Rev. C. F. Koehler, L. F. Ferguson and F. J. Shinn, are planning to carry out the raising of the Victory loan, under the same methods so successfully followed during the last Liberty loan, that of voluntary subscriptions, and they hope to sustain the record of meeting the quota that Ashland has always sustained heretofore.

At the meeting today L. F. Ferguson was appointed chairman for the advertising committee, and will have for his assistants, Rev. C. A. Edwards and Homer Billings. Rev. C. F. Koehler was appointed to have charge of the four-minute men who will speak at various times and meetings during the campaign.

Ashland's quota for the Victory loan will be $175,000. While this seems a tremendous sum to meet at this time, the committee in charge feel sure that the amount will be raised with as great an ease as the loans of the past. As Hon. W. G. McAdoo brought out in his address

Soldier Education Act Meets Favor

At a meeting held in the Library building on Monday evening, the subject of arousing public interest and favor for the Soldiers Education Act, which is to be voted on with other measures in June, was presented by Superintendent Briscoe. The Rev. P. K. Hammond was called on to occupy the chair, and after a full and free discussion in which many young soldiers took part, expressing their desire that this act would be adopted, a committee was appointed to take further action, consisting of Superintendent Briscoe, Elwood Hedberg and Merrill Throne. The meeting was an enthusiastic one and representatives of the Ashland banks who were present, offered to take care of the small expense that the campaign might cost.

Schools to Secure War Records

The Council of Defense has appointed Miss Cornelia Marvin, State Librarian of Salem, as state historian to secure the war history of every man who served the United States in any department during the world war. The object of this movement is to record the names and deeds of those who fought in the great conflict of who served the government in any capacity for future reference, to be preserved in the state archives.

Miss Marvin has enlisted the services of State Superintendent J. A. Churchill, who in turn has appealed to the superintendents of the various

Elect Missionary Society Officers

At the joint convention of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society and the Women's Home Missionary Society of the Klamath district of the M. E. church held in Grants Pass last week the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

Foreign Society—President, Mrs. A. C. Masters, Roseburg; corresponding secretary, Mrs. G. F. Billings, Ashland; recording secretary, Mrs. Riley D. Henson, Medford; treasurer, Mrs. J. M. Isham, Grants Pass; superintendent Young People's Work, Mrs. G. F. Billings, Ashland; superintendent Children's Work, Miss Julia Fielder, Medford.

Home Society—President, Mrs. M. C. Reed, Ashland; recording secretary, Mrs. John H. Carlin, Medford; Secretary Young People's Work, Mrs. W. A. Patrick, Ashland; secretary Children's Work, Mrs. Riley D. Henson, Medford; treasurer, Mrs. J. W. Smylie, Medford.

Sunday, the government has only two ways of paying its debts—either with taxes or bonds. If the tax method is employed, you pay your taxes and get a bit of paper to show you have done so. If you buy bonds you make an investment which will be earning interest on it. The latter plan seems to be the most profitable to the individual.

The campaign opens Monday, April 21, and will continue until May 6, and will be the last liberty loan asked for by the government. The terms of the Victory loan have been announced by Secretary Glass and are:

Amount, $4,500,000,000, oversubscriptions to be rejected. Interest, 4% per cent, for partially tax exempt notes, convertible into 3% per cent notes wholly tax exempt.

Maturity, four years, with the treasury reserving the privilege of redeeming the notes in three years. The 3% per cent notes to be issued later also may be converted subsequently back into the 4% per cent notes.

The 4% per cent securities are to be exempt from state and local taxation, exception estate and inheritance taxes, and from normal rates of federal income taxes. The 3% per cent securities are exempt from all federal, state and local taxes, except estate and inheritance taxes.

Truck Went Thru to Klamath Falls

The first big truck from Ashland to Klamath Falls so far as is known went thru last week. This truck is owned by Mr. Chamberlain, a business man of Klamath Falls, and the truck was driven by Joseph Green and accompanied by five other men from this city. They started out from Ashland Wednesday morning, going by way of Ager and avoiding the steep mountain climbs. Tidings from Klamath Falls reached here yesterday that the truck got thru safely with the exception of getting stuck in the mud for two hours along the way.

FARMERS SHORT OF HELP THROUGH STATE

The office of the United States employment service in Portland is being overwhelmed with orders for farm labor.

Orders for experienced men to handle sheep have been received from Wasco and nearly every other county in the eastern part of the state. The wages offered range from $60 to $85 per month, with board. Even at these wages, some of the orders remain unfilled.

Orchardists thruout the Willamette valley, and fruit growers in other sections are calling for men, offering wages ranging from $2 a day with board to $3.50 without.

The beginning of farm and orchard work, and the commencement of highway construction, is rapidly absorbing all idle men who desire to enter that kind of employment.

The weekly summary given out this week by the Portland office of the United States employment bureau shows a total of 4205 unemployed men in Oregon, compared with 6140 a week ago. Still remaining in the list of unemployed are:

Common laborers, 2000; woodsmen, 750; shopwrights, 500; sheet metal workers, 20; pipefitters, 75; painters, none; moulders, 20; engineers, 30; electrical engineers, 20; clerks, 300; carpenters, 350; bridge and structural iron workers, 50; bricklayers, 90; blacksmiths, none.

It is said there is plenty of work in the woods and logging camps, but that many who formerly followed that line now refuse to go out, owing to the reduced wage scale of from 50 cents to $1 a day.

Will Tell Story of Pandita Ramabai

Mrs. Rachel Nalder, of India, representing Pandita Ramabai, will speak in the Congregational church on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. Those who heard her address, on Sunday night at the Christian church, will want to hear her again. Mrs. Nalder is a most interesting speaker. She is passionately devoted to Pandita Ramabai and travels all over the world speaking in her behalf without salary or recompense. She describes the work of this remarkable Hindoo woman, rescuing and saving the orphan children and child widows of India with great vividness and eloquence, and wins the sympathy of all who hear her.

The "Passion Week" services will continue Thursday and Friday. The pastor will speak on both these evenings. Everybody welcome.

JUSTICE COURT UPHELD CRAB LAW IN COOS CO.

MARSHFIELD, Oregon—Charles Feller, who has started a suit to kill the crab law applying to shipments from Coos county, lost $25 as a starter in Justice E. H. Joehnk's court, when the law was upheld. The case will be appealed. Mr. Feller declared, to the circuit court.

The hope to break the law is based upon the fact a cannery was established and permitted to ship canned crabs by a law passed four years ago and still in force. Mr. Feller seeks to ship without canning. The contest today was well prepared by both sides and a legal instrument of 16 pages was presented by the defense.

SPECIAL MEETINGS AT NAZARENE CHURCH

Rev. J. M. Wines, pastor of the Northwest Nazarene College church at Nampa, Idaho, will hold a five days convention in the local Nazarene church, beginning Wednesday and closing Sunday night. Rev. Wines at one time District Superintendent of the Indiana District, and an evangelist of large experience, is a representative man in the Nazarene movement. You cannot afford to miss these meetings. No afternoon services unless announced later. Every evening at 8 o'clock. Tell your friends.

DORMAN D. EDWARDS, Pastor.

According to a Paris correspondent to the London Sunday Observer the main items of peace with Germany have been substantially agreed upon by the council of four. The only problem which they have not yet approached is that of the Bohemian border, he says. This problem, he points out, is intricate as it raises the question as to whether a considerable number of Germans must be included in the Czechoslovak state. He continues:

"The question of Danzig will likely be settled by setting up a kind of autonomous state in that district while including it in the Polish customs area."

The correspondent understands that President Wilson has definitely agreed to the proposal originated by Premier Lloyd George which essentially consists in giving France ownership of the Saar coal mines while making the district a neutral state under the League of Nations. The questions of reparation and of disarmament in the Rhine region, he says, seem also to have been more or less settled in their broad outlines.

"Whether the treaty will be ready by Easter is, of course, another question," the correspondent continues.

"The important fact is, however, that the council of four seems to have agreed on all fundamental points."

As to the western border of Germany, the correspondent states he has it on good authority that Premier Clemenceau's main object has been from the first day of the conference to pave the way to a settlement that "should be entirely based on the idea of right which since 1870 has been embodied in Alsace-Lorraine" and that the settlement of the Czechoslovak question should be entirely acceptable to the English speaking democracies.

"Those who believed he would try to annex to France the whole or part of the left bank of the Rhine entirely misunderstood his intention," he declares. "Truly enough when the question of the western border of Germany came before the council of four he asked at first for a rectification of the frontier which would amount to re-establishing the French border of 1814. To understand such a demand it must be recalled that the comparatively small district extending between the border of 1870 and the border of 1814 includes places such as Sarrelouis, where eighty per cent of the inhabitants are said to be in favor of reunion with France.

"Still, as objection was raised inside the council of four that such a step might be interpreted as amount-

Real Estate Dealers Must Get License

At the last session of the Legislature, House Bill No. 425 became a law, requiring any person or firm desirous of carrying on the business of a real estate broker in the State to make application for license to the State Commission upon payment of a license fee of $5.00, together with a bond in the amount of $1,000 to insure the commission against fraudulent representation, said application to be accompanied with a recommendation of ten free-holders of the county in which the applicant intends to carry on his principal business as a real estate broker. This law is intended to check dishonest curbstone transactions.
