George E. Stannard, one of this year's high school graduates, left for Portland Thursday evening where he expects to have employment this summer. He intended stopping at Eugene and Corvallis while enroute to look over the universities, one of which he expects to attend the coming year.

Mrs. E. V. Jones received a letter from her son, Ray E. Helman, who has been with the Army of Occupation since the signing of the armistice, saying they had recently moved from Dungenheim to Mayachoes, near Coblenz on the Rhine. But was hoping their next move would be toward home.

William C. Harvey, a Brother of St. Andrew worker stationed at Camp Lewis, was an Ashland visitor Thursday, and spent the day while in the city in company with Rev. P. K. Hammond in looking over the interesting sights. Ashland with its beautiful park and shaded streets appealed to Mr. Harvey, who expressed a wish that he could live in this locality, or at least establish his family here while he is engaged in war work.

Among the automobiles in the free auto park the first of the week was one bearing the banner, "Boston to Oregon," and was driven by Paul C. King of the former city. Accompanying Mr. King were his wife and two daughters. These people had started from the Hub of the Universe last fall, and had arrived at Colorado Springs, Colo., where the winter was spent. In April they started on west and arrived here this week on their way to Bend.

She was one of the popular young girls of this city during her residence here. Mr. Williams lately returned home from France where he served with the famous 91st division. After a short honeymoon the young couple expect to go to Imperial Valley where Mr. Williams will locate in the jewelry business.

Walker of this city, and had recently returned from service in the United States army where he served in the dental corps. On receiving his discharge he went to Astoria to locate and has already made a place for himself in a professional life.

CAUSES FOR CANDY CONSUMPTION

Prohibition has encouraged the manufacture of all kinds of sweet foods and drinks to take the place of the huge sums formerly spent for alcohol.

The consumption of candy and sugar in various forms is increasing and the simple fact is that chocolates and bombons contain more "calories to the pound" than booze. Young and old crave sweets simply for the stored vitality and concentrated food value, because the cheapest forms of candy contain 1400 "calories to the pound."

What are "calories to the pound"? Simply so many units of life-giving heat or energy, sugar being exceeded only by rice and corn, and even milk is left far behind.
While there has been a nationwide propaganda to create greater consumption of milk and prices of dairy products have gone skyward, sugar has not climbed.
