Astoria feels none of the dog-in-the-manger spirit for Portland. The fight the Oregonian is making for a share of the government transport service for Portland has Astoria's warmest sympathy. If Astoria cannot get any of this business, by all means let it go to Portland in preference to Puget sound or San Francisco. It is certainly not to Astoria's advantage to have commerce go to Washington or California. It is Astoria's advantage to have commerce come to Oregon. If the Astorian was unkindly inclined toward Portland, some particulars of the Oregonian's statements about the draft and cargo of certain ships cited to prove the depth of Portland's channel might be answered. Has Portland and the Oregonian ever shown this spirit of forbearance regarding the interests and aims of Astoria and the Astorian? And if not, why not? Isn't there commerce Astoria might do and which Portland cannot get and which might be brought to Astoria with a little encouragement from Portland and the Oregonian? We know there is, and so does the Oregonian. Has the Oregonian ever advocated any commerce at Astoria? When the agitation was first started to have government transports come to the Columbia river, and it was apparent that army officers opposed such action, whether out of ignorance or from other motives, did the Oregonian suggest that the objections made to Portland did not apply to Astoria? The Oregonian knew that these objections could not be raised to Astoria; did the Oregonian say so, or did that paper acquiesce in the sending of these transports to San Francisco and Seattle? Particularly, weren't there good reasons of patriotism and of physical and moral welfare why the transports bearing the Oregon troops from Manila should have landed at Astoria rather than at San Francisco? And didn't the Oregonian know that the main reason alleged by the government for ordering these transports to San Francisco was because it was not deemed good policy to send transports NEEDED FOR QUICK SERVICE so far up the Columbia river as Portland? Doesn't the Oregonian know now that the chief difficulty in embarking the Vancouver regiment from the Columbia river is the danger of detention apprehended in traversing the 100-mile channel between Portland and Astoria? Portland is about to send a delegation to Washington to urge the embarkation of these troops at Portland. Suppose the government declines to accede to this request, on the grounds above stated, or because of doubt as to the sufficiency of water in the channel. Will this Portland delegation and the Oregonian, knowing that these objections cannot be urged against Astoria, advocate the next best to save this business for Oregon—the loading of the troops at Astoria? Perhaps the Portland delegation and the Oregonian will do this. The people of Astoria will be watchful. We shall see.

Advocates of inland river navigation for deep water ships have tried to make it appear that the tendency of modern ship construction is to decreased draft notwithstanding the increase in carrying capacity. In other words, it is sometimes gravely asserted that ship builders have mastered the problem of putting big ships on shallow bottoms and that deep water is no longer a prime requisite to seaport location as in other days. The most superficial reader ought to know that this isn't true. At no time has there been so much agitation for the creation of deep water harbors right at the seacoast as at present. Nearly every seaport of prominence, in Europe and America, is increasing its harbor depth, and solely because the ocean carrying trade now demands the employment of deeper ships than have ever been known before. Increased cargo capacity has been gained on the latest steamers by the improvement in propelling machinery and in this way heavier cargoes are carried on the same draft and tonnage than could be formerly carried. But the size and tonnage of ocean vessels of all sorts has increased to enormous proportions within the last ten years, and the seaport supremacy of the future depends upon the accommodation of these larger vessels. The White Star steamer Oceanic just now at New York on her maiden voyage is a refutation of the statements and theories of the inland port defender. While the hull of this ship is neither so broad nor deep as the Great Eastern, it is a fact that she draws seven feet more water than the Great Eastern. The Oceanic is 704 feet long, or nearly fifty per cent longer than the latest and longest of the monster steel ore carriers on the great lakes, and double the length of the average "steel monster" built on the lakes within the last three or four years, with the exception of the very latest contracts. Her beam is 61 feet, which is about fifty per cent wider than the average of the recently built lake steel freighters, although she is fifteen feet narrower than the Great Eastern. She draws nearly 14 feet more water than a lake vessels can load to and pass through the channels connecting the lakes.

To be the mother of many children is a rare blessing among nature's chief blessings but when the trials of frequent motherhood, it is too great a burden for a woman who is not in prime health and condition. Every woman who is called upon to bear the ordeal of bringing many children into the world needs the support and reinforcement of that wonderful strength promoting "Favorite Prescription" originated by Dr. E. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., and one of the most eminent of living specialists in treating the ailments of women.

Mrs. David H. Langley, of Lansing, Michigan, in a recent letter to Dr. Pierce, writes: "I am now thirty-six years old and have given birth to thirteen children. Eight only are living. I have twin boys six years old. The same spring after they were born I was confined to my bed for six weeks. I was so weak and nervous that I could hardly walk around the house without feeling worse. I was restless at night, sleep almost left me, and I was almost a skeleton. I did not call my doctor as I had tried the doctors twice before when I was down with the same trouble, and my husband paid out a great deal for me. I received no lasting benefit. No one can know the distress of my mind as well as I do. My husband had to work very hard and I could not even attend to the house. One day I was so weak that I could not get up. After I had taken the first bottle and part of the second, I could sleep well and all my troubles began to get better. I believe I took eight bottles and then I felt like a different person. I gave birth to another baby and my old complaint came back. I began using the 'Favorite Prescription' and was soon relieved and was able to do my work, including the washing."

Mothers would be immensely helped in raising their children strong and healthy by the sound professional advice contained in Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Advice. This thousand-page book will be sent free for 21 one-cent stamps to pay the cost of mailing only. Address, World's Dispensary Med. Assn., Buffalo, N. Y., or send 31 stamps for a cloth-bound copy.

Foul-Smelling Catarrh.

Catarrh is one of the most obstinate diseases, and hence the most difficult to get rid of. There is but one way to cure it. The disease is in the blood, and all the sprays, washes and inhalant mixtures in the world can have no permanent effect whatever upon it. Swift's Specific cures Catarrh permanently, for it is the only remedy which can reach the disease and force it from the blood.

Mr. R. P. McAllister, of Harrodsburg, Ky., had Catarrh for years. He writes: "I could see no improvement whatever, though I was constantly treated with sprays and washes, and different inhalant remedies. In fact, I could feel that each winter I was worse than the year before. 'Finally I was brought to my senses that Catarrh was a blood disease, and after thinking over the matter, I decided to try Swift's Specific. I was to expect to be cured by a remedy which only reached the surface. I then decided to try Swift's Specific, and after a few bottles were used, I noticed a perceptible improvement. Continuing the remedy, the disease was forced out of my system, and a complete cure was the result. I advise all who have this dreadful disease to abandon their local treatment, which has never done them any good, and take Swift's Specific, which can reach the disease and cure it. I have never had a return of the disease since." To continue the wrong treatment for Catarrh is to continue to suffer. Swift's Specific is a real blood remedy, and cures obstinate, deep-seated diseases, which other remedies have no effect whatever upon. It promptly reaches Catarrh, and never fails to cure even the most aggravated cases.

A WONDERFUL CURE OF DIARRHOEA.

A PROMINENT VIRGINIA EDITOR

Had Almost Given Up, but Was Brought Back to Perfect Health by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

READ HIS EDITORIAL.
From the Times, Hillsdale, Va.
I suffered with diarrhoea for a long time and thought I was past being cured. I had spent much time and money and suffered so much misery that I had almost decided to give up all hope of recovery and await the result, but noticing the advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and also some testimonials stating how some wonderful cures had been wrought by this remedy, I decided to try it. After taking a few doses I was entirely well of that trouble, and I wish to say further to my readers and fellow sufferers that I am a hale and hearty man today and feel as well as I ever did in my life.—O. R. Moore, Editor by Charles Rogers.

E. E. Turner, Compton, Mo., was cured of piles by DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve after suffering seventeen years and trying over twenty remedies. Physicians and surgeons endorse it. Beware of dangerous counterfeits. Chas. Rogers.

The idle mendicant, the labor agitator, and the cheap money demagogue have had their vocations now enjoyed by the people of the republic.—Philadelphia Times.

"They are simply perfect," writes Robt. Moore, of Lafayette, Ind., of DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the "famous little pills" for constipation and all liver ailments. Never gripe. Chas. Rogers.

There are some single women who are old maids at twenty, while others at forty never seem to deserve the appellation. DeWitt's Little Early Risers permanently cure chronic constipation, biliousness, nervousness and worn-out feeling; cleanse and regulate the entire system. Small, pleasant, never gripe or sicken—"famous little pills." Chas. Rogers.

If a thing turns out to be a success we always like to claim that it was our suggestion, but if it proves a failure we are very ready to disclaim any part in it.

"Best on the market for coughs and colds and all bronchial troubles; for croup it has no equal," writes Henry R. Whitford, South Canaan, Conn., of One Minute Cough Cure. Chas. Rogers.

A WORD TO MOTHERS.
Mothers of children affected with croup or a severe cold need not hesitate to administer Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It contains no opiate nor narcotic in any form and may be given as confidently to a babe as to an adult. The great success that has attended its use in the treatment of croup and colds has won for it the approval and praise it has received throughout the United States and in many foreign lands. For sale by Chas. Rogers.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address, F. J. burns brighter to-day than ever before, and yet there are many people lower down in the scale of life than they ought to be or want to be. The problems of progression can only be solved by thinking, educated men and women. A need therefore exists for great educational power which is far reaching in its influence. Such a need is supplied by the world-renowned Encyclopædia Britannica. It represents concentrated thought from the beginning of the world to the present hour. No subject in the realm of reason is left out. The information is easily found, and is clear, concise, authentic, the latest, the most complete, and the best.
