VANDERBILT'S WILL. The Estate Is Valued at Over One Hundred Million,

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.-Cornelius Vanderbilt, who has been the shadow of death for several years, and who was one of the most methodical of men, left a carefully drawn will, but its terms are not known. His friends post, think it will make provision for the charity in which he was interested.

No estimate of the estate's value is less than $100,000,000. There had been reconciliation between Cornellus Vanderbilt jr. and his parents, who opposed his marriage with Miss Grace Wilson, and it is doubtful if discrimination will be made against him. On he death of Cornelius Vanderbilt, his prother, William K., becomes head of the family, and made arrangements for the funeral and will see to the propating of the will. Mr. Vanderbilt's death will force the retirement of the large Vanderbilt family from any participation in the social doings of the fashionable world for some time to come, and will also close to the members of the gay world several of the larger mansions in New York.
