Shortly after the British ship Drumburton anchored in the harbor Sunday evening she was boarded by the sailor boarding house runners of this city and those of Portland. Six sailors were secured by Jack Moody, the Astoria man. This aroused the ire of the Portland people and soon a fight ensued. Dick McCarron was the leader of the Portland gang and in the melee Moody was knocked down, but, aside from two blackened eyes, he was not seriously hurt. McCarron, however, captured the six sailors and brought them ashore.

THE MUSKOKA'S CREW.

Supplied by the Resident Boarding House Masters in Spite of the Portland Gang.

The steamer State of California on her arrival here Sunday morning brought 18 men to fill out the crew for the British ship Muskoka, and they were transferred to the ship in the lower harbor where she was anchored. The sailors made no efforts to escape and had no complaints to make as far as could be learned.

Twenty-two men in all were required by the ship, but six of them had already shipped from Seattle.

The Muskoka has been in the harbor several days waiting a crew, and as the Portland sailor boarding houses were unable to supply the crew, Captain Crow looked to the boarding house in Astoria to furnish the sailors when he arrived down here from Portland. The Muskoka came down here practically without a crew, having only three apprentices on board and two seamen.

The mysterious disappearance of Paddy Lynch, one of the sailor boarding house keepers of Astoria, is still a matter of discussion among his acquaintances in this city. Lynch left Astoria for Seattle about two weeks ago for the purpose of engaging sailors for the British ship Muskoka. He sent a telegraph message to John J. Kenney Saturday last a week ago, since which time nothing has been heard from him. Lynch is a man who has the reputation of being able to take care of himself in any emergency and the assertion that he has been shanghaied or murdered by Seattle sailor runners is scouted by his associates in this city. In speaking of the affair yesterday John J. Kenney said:

"Five of us were engaged by Frank Turk at Seattle, but two of the men refused to leave at the last moment, stating that they would not go on the Muskoka, as she has a hard name. Three of us came along, however, in charge of Turk, and, after going a short distance on the railroad we were given $5 each and told we could go on whatever we chose.

"When we arrived at Kelso, Wash., we were transferred to the steamer Eclipse and brought to Astoria. On reaching here we were taken starboard to the Muskoka and placed on board of her. We were requested to sign articles, and did so. We were promised by Turk, however, that we would be taken ashore immediately afterwards. We were promised this beforehand, or otherwise we would not have signed the articles. Turk, the mate and the captain had a private conversation in the meantime, and as soon as the articles were signed we were sent forward by the mate and shown the forecastle. Then we noticed that the launch, having on board Turk and the others, was pulling off from the ship. We asked what the meaning of this was as we were promised to be taken ashore on condition that we return at 6 o'clock in the morning. Turk replied from the launch that he would take us ashore as soon as he had settled some business in Astoria. We knew afterward that we were being deceived, as the launch did not return. A watchman from the boarding house came on board soon after the launch left. He displayed two revolvers and said he would shoot any one who tried to escape from the vessel.

"The only outfit we got from Turk was two blankets and a few tin utensils to be used for our meal rations. The blankets were to be returned as soon as we were ready to sail. None of us had any clothes on board and we were soon aware that Turk had broken his promise."

Sullivan then concluded to swim ashore, but after reaching Elmore's cannery was picked up by fishermen. Sullivan is a young man and rather intelligent. He claims to be a son of Attorney Daniel T. Sullivan and a nephew of ex-Judge of the Superior Court Jeremiah Sullivan, of San Francisco. Sullivan on reaching the city caused habeas corpus proceedings to be instituted before County Judge Gray for two of his companions who claimed to be detained on board against their will. The case was heard yesterday morning before Judge Gray and the two sailors after they had proven they were American citizens were discharged. The men gave their names as McKenzie and Degan.

John J. Kenney was seen by an Astorian representative yesterday regarding the treatment of the Muskoka's crew. Mr. Kenney said the men were supplied with everything usually furnished sailors on a European voyage and had no just cause for complaint. He said the Portland boarding house masters always stir up trouble when sailors are shipped from Astoria. Mr. Kenney is the head of the firm of Kenney, Turk & Lynch, and produced the following letter from Captain Crowe, of the Muskoka which was giv-

Ship Muskoka, Astoria, Sept. 17, 1899. Gentlemen—This is to certify that on leaving this port I take pleasure in stating that I have been supplied with a crew of 22 men by Kenney and Turk, of Astoria, in preference to the Portland combination, and I have no hesitation in recommending them to my friends as they give better terms and will carry out to the letter any agreement entered into and they have my best wishes for success in putting another side on this grabbing business done in Portland. ALBERT CROWE Master.

WAS LYNCH SHANGHAIED?

His Partners Do Not Believe So, But Say He Was Merely "Staked Out" by the Opposition.

The mysterious disappearance of Paddy Lynch, one of the sailor boarding house keepers of Astoria, is still a matter of discussion among his acquaintances in this city. Lynch left Astoria for Seattle about two weeks ago for the purpose of engaging sailors for the British ship Muskoka. He sent a telegraph message to John J. Kenney Saturday last a week ago, since which time nothing has been heard from him. Lynch is a man who has the reputation of being able to take care of himself in any emergency and the assertion that he has been shanghaied or murdered by Seattle sailor runners is scouted by his associates in this city. In speaking of the affair yesterday John J. Kenney said:

"Lynch has been doped by the sailor runners of Seattle and will turn up all right. We have always met hard opposition from the sailor boarding houses on the Sound. Lynch was sent to the Sound for the purpose of supplying men for the Muskoka. The ship has had a hard name and Lynch understood that before he left here. It is reported here that he was shanghaied on the Rufus E. Wood, which sailed from Seattle a week ago for Australia. I do not believe this, as a recent arrival from Seattle says he was seen after the Wood sailed. My opinion is that he was 'staked out' until after the Muskoka sailed. The Sound people thought we could not supply the Muskoka and as soon as they hear of her departure Lynch will be released."

Mr. Kenney said Lynch had no reason to leave Astoria. When he left here he had $100 belonging to the firm to defray his expenses, which amount it was thought he would require to bring the sailors to this city. He had also unlimited credit among his employers.

"If he is shanghaied on the Rufus E. Wood," said Mr. Kenney, "I will telegraph the necessary money for him to return on from Australia, but I do not believe he is on the ship."

SEEING WITH OUR FEELINGS.

A physician makes the statement that we see with our feelings. There is more truth in this than the thoughtless will perceive. For instance, take a man or woman with a weak stomach which has not the power of giving the blood the nourishment it requires. The system is filled with poisonous bile. Poor blood coursing through the brain poisons and weakens it, and the sufferer is utterly incapable of enjoying beauty of any sort, or even a hearty meal. The reason the bilious and the dyspeptic who takes Hostetter's Stomach Bitters finds life brighter and pleasanter, is because it cleanses the system and strengthens the stomach.
