The transport steamer City of Rio de Janeiro arrived in yesterday from San Francisco. She was delayed off the river Friday by a heavy fog. After clearing at the customs house she left up the river for Portland in charge of Pilot Pease. Her draught of water was only 20 feet and it is believed she can get up to Portland without serious difficulty.

The Norwegian tramp steamer "Guernsey" came in yesterday afternoon and went up to Portland to load at the North Pacific Lumber mills. Probably the logs for this lumber were towed up to Portland past Astoria. To a man up a tree it would seem that herein is an expensive waste that might be stopped—greatly to the advantage of Astoria.

The government transport Sikh arrived in yesterday afternoon from San Francisco. She made good time up the coast and arrived off the river early yesterday morning. The heavy weather, however, prevented her from crossing in. The pilot boat Pultizer was on the lookout for her and put a pilot aboard soon after she arrived. She anchored off Smiths Point on arriving, and will leave up for Portland this morning.

Astoria's police judge and auditor does not claim to be an anatomist. He had a touch of lumbago and purchased and pasted on his back a plaster, but it brought no relief. On investigation, he found he had it too far down, so he bought a new one and put it on just above the other. When last seen he was ready to invest again if the second doesn't do the work. He says he will hit the right spot if he has to shingle himself with porous plasters.

The public schools of Astoria commence their work Monday after four months of rest. Many parents think the vacation is altogether too long as in such time children are apt to grow out of the study habit. It has been suggested that in Astoria June is not an uncomfortable month for school-room work and it might be beneficial to end the third term on the 30th of that month. The assignment of teachers and principals for the coming term will be found in another column.

It is not probable that there will be any further reduction in fares between Astoria and Portland, although nothing is certain in a rate war. If there is to be another decapitation, none of the transportation companies' representatives here seem to know anything about it. Extremely low fares cannot be profitable to the companies. They upset business and induce people to travel who cannot afford to travel even free. The wish is general that some permanent agreement will soon be reached.

Yesterday in the circuit court was devoted to the trial of the case of D. J. Ingalls vs. Olson Bros. The plaintiff seeks to enjoin the defendants from operating dams to float logs down the Lewis and Clarke river, claiming that artificial freshets thus created wash away the river banks and otherwise damage his farm which lies along the river. There was much evidence introduced yesterday as to the effect the body of water held by these dams had when let loose. The case will be concluded today.

The Norwegian steamer Guernsey, Captain Hansen in charge, arrived in yesterday, 13 days from Yokohama in ballast, and left up for Portland after clearing at the customs house. The Guernsey is of 2,500 tons burden and made a quick trip from Yokohama. She is of the whaleback type of steamer and is chartered by the North Pacific Lumber Company, of Portland, to load lumber for Vladivostok. She left up for Portland in charge of Pilot Empkins. The Guernsey was drawing 14 feet of water.

Pague, the Portland prophet, has been smelling rain for four days and yesterday it came. A local philosopher ascribes the superabundance of moisture in Oregon this year to downright jealousy and to Mr. Vail, the Manila postmaster. Mr. Vail is an Oregonian and he has written several times that it rains more in one week in the Philippines than it does in Oregon in a year. This offended the pride of the web-foot state. She wasn't going to allow any copper colored country, expansion or no expansion, rob her of her well earned reputation and if needs be, she will have a rainy season all the year 'round.

The weather outside was unusually stormy yesterday, the latest report from the cape giving the velocity of the wind at 25 miles an hour, with a heavy fog prevailing. The British ship Blythwood, from Liverpool, which was reported off the river Friday, was not sighted at any time during yesterday, and she is probably well out to sea. The two government transports, City of Rio de Janeiro and Sikh, crossed in the former in the morning and the latter late in the afternoon. The tug Samson, with a rock-laden barge in tow for Grays harbor, went down to the mouth of the river, but was unable to cross out and returned to her dock.

Many of the smaller postoffices of the state, which usually carry only a small supply of blanks, are using the new form of money order adopted by the department and several have been paid at the Astoria office. The new orders are the size and shape of an ordinary bank draft and much more simple than the old style. The advice is a carbon copy of the original and a receipt to be returned is given the purchaser after the manner of express money orders. Circulars recently received state that the department intends reducing the fees soon. The new features will tend to still further popularize this method of forwarding money. The Astoria office will begin using the new blanks in about three weeks.

The schooner Jessie moved down to the lower harbor yesterday and will leave out on her deepsea fishing cruise as soon as the weather settles. The Jessie is in command of Captain Henderson and carries a crew of 14 men, and is provided with six dories. Dick Carruthers and Mr. Belshaw are also on board. The Jessie will go to the halibut banks off Cape Flattery and from there move on to those off Cape Fox. She carries in tons of ice and has a month's provisions on board, and it is expected that she will return in about three weeks. She is well prepared for the trip and will doubtless bring back a good fare of deepsea fish. The Jessie is regarded as one of the fastest and best schooners ever engaged is necessary to success. Students of "Armstrong's Combined Theory and Practice of Bookkeeping" acquire this. They begin by writing up a model set of books prepared to illustrate the science of accounts. Each step in this work is fully explained by the teacher. In disposing of a complicated transaction after that, the student refers to an entry in this model set containing similar conditions, and studies out the application himself—the teacher seeing that the work is done correctly. The student thus develops into a self-reliant thinker. Investigate this new method of teaching. It makes bookkeeping easy. Call, or write.
