Mr. John Brice received a telegram from Fairhaven, Wash., yesterday saying that the cannery at the Aberdeen Packing Co. at that place had been destroyed by fire Sunday night.

The following Astorians were passengers on the train from Portland last night: Ed Schlage, Lein Hawes, Mr. Deilin, Mr. Trenwith, Mrs. Charlie Stockton and Miss Daisy Stockton.

Miss Watt is in the city, visiting Mrs. Steymour of this city, but now with Butterfield of Portland, accompanied by his wife, will leave for that city today, where they will permanently reside.

"Just like Jolla." This is what a Portland gentleman said of the delicious chocolates made at the Spa Candy Factory. You will say the same when you try them. There are none better.

Astoria was thronged with visitors Sunday. The noon train had a string of a dozen coaches filled with Portlanders who took advantage of the very cheap rates to visit Astoria and vicinity.

The Portland district Epworth League convention met last evening in Central church, Portland. The delegates appointed by the local league left on yesterday morning's train to attend the session.

There will be a Halloween party given by the young people in the basement of the Episcopal church tonight. Features: Music, refreshments, games, etc. Everybody invited to be present. No admission fee.

The item in the Saturday Astorian relative to "Sorrow Kid" and his sitting propensities was true in every particular, notwithstanding the fact that an evening paper failed to discover all the details of the case.

There are no better eastern confections made than Lowrey's celebrated chocolates, which secured the highest awards at the world's fair over all competitors. These famous chocolates are sold at the Spa Candy Factory.

There will be a wedding on the Salvation Army "big go" plan tomorrow evening at the Taylor street church of Portland. Staff Captain Bigney, of New York, and Ensign Hawks of Portland, are to be the interested parties.

Portland was overflowing last Friday and Saturday, and all the hotels turned away would-be guests. It was the closing time of the Portland exposition and people from all parts of the state flocked in to see the cake-walk and hear the rag-time music.

The building on Bond street that was formerly known as the Creamery restaurant will soon be occupied by the Lawns hardware store. Painters and carpenters are now at work remodeling the place and making all necessary changes for the occupant.

Letters addressed as follows remained uncalled for at the Astoria postoffice October 30: Brown, Lawrence; Johnson, J. A. (3); Myers, H. G.; Munson, Mrs. Otto; Nelson, Chris.; Palmer, A.; Rudlo, Mrs. Mattie (2); Warner, C. R.; Foreign-McNaughton, Isaac; Olson, Johan; Poekaia, Emil.

At a meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Congregational church, officers were elected for the coming year. Following are the officers and the officers they are elected to fill. President, Mrs. E. M. Curran; vice president, Mrs. C. P. Zigler; treasurer, Mrs. Exstrom; secretary, Mrs. A. M. Bishop.

The published report that the wife and baby of Beecher Sloop are suffering from small-pox is entirely without foundation, says Dr. Henderson, the city physician. The child is slightly ill from the effects of vaccination, but has not the slightest indication of any other complaint. Mrs. Sloop is in the best of health.

H. A. Webber, leader of the Marquon Grand orchestra, Portland, and one of the most accomplished teachers of the mandolin, guitar and banjo on the Pacific coast, has, at the solicitation of his Astoria friends, concluded to conduct a Saturday-night class in this city during the ensuing season. Communications may be left with Griffin & Reed.

The Astoria Gas Light Company has just received from the Caledonian Coal Company, Australia, another cargo of their celebrated Wallsend Coal. This bituminous coal has the reputation of being the finest fuel coal in the world, and our coke made from the same contains 90 per cent carbon, making it an excellent fuel. See that your drayman delivers you none other. Price, $8 per ton.

Over half a thousand Portlanders came down on the Sunday morning train, and many more arrived on the boats. These returned in the evening, and with them hundreds of others who had come down Saturday or earlier in the week, so that it is estimated that the exodus of Portlanders Sunday night included 1,500 people. As long as the present low rates continue, the Sunday crowd from the metropolis will be large.

M. Susman was yesterday seized with a sudden attack of rheumatism, which rendered him almost helpless. He had made arrangements to go to Portland on business, and left on this morning's train. After reaching the city his wife received a dispatch that he was growing worse, but later news states that he is resting easier, but is under a physician's care.

Harold Webber, director of the Marquon Grand orchestra of Portland, is in the city visiting his father, Mr. Nick Webber. Mr. Webber is an accomplished musician, and he refers, as the beginning of his musical career, to an Astoria cornet band organized many years ago. He is manager of a concert company that has won an enviable reputation in the larger coast cities, and he may make arrangements to give a concert in Astoria.

Miss Sigee Palmberg, recently arriving from the East, desires to announce to the ladies of Astoria that she has opened dressmaking parlors on Ninth street, near Commercial, next door to Lullinger's printing office. Miss Palmberg has had thorough experience in cutting and fitting ladies' garments of all kinds, particularly tailor-made suits and cloaks of the latest and most fashionable designs.

All Astorians who visit Portland and desire spending a pleasant evening in company with polite people and in the enjoyment of an unexcelled musical program, should go to the Fredericksburg. Besides vocal and instrumental selections there are many other attractions to delight the visitors. The new management is making the Fredericksburg a well-merited success.

It is said that there were 250,000 paid admissions at the Trans-Mississippi exposition to view the great electrical production of the battle of Manila. Among the visitors were President McKinley and his cabinet, Chauncey Depew, the Chinese and Korean legations and others. The famous Frenchman, Auguste Demme of Marseilles, was in the fight and photographed it with accuracy. The original exhibition will be given at Fisher's opera house on Wednesday and Thursday of this week.

Thomas Whitehorn, one of Benton county's business men, is in the city and will remain several days. Mr. Whitehorn is not altogether a stranger in Astoria, for it was here that he first landed in America, an almost penniless sailor boy. He fished here awhile and engaged in other occupations, then went to the Willamette valley and located at Corvallis. By strict attention to business and straightforward methods he has become a responsible and respected citizen.

The football team of the A. F. C. has made arrangements for two games in the near future. On the 12th of next month a game will be played with the Bishop Scouts and on Thanksgiving day one with the Chemawa Indians. A challenge has been submitted by the Multnomah team, but the boys will not accept it just at present, as they have not been in practice long enough to justify themselves in doing so. However, they will soon give them a game, and will no doubt—but time will tell the story.

It was not expected that the great electrical entertainment, which presents in actual motion Dewey's world-famous battle of Manila, the fight at San Juan, the battleship Oregon in action, the Madrid bull-fight and other remarkable features, would favor Astoria with an entertainment while on tour on the Pacific coast, but yesterday, thanks to the extra ordinary enterprise of Manager Seltz, the attraction was secured, and on the evenings of Wednesday and Thursday of this week our citizens will be privileged to see the identical production which created such a furore at the Omaha exposition. Who is there in Astoria that will fail to attend and witness the greatest battle that was ever fought on the ocean? The big guns will be seen bolting forth fire and smoke, and the Spanish ships will be won ablaze, with their magazines exploding. Thousands of people have been thrilled and delighted by this marvellously realistic show. A crowded house is a certainty. Manager Seltz is to be congratulated on inducing the owners of the exhibition to appear here.

The great ad of the San Francisco Store, which appears in another part of the Astorian, is yielding splendid results for the enterprising house which presents it. Mr. Danziger proposed letting the people of this city and vicinity know that he had a large variety of 1899 styles in clothing that would be sold at prices to absolutely compel patronage. He told his story in this paper. The consequence was that the facts were read by the public and believed. He had had a rush, and it is a pleasure to state that a merchant so enterprising gets his returns. Two clothing houses are now virtually doing all the clothing and overcoat business of Astoria. It is because they advertise. People like to deal with firms that use printer's ink, and therefore continually have new stocks to select from. The man who doesn't advertise invariably has a dusty and out-of-date assortment, and is the fellow, above all others, to let alone. He isn't to be trusted, because he is niggardly and dangerous to deal with. Always go to the big advertiser. He will be as liberal with you as with the newspaper.

"Judge," the diminutive canine belonging to Fred Saliz, has been in a peck of trouble for the past three days. This small dog had probably been reading a dog translation of Robinson Crusoe, and, enthused with the idea of having a book written about him, sailed out to seek adventures. He found them. "Judge" turned up missing Friday, and a search for his recovery was at once instituted, but without favorable results. Mr. Saliz returned to his horse-tailoring establishment broken-hearted, and was undecided whether to move to Philadelphia or spend the remainder of his days in a monastery, when lo! Homer Fletcher appeared upon the scene. Yesterday morning Mr. Fletcher heard a dog howling beneath the Columbia machine shop, and upon investigation discovered "Judge," solitary and alone, upon a log, piteously howling. The long, being rocked by the waves, was knocked about among the piles, and the chilled little animal had all he could do to retain his position. How he ever got in his tight fix will forever remain a dark, dank mystery, but he has been rescued, and peace is again restored.

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT.

Judge McBride presided at an adjourned session of the circuit court yesterday. The following orders were handed down:

Theo. Bracker vs. G. Wingate et al., settled and dismissed.

Assignment of I. W. Case, distribution of proceeds of sale of bank stock. J. V. Pope vs. Frank Faber et al., settled and dismissed.

W. W. Whipple vs. L. E. Wigam, settled and dismissed.

S. Hamilton vs. City of Astoria, plaintiff's motion that defendant answer more specifically argued.

BROWN-ANDERSON NUPTIALS.

A pretty home wedding occurred at the residence of Mrs. Osgood, 368 Commercial street, yesterday afternoon, when the marriage of Mr. Clarence J. Brown of this city and Miss Lucile N. Anderson of Oakland, Cal., was solemnized. Rev. Isaac Peart, pastor of the Methodist church officiated, and the beautiful rites lost nothing of their impressiveness by the simplicity of the services.

Only a few very intimate friends and immediate relatives were present. After the ceremony a tempting and bountiful wedding dinner was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown left on the evening train for Portland, from whence they go to Seattle. They will make Astoria their home.

REPORTED DISASTER.

False Rumor of White's Fall Awakens Concert.

The report that General White, with his 12,000 British soldiers, had surrendered at Ladysmith, aroused great interest, and especially among the English residents of Astoria, who could thoroughly appreciate all that such a disaster would mean.

To them such a catastrophe would not only suggest the loss of 12,000 men, but a moral effect that would be something sickening to contemplate. Everywhere that Great Britain holds her authority by her prestige over still rebellious people there would be uprisings and slaughter if such a vast defeat should lessen the influence of the dread Englishman's military prowess.

There were many visits and frequent telephoning to the Astorian office yesterday by people anxious to know the truth. There was a general feeling of relief when they learned that the report was a fake and that the British were holding out.
