FUND OPENS TODAY.

Beginning the Edward C. Young Memorial Subscription.

Tomorrow the Astorian will begin publishing the list of contributors to the Edward C. Young library memorial. Many have already called with their quota, but arrangements were not completed and it was deemed best to wait. But everything is now ready and the Astorian will gladly acknowledge the receipt of any amount left at this office for the memorial.

It is desired that the list be published tomorrow be a brave one, a generous and representative one, but if one man should send in his rite the list will be started. "Great oaks from little acorns grow."

However, there will be more than one contributor for the movement is generally and warmly commended and every Astorian is willing to do his share. The project has attracted general attention throughout the state and the showing that Astoria makes will be observed by all the newspapers.

The Oregonian, in commenting upon the movement, said:

"Edward C. Young, of Astoria, was a student at the agricultural college at Corvallis when the war with Spain broke out and volunteers were called for. He went with the Second Oregon, but did not return. To Edward C. Young, one of the noble young fellows who gave their lives for their country and for humanity, the Astorian proposes a memorial, in the form of a library, for the use of the agricultural college."

The fact that the library is for the state agricultural college, where it will remain for the use of students from every part of the state, is a further reason, in addition to the desire to honor a fallen hero, why the project should receive support from every quarter. The Oregonian seconds the Astorian's appeal in this behalf to the people of the state."

Professor J. H. Ackerman, state superintendent of public instruction, writes to the Astorian, enclosing a substantial check and adds:

"Permit me to say, relative to the proposed fund, that it has my hearty sympathy and approval. The move is perfectly proper from the fact that the Agricultural college was intensely loyal as she demonstrated when she sent so many boys from her portals, and it is indeed fitting that the movement should emanate from Astoria, as one of our country's fallen heroes was at once a student in the college and a resident of Astoria. May the movement go on to a successful termination be the wish of yours truly,

"J. H. ACKERMAN,
"Superintendent Public Instruction,"
Professor Ackerman, by reason of his office, is ex-officio regent of the Oregon Agricultural college, and his life-work is along educational lines. His appreciation and endorsement are very gratifying.

Today subscriptions will be received. Any amount will be properly receipted for and applied to the purpose for which it is offered. Twenty-five cents or twenty-five dollars, it will help swell the fund for the memorial for an Astoria boy who died in the service of his country.
