GAINS IN OUR ASIATIC TRADE.

The interesting and important feaempared with the remarkable increase

Our demand for the products of the orient has caused an increase of only a of imports since 1889, while there was an average main of nearly $2.00.005 a year in exports. As a matter of fact, lowever, the gain in exports in 1899 as greater than that of any previous year, while the imports for the last three years show an actual falling off. While we are gaining rapidly in exports to China and Japan, it is still a fact that we buy of those countries more than we sell to them. Of the $87,305,688 valuation placed apon our trade with Japan, China and Hong Kong in 1869, $47,815,635 represented the imports into this country and $39,490,cretions, regulating the bowess and aid-ing nature in throwing off that which makes a yellow skin. The effect on the COMPLEXION is quite pronounced, as over exports amounting to only $3,324,—a few days' use will demonstrate.

the fact that our trade with Japan shows a greater increase than our direet trade with China. The gain in trade with the former country was valued at $22,673,204, while the increase in trade with China was $13,293,148. It is highly probable, however, that our trade with China was much larger than the figures would indicate. In fact, it is hardly possible for the agricultural department to secure accurate statistics of our exports to the Mongo itan empire, for the reason that vast quantities of American-made goods are shipped from England through Hong Kong, and such exports are generally credited in the custom house returns with its capital at Panama, the main $1,732,525, more than double those of Kong in 1899, however, are placed at Great as is this increase in trade with the Orient, it is only a drop in Dr. T. N. Ball the bucket compared to what will be chronicled at the end of the next decade if this nation makes the most of its opportunities in the Pacific and will proceed at once with the construction
