For President WILLIAM McKINLEY, Of Ohio.

For Vice-President THEODORE ROOSEVELT, Of New York.

The Union Pacific Railway Company, agreeable with its customary promptness to anticipate and cater to every demand of the day and hour on the part of its traveling patrons as well as the general public, has just issued a neat little campaign guide, giving with the utmost impartiality the platforms of the various presidential candidates, and much other useful information bearing upon the approaching national election: the qualification of voters in the various states; the apportionment of votes in the electoral college; a comparison of the popular and electoral vote of all presidential candidates from Jackson to McKinley, including also a reprint of the entire federal constitution and its amendments. The book is by long odds the best, or one of the best, of the kind ever published. It should be in the hands of every voter who desires to cast an intelligent ballot. Mr. J. H. Lothrop, general freight and passenger agent of the company, will be pleased to furnish a free copy of this valuable book to any applicant by mail or otherwise at his Portland office.

Mayor Bergman was elected on a non-partisan platform and as a non-partisan candidate. He professes to believe that politics should be eliminated from city government. Yet he has made no appointment since his first election except of some known and avowed Democrat. Was the Astorian right when it said during the last campaign that the so-called non-partisan movement was only a trick to confuse the mind of the voter and steal in a Republican community the franchise of Republicans to put the rank and most reckless partisan Democrats in city offices? The Honorable Mayor has now another chance to carry out the pretenses and pledges of his campaign and election. The vacancy in the police commission can be filled by the selection of some good Republican or non-partisan candidate. Let the council, which is Republican by a good majority, hold the mayor to his ante-election pledges. Let Republican members of the council refuse to confirm any nomination made by the mayor to the police commission, unless the candidate he selects is a non-partisan—if there is such an entity. Or, better still, let them decline to agree to any other nomination than that of a good Republican, to even up in some degree the multitude of Democratic office holders the non-partisan mayor has heretofore appointed.

DEMOCRATIC HYPOCRISY.

The contemptible hypocrisy of the Democratic cry of anti-imperialism is evidenced in the recent elections in North Carolina. Another is added to the list of Democratic states wherein white supremacy has been gained by fraud and intimidation, and the constitutional rights of American citizens, both white and colored, denied by the most barefaced evasions of law. There are a few old-line Democrats, such as Benjamin Tillman for an example, who are honest enough to confess that the "consent of the governed" does not apply to the negro, and, by its actions, the party as a whole, from the time of its organization, has continuously demonstrated that belief in ways both lawful and unlawful.

Yesterday's dispatches indicate the method by which a majority of 30,000 was rolled up for the white Democracy. "The negroes, as a general thing, remained away from the polls, though some voted for the amendment" which deprived them of their constitutional privileges. It is an open secret that it is unsafe in important elections for a negro to approach the polls without flourishing a Democratic ticket, and that the ballot-box is often guarded by armed men, placed there for the sole purpose of intimidating negroes who desire to vote.

The provisions of these constitutional amendments which the Southern states have lately been adopting in their effort to legally thwart the purpose of the fifteenth amendment of the national constitution, are interesting and are too little understood by the country at large. Two states have adopted provisions requiring that the voter must be able to "read the constitution or understand it when read to him." When an illiterate negro presents himself, the Judges of election at once declare him incapable of understanding anything, while the mental acumen of the illiterate Democratic whites is never held in question.

Such is the Democratic interpretation of anti-imperialism, the consent of the governed, and other principles which they find in the Declaration of Independence. But aside from the question of political rights, of which the candid Democrat will admit the negro has none, the indignities and outrages which the Southern Democrats mete out to their negro citizens, about a million of whom are their own half-bleached offspring, beggar description and are in striking contrast with the generous attitude ever shown to the negro by the Republican party.

Without hypocrisy, with unceasing assiduity, the Republican party has been the support and defence of the weak and the oppressed of all ranks and conditions, from its infancy, when it espoused the cause of the negro, to the hour when it set the millions of Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines free from the accursed tyranny of Spain. To it the sufferers from tyranny and injustice have ever turned, and their cry has never fallen upon deaf ears. Its policy has been as far removed from the Democratic intolerance of negro rights and even independent white opinion, as the sparking summits of Oregon's peaks of everlasting snow are from the depths of the deepest Australian coal-pits. To it can be safely entrusted the conduct of our relations with the Filipinos, and, when that misguided people shall have become aware of the just and benevolent designs of the American people, as represented by President McKinley and the party in power, all friction will cease and a policy will be adopted in striking contrast with the high-handed outrages perpetrated upon the American negro by the Democratic party.
