The middle-of-the-roads barked up the wrong tree when they nominated Barker.

Which of the contending powers will make the first overtures to the Boxers for their co-operation is the next question.

The British fears that the allies will not be able to so much as peek in within Peking's walls are probably groundless.

The Boers and Filipinos are waiting for Bryan's election and the new era of liberty which is to dawn when the Democrats get in.

If the powers attempt the proposed plan to select ten native viceroys under an European head to rule China, they must count on active opposition from the Kwang Hsu faction.

THE SOUTH AND THE NEGRO.

San Francisco Call. Dispatches from Atlanta announce that since the recent election in North Carolina, at which there was adopted a constitutional amendment virtually abolishing negro suffrage in the state, a movement to accomplish a similar result has been started in Georgia.

Prominent members of the legislature have declared an intention to propose such an amendment to the Georgian constitution at the next session and it is probable the plan will be carried out.

Several schemes have been devised for excluding the negro from the polls without violating the constitution of the United States and the original Mississippi plan has been exceeded in one way or another by each successive state that has followed the lead.

"Every person presenting himself for registration shall be able to read and write any section of the constitution in the English language; and, before he shall be entitled to vote, he shall have paid on or before the first day of May, of the year in which he proposes to vote, his poll tax for the previous year, as prescribed by article 3, section 1, of the constitution.

It will be seen the amendment imposes an educational and taxpaying qualification upon negroes, but not upon the whites. Thus there will be no incentive to advance the education of the negroes, and as they will have no votes, the chances are the dominant white race will not burden itself to support any considerable number of public schools for the blacks. More than that; there will be no political force in the South to guarantee the personal and property rights of the blacks and as a consequence the whole situation in that section of the Union is to be materially altered for the worse.

The amendment was carried in North Carolina by the activity of "red shirt" clubs and is therefore an outcome of violence rather than of reason. It is to be regarded as a partisan measure in the strictest sense. The object is to make the South solid for Democracy and as a result there will inevitably be a protest against it from the people of the North. In fact, that protest is already heard from various quarters, and when the time comes to apportion representatives under the census of this year it is certain efforts will be made to so limit the number of congressmen from the South that the Democrats of that section will not gain from the suppression of the negro vote so much political profit as they expected.

Moreover, the South may lose industrially as well as politically by the new policy. In a review of the subject in the current number of the Forum the Hon. Charles Grosvenor, of Ohio, after briefly describing how much the South has prospered during the thirty years of negro suffrage and how much has been gained by both races, says: "It will be marvelous if disfranchisement does not stop all or practically all progress in this direction. What has the colored man to look forward to? Why should he educate himself and his children? He will retrace the steps he has taken toward good citizenship more rapidly than he has advanced. It is the history of the world and there is no escape from the blighting effects."

The tendencies of the new policy will, of course, be closely watched from the North, and while there is every desire on the part of all to avoid another issue of a sectional character, yet it may be forced by the results of this wholesale disfranchisement of voters. It is a desperate game that the Southern leaders have undertaken to play and the consequences to them may be almost as direful as secession itself.
