COMING FIGHT FOR SUPREMACY

Lord Rothschild Says Will Be Between America and China.

ENGLISH POLITICS BOLING

WINTER PREVIEW AT THE NEW YORK TIMES

LONDON: The American anti-Japanese movement which is seeking to prevent war with China has been given a powerful boost by Lord Rothschild, who has declared that the conflict will be between America and China.

Lord Rothschild, in an interview with the New York Times, said that he believed the conflict would be decided by the United States and China, and that the British Empire would not be involved.

He said: "I believe that the conflict will be decided by the United States and China, and that the British Empire will not be involved. I am convinced that the United States and China will come to blows over the issue of the rights of the American people in China."

The interview was conducted by the New York Times, which has been actively promoting the American anti-Japanese movement in its coverage of the conflict.

The interview was conducted by the New York Times, which has been actively promoting the American anti-Japanese movement in its coverage of the conflict.

The interview was conducted by the New York Times, which has been actively promoting the American anti-Japanese movement in its coverage of the conflict.

The interview was conducted by the New York Times, which has been actively promoting the American anti-Japanese movement in its coverage of the conflict.

The interview was conducted by the New York Times, which has been actively promoting the American anti-Japanese movement in its coverage of the conflict.

The interview was conducted by the New York Times, which has been actively promoting the American anti-Japanese movement in its coverage of the conflict.

The interview was conducted by the New York Times, which has been actively promoting the American anti-Japanese movement in its coverage of the conflict.

The interview was conducted by the New York Times, which has been actively promoting the American anti-Japanese movement in its coverage of the conflict.

The interview was conducted by the New York Times, which has been actively promoting the American anti-Japanese movement in its coverage of the conflict.

The interview was conducted by the New York Times, which has been actively promoting the American anti-Japanese movement in its coverage of the conflict.

The interview was conducted by the New York Times, which has been actively promoting the American anti-Japanese movement in its coverage of the conflict.

The interview was conducted by the New York Times, which has been actively promoting the American anti-Japanese movement in its coverage of the conflict.

The interview was conducted by the New York Times, which has been actively promoting the American anti-Japanese movement in its coverage of the conflict.

The interview was conducted by the New York Times, which has been actively promoting the American anti-Japanese movement in its coverage of the conflict.

The interview was conducted by the New York Times, which has been actively promoting the American anti-Japanese movement in its coverage of the conflict.

The interview was conducted by the New York Times, which has been actively promoting the American anti-Japanese movement in its coverage of the conflict.

The interview was conducted by the New York Times, which has been actively promoting the American anti-Japanese movement in its coverage of the conflict.

The interview was conducted by the New York Times, which has been actively promoting the American anti-Japanese movement in its coverage of the conflict.

The interview was conducted by the New York Times, which has been actively promoting the American anti-Japanese movement in its coverage of the conflict.

The interview was conducted by the New York Times, which has been actively promoting the American anti-Japanese movement in its coverage of the conflict.

The interview was conducted by the New York Times, which has been actively promoting the American anti-Japanese movement in its coverage of the conflict.

The interview was conducted by the New York Times, which has been actively promoting the American anti-Japanese movement in its coverage of the conflict.

The interview was conducted by the New York Times, which has been actively promoting the American anti-Japanese movement in its coverage of the conflict.

The interview was conducted by the New York Times, which has been actively promoting the American anti-Japanese movement in its coverage of the conflict.

The interview was conducted by the New York Times, which has been actively promoting the American anti-Japanese movement in its coverage of the conflict.

The interview was conducted by the New York Times, which has been actively promoting the American anti-Japanese movement in its coverage of the conflict.

The interview was conducted by the New York Times, which has been actively promoting the American anti-Japanese movement in its coverage of the conflict.

The interview was conducted by the New York Times, which has been actively promoting the American anti-Japanese movement in its coverage of the conflict.

The interview was conducted by the New York Times, which has been actively promoting the American anti-Japanese movement in its coverage of the conflict.

The interview was conducted by the New York Times, which has been actively promoting the American anti-Japanese movement in its coverage of the conflict.

The interview was conducted by the New York Times, which has been actively promoting the American anti-Japanese movement in its coverage of the conflict.

The interview was conducted by the New York Times, which has been actively promoting the American anti-Japanese movement in its coverage of the conflict.

The interview was conducted by the New York Times, which has been actively promoting the American anti-Japanese movement in its coverage of the conflict.

The interview was conducted by the New York Times, which has been actively promoting the American anti-Japanese movement in its coverage of the conflict.

The interview was conducted by the New York Times, which has been actively promoting the American anti-Japanese movement in its coverage of the conflict.

The interview was conducted by the New York Times, which has been actively promoting the American anti-Japanese movement in its coverage of the conflict.

The interview was conducted by the New York Times, which has been actively promoting the American anti-Japanese movement in its coverage of the conflict.

The interview was conducted by the New York Times, which has been actively promoting the American anti-Japanese movement in its coverage of the conflict.

The interview was conducted by the New York Times, which has been actively promoting the American anti-Japanese movement in its coverage of the conflict.

The interview was conducted by the New York Times, which has been actively promoting the American anti-Japanese movement in its coverage of the conflict.

The interview was conducted by the New York Times, which has been actively promoting the American anti-Japanese movement in its coverage of the conflict.

The interview was conducted by the New York Times, which has been actively promoting the American anti-Japanese movement in its coverage of the conflict.