

Women's Wrappers

A chance to economize

Ours are good wrappers. No matter how low the price, you can depend upon their worthiness. That's a good point to remember when so many thrown-together kinds of merchandise are being offered. Good wrappers priced in the following economical manner await you this week:—

- $1.00 value for $.90
$1.25 1.10
$1.50 1.35
$1.75 1.55
$2.00 1.90

The A. Dunbar Co

THE MORNING ASTORIAN

TELEPHONE 661.

All contracts for advertising in the Astorian are made on a guarantee of circulation four times larger than that of any paper published or circulated in Clatsop county.

TODAY'S WEATHER.

PORTLAND, Oct. 23.—Oregon, Washington and Idaho, cloudy weather with occasional rain today.

AROUND TOWN.

Mrs. Normile was in Portland yesterday. Mrs. Heath, of Ilwaco, is in Astoria on a visit. Mrs. Holcomb, of Ilwaco, is in Astoria on a visit. Charles D. Willett, of Portland, is at the Occident. Howell Lewis, of John Day, was in the city yesterday. H. P. Anderson, of Grays river, was in the city yesterday. James S. Redd, of Portland, was at the Occident yesterday. Miss Kathryn Shively was a passenger on the up train yesterday. Best 15-cent meal, Rising Sun Restaurant, 412 Commercial street. Dr. Wickman and wife, of Portland, are in the city to spend Sunday. G. E. Huddleston, of Westport, was in the city yesterday on business. Jeff's restaurant—the largest and best. A trial will convince you. Charles Thompson, of Tillamook, is registered at the Parker House. Mr. Albert Cook has been visiting friends in Mountain Home the past week. Charles Wilson has succeeded Charles Gibbons as sexton at Greenwood cemetery.

The San Francisco Trade Journal will issue a special Cannery Edition on November 7th. Three first-class barbers at the Occident barber shop, under the management of A. Peterson. Bar report: Wind, southwest, fresh; fog and rain; bar, rough; tramp steamer ten miles outside. All kinds of silver and gold plating done on short notice, by A. Hirveta, 424 Commercial street. The British ship Cromartyshire sailed from Port Los Angeles for the Columbia river on Friday. Miss Florence Goulter has resumed her old position as station and express agent in the Ilwaco depot. For rent—Three rooms, furnished for housekeeping, on ground floor, 403 Exchange street, cor. Ninth. Andrew Halet, of this city, who has been in Alaska for some time, has returned and it is understood that he did fairly well. During the absence of Dr. Jay Tuttle from the city Dr. J. A. Patton will act as surgeon for the U. S. marine hospital service. Pure Whiskey Harper, Perfect Whiskey Harper, Every bottle guaranteed Harper. Sold by Foad & Stokes Co., Astoria, Or. Cream Pure Rye, America's finest whiskey. The only pure goods; guaranteed rich and mellow. JOHN L. CARLSON, Sole Agent. The bark Harry Morse cleared at the custom house yesterday with 924,000 feet of lumber for San Francisco. She is lying in the lower harbor. Hiland Kuettnier, who is attending Bishop Scott Academy in Portland, arrived in Astoria yesterday to spend Sunday with his parents. Captain Samuel Hadlock, a well-known Columbia river pilot, has gone to Seattle, where he will engage in steamboating on the Sound. George W. Shaver, president of the Shaver Transportation Company, and a pioneer steamboat man on the Columbia, died at his home in Portland, on Friday, after a lingering illness of three years. BEST 15-CENT MEAL; RISING SUN RESTAURANT.

At the Methodist Episcopal church, today, the new pastor, Rev. B. F. Rowland, will preach both morning and evening. Subject for the morning service: "The Relation of the Old Law to the New Gospel." Evening subject: "Self-Justification." The hour for the Sunday school has been changed to 12:30. Preaching services as usual, at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. The funeral of little Pauline Gratie was held yesterday morning at 10 o'clock from the residence. The services were conducted by Rev. T. L. Eliot, of Portland. A profusion of beautiful flowers bore silent tribute to the profound sympathy that was universally felt for the bereaved parents and the tender love for the little one. The interment was at Greenwood and was private. The convention of photographers that was held in Portland adjourned yesterday afternoon after a very successful and interesting session. The official name has been decided as "The Photographers' Association of the Pacific Northwest." Any professional photographer in good standing can become a member. The membership is confined to three states, Oregon, Washington and Idaho. At the present time there are five or six vessels in the river to begin the month of November. This does not include the disengaged Halsewood, which is lying in the harbor here waiting for a charter. Freight rates are on the decline, and it is probably there will be taken at a rate not to exceed 45c. By the time the month opens there will be a number of ships due at this port, and they will swell the tonnage in the river to good proportions. Earl Sanders, of the Second Oregon volunteers, and who resides in Portland, delivered an address at the headquarters of the Jeffersonian Club last evening. The hall was well filled and the audience, although not very enthusiastic or demonstrative, listened attentively to the speaker. Mr. Sanders, who was with his regiment in the Philippines, spoke from the standpoint of one who had been on the ground and dwelt largely on the Philippine question. A meeting of the council committee, appointed to prepare proposed amendments to the city charter, was held Friday evening. Several matters were under discussion but the only change made was an amendment giving the council authority to donate not to exceed $75 per month for the support of the public library. As the charter now stands the amount is limited to $25. Another meeting will be held tomorrow evening, when the report of the committee will be prepared for submission to the council. Rev. B. F. Rowland, the new pastor of the Methodist church here, arrived on the noon train yesterday from his former charge in Springfield, Vermont, accompanied by his wife and young son. Rev. and Mrs. Rowland left Vermont on the 11th inst. and visited their old home in Ohio and other points of interest on their way to Oregon. Mr. Rowland is a man of about 35 years of age, of genial ways and very attractive personality. Mrs. Rowland is something of an invalid, but expects to derive much benefit from our superb climate. The reporter on the Evening Telegram who was given the assignment of getting the prominent citizens of Portland to criticize President Mellen's statement, favoring Astoria as the shipping port of the Columbia river, had, as he himself expressed it, "barrel of trouble" to get men to talk against the evidence of their better judgment. He succeeded in faking up a few interested parties, however, who were willing to aver that the supply will be exhausted to be kept open, though none of them seemed very positive nor could they give any essential reason why it should be. A recent issue of a Portland paper contains the following editorial: "If any number of persons want to build a city at Astoria, by all means let them do it. It is a free country, where everybody has an equal chance. But men of Portland are building a city at Astoria." It is hardly necessary to comment on how Portland has been built, as the facts are pretty generally known but it is worthy of passing notice that Portland has been built by the manner in which the Portland wheat shippers, working in the interest of British shipowners, have compelled the producers of this state to pay at least $2.50 more per ton for sending their grain to the markets of the world than if sent from the mouth of the Columbia river or from San Francisco. At a recent meeting of the new board of directors of the I. R. & N. Co., held at the headquarters of the company at Ilwaco, preliminary arrangements were made for a booming of the beach for next summer. With the I. R. & N. Co. back of it the beach will be widely advertised next year and weekly excursions given from points in Oregon, Washington, Idaho and other states on its line at reduced rates. This means improved transportation facilities, cheap fares, and shorter time in making the beach from inland points. Heretofore North Beach has depended principally on Portland for patronage. Under the new order of things it will tap the entire Columbia river basin and other sections beyond it. The official list of the new company is: A. L. Mohler, president; E. S. Benson, general auditor; J. B. Livingston, freight auditor; J. W. Mulka, treasurer; J. R. Goulter, secretary and superintendent. The directors are A. L. Mohler, E. S. Benson, Vert Miner, W. H. Kennedy and L. A. Loomis.

The heavy wind storms have put a stop to trap fishing from Ilwaco to McDougal's, on the north bank of the Columbia. The majority of them were washed out, and until the weather and wind settles there will be very little salmon caught. Miss Oberlander, of Portland, has made arrangements for a dancing class in this city and will begin with a meeting in Hawthorn's hall on Friday evening next. She will have a class of children in the afternoon and in the evening a class of adults. The two buoys that were crossing each other in front of the O. R. & N. wharf for a week or so recently having become mixed up with a log raft, were picked up by the Columbine and taken to the buoy depot and others set in their proper position to mark the channel. Prof. H. Lyman, of Astoria, school superintendent of Clatsop county, delivered a lecture at the Congregational church at Oregon City Monday evening. His theme was Indian Legends, and was said to be especially interesting on account of its local connection with the falls of that city. Puget sound canneries are preparing to wind up the season of 1900 in the next three or four weeks. The pack in all grades in this section, it is believed, will be about 400,000 cases short of what it was in 1899, and in all territories wherein salmon packing is done about 1,300,000 cases short of last year. There was a heavy gale out at sea yesterday morning and the Columbia, which came in from San Francisco, experienced some exceptionally rough weather. The wind was blowing with frightful velocity when the steamer crossed the bar and those on board say that she came over at a terrific rate. A warrant was issued by U. S. Commissioner C. R. Thomson on Friday evening for the arrest of an apprentice boy named Lucas, who ran away from the British ship Kilmorey. As Captain Corrence was responsible for the return of the boy to his lawful guardians he called for the papers and the boy was secured that evening and taken on board. There will be regular services at the Congregational church today, morning and evening, at 7:30, by the pastor. Subject of the morning sermon, "The Humiliation of Christ Is Worthy of Perpetual and Universal Observation." Subject of the evening sermon, "Viewing the Unseen a Source of Great Power." Sunday school at 12:45. The Catholic fair, which has been held for the past three evenings, was a marked success in every way and attracted large crowds each evening. The receipts ran up to a handsome total of over $400. The different booths were very tastefully arranged and decorated and the room presented a very handsome appearance. An excellent program was rendered last evening, some of the features of which were solos by Messrs. Thomson and Smyth and excellent selections by the convent orchestra. After the speech last evening a large delegation of the Democratic organization visited the fair in a body. The ladies of the church are very grateful to the public at large for their generous patronage of the fair.

At the Methodist Episcopal church, today, the new pastor, Rev. B. F. Rowland, will preach both morning and evening. Subject for the morning service: "The Relation of the Old Law to the New Gospel." Evening subject: "Self-Justification." The hour for the Sunday school has been changed to 12:30. Preaching services as usual, at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. The funeral of little Pauline Gratie was held yesterday morning at 10 o'clock from the residence. The services were conducted by Rev. T. L. Eliot, of Portland. A profusion of beautiful flowers bore silent tribute to the profound sympathy that was universally felt for the bereaved parents and the tender love for the little one. The interment was at Greenwood and was private. The convention of photographers that was held in Portland adjourned yesterday afternoon after a very successful and interesting session. The official name has been decided as "The Photographers' Association of the Pacific Northwest." Any professional photographer in good standing can become a member. The membership is confined to three states, Oregon, Washington and Idaho. At the present time there are five or six vessels in the river to begin the month of November. This does not include the disengaged Halsewood, which is lying in the harbor here waiting for a charter. Freight rates are on the decline, and it is probably there will be taken at a rate not to exceed 45c. By the time the month opens there will be a number of ships due at this port, and they will swell the tonnage in the river to good proportions. Earl Sanders, of the Second Oregon volunteers, and who resides in Portland, delivered an address at the headquarters of the Jeffersonian Club last evening. The hall was well filled and the audience, although not very enthusiastic or demonstrative, listened attentively to the speaker. Mr. Sanders, who was with his regiment in the Philippines, spoke from the standpoint of one who had been on the ground and dwelt largely on the Philippine question. A meeting of the council committee, appointed to prepare proposed amendments to the city charter, was held Friday evening. Several matters were under discussion but the only change made was an amendment giving the council authority to donate not to exceed $75 per month for the support of the public library. As the charter now stands the amount is limited to $25. Another meeting will be held tomorrow evening, when the report of the committee will be prepared for submission to the council. Rev. B. F. Rowland, the new pastor of the Methodist church here, arrived on the noon train yesterday from his former charge in Springfield, Vermont, accompanied by his wife and young son. Rev. and Mrs. Rowland left Vermont on the 11th inst. and visited their old home in Ohio and other points of interest on their way to Oregon. Mr. Rowland is a man of about 35 years of age, of genial ways and very attractive personality. Mrs. Rowland is something of an invalid, but expects to derive much benefit from our superb climate. The reporter on the Evening Telegram who was given the assignment of getting the prominent citizens of Portland to criticize President Mellen's statement, favoring Astoria as the shipping port of the Columbia river, had, as he himself expressed it, "barrel of trouble" to get men to talk against the evidence of their better judgment. He succeeded in faking up a few interested parties, however, who were willing to aver that the supply will be exhausted to be kept open, though none of them seemed very positive nor could they give any essential reason why it should be. A recent issue of a Portland paper contains the following editorial: "If any number of persons want to build a city at Astoria, by all means let them do it. It is a free country, where everybody has an equal chance. But men of Portland are building a city at Astoria." It is hardly necessary to comment on how Portland has been built, as the facts are pretty generally known but it is worthy of passing notice that Portland has been built by the manner in which the Portland wheat shippers, working in the interest of British shipowners, have compelled the producers of this state to pay at least $2.50 more per ton for sending their grain to the markets of the world than if sent from the mouth of the Columbia river or from San Francisco. At a recent meeting of the new board of directors of the I. R. & N. Co., held at the headquarters of the company at Ilwaco, preliminary arrangements were made for a booming of the beach for next summer. With the I. R. & N. Co. back of it the beach will be widely advertised next year and weekly excursions given from points in Oregon, Washington, Idaho and other states on its line at reduced rates. This means improved transportation facilities, cheap fares, and shorter time in making the beach from inland points. Heretofore North Beach has depended principally on Portland for patronage. Under the new order of things it will tap the entire Columbia river basin and other sections beyond it. The official list of the new company is: A. L. Mohler, president; E. S. Benson, general auditor; J. B. Livingston, freight auditor; J. W. Mulka, treasurer; J. R. Goulter, secretary and superintendent. The directors are A. L. Mohler, E. S. Benson, Vert Miner, W. H. Kennedy and L. A. Loomis.

At the Methodist Episcopal church, today, the new pastor, Rev. B. F. Rowland, will preach both morning and evening. Subject for the morning service: "The Relation of the Old Law to the New Gospel." Evening subject: "Self-Justification." The hour for the Sunday school has been changed to 12:30. Preaching services as usual, at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. The funeral of little Pauline Gratie was held yesterday morning at 10 o'clock from the residence. The services were conducted by Rev. T. L. Eliot, of Portland. A profusion of beautiful flowers bore silent tribute to the profound sympathy that was universally felt for the bereaved parents and the tender love for the little one. The interment was at Greenwood and was private. The convention of photographers that was held in Portland adjourned yesterday afternoon after a very successful and interesting session. The official name has been decided as "The Photographers' Association of the Pacific Northwest." Any professional photographer in good standing can become a member. The membership is confined to three states, Oregon, Washington and Idaho. At the present time there are five or six vessels in the river to begin the month of November. This does not include the disengaged Halsewood, which is lying in the harbor here waiting for a charter. Freight rates are on the decline, and it is probably there will be taken at a rate not to exceed 45c. By the time the month opens there will be a number of ships due at this port, and they will swell the tonnage in the river to good proportions. Earl Sanders, of the Second Oregon volunteers, and who resides in Portland, delivered an address at the headquarters of the Jeffersonian Club last evening. The hall was well filled and the audience, although not very enthusiastic or demonstrative, listened attentively to the speaker. Mr. Sanders, who was with his regiment in the Philippines, spoke from the standpoint of one who had been on the ground and dwelt largely on the Philippine question. A meeting of the council committee, appointed to prepare proposed amendments to the city charter, was held Friday evening. Several matters were under discussion but the only change made was an amendment giving the council authority to donate not to exceed $75 per month for the support of the public library. As the charter now stands the amount is limited to $25. Another meeting will be held tomorrow evening, when the report of the committee will be prepared for submission to the council. Rev. B. F. Rowland, the new pastor of the Methodist church here, arrived on the noon train yesterday from his former charge in Springfield, Vermont, accompanied by his wife and young son. Rev. and Mrs. Rowland left Vermont on the 11th inst. and visited their old home in Ohio and other points of interest on their way to Oregon. Mr. Rowland is a man of about 35 years of age, of genial ways and very attractive personality. Mrs. Rowland is something of an invalid, but expects to derive much benefit from our superb climate. The reporter on the Evening Telegram who was given the assignment of getting the prominent citizens of Portland to criticize President Mellen's statement, favoring Astoria as the shipping port of the Columbia river, had, as he himself expressed it, "barrel of trouble" to get men to talk against the evidence of their better judgment. He succeeded in faking up a few interested parties, however, who were willing to aver that the supply will be exhausted to be kept open, though none of them seemed very positive nor could they give any essential reason why it should be. A recent issue of a Portland paper contains the following editorial: "If any number of persons want to build a city at Astoria, by all means let them do it. It is a free country, where everybody has an equal chance. But men of Portland are building a city at Astoria." It is hardly necessary to comment on how Portland has been built, as the facts are pretty generally known but it is worthy of passing notice that Portland has been built by the manner in which the Portland wheat shippers, working in the interest of British shipowners, have compelled the producers of this state to pay at least $2.50 more per ton for sending their grain to the markets of the world than if sent from the mouth of the Columbia river or from San Francisco. At a recent meeting of the new board of directors of the I. R. & N. Co., held at the headquarters of the company at Ilwaco, preliminary arrangements were made for a booming of the beach for next summer. With the I. R. & N. Co. back of it the beach will be widely advertised next year and weekly excursions given from points in Oregon, Washington, Idaho and other states on its line at reduced rates. This means improved transportation facilities, cheap fares, and shorter time in making the beach from inland points. Heretofore North Beach has depended principally on Portland for patronage. Under the new order of things it will tap the entire Columbia river basin and other sections beyond it. The official list of the new company is: A. L. Mohler, president; E. S. Benson, general auditor; J. B. Livingston, freight auditor; J. W. Mulka, treasurer; J. R. Goulter, secretary and superintendent. The directors are A. L. Mohler, E. S. Benson, Vert Miner, W. H. Kennedy and L. A. Loomis.

At the Methodist Episcopal church, today, the new pastor, Rev. B. F. Rowland, will preach both morning and evening. Subject for the morning service: "The Relation of the Old Law to the New Gospel." Evening subject: "Self-Justification." The hour for the Sunday school has been changed to 12:30. Preaching services as usual, at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. The funeral of little Pauline Gratie was held yesterday morning at 10 o'clock from the residence. The services were conducted by Rev. T. L. Eliot, of Portland. A profusion of beautiful flowers bore silent tribute to the profound sympathy that was universally felt for the bereaved parents and the tender love for the little one. The interment was at Greenwood and was private. The convention of photographers that was held in Portland adjourned yesterday afternoon after a very successful and interesting session. The official name has been decided as "The Photographers' Association of the Pacific Northwest." Any professional photographer in good standing can become a member. The membership is confined to three states, Oregon, Washington and Idaho. At the present time there are five or six vessels in the river to begin the month of November. This does not include the disengaged Halsewood, which is lying in the harbor here waiting for a charter. Freight rates are on the decline, and it is probably there will be taken at a rate not to exceed 45c. By the time the month opens there will be a number of ships due at this port, and they will swell the tonnage in the river to good proportions. Earl Sanders, of the Second Oregon volunteers, and who resides in Portland, delivered an address at the headquarters of the Jeffersonian Club last evening. The hall was well filled and the audience, although not very enthusiastic or demonstrative, listened attentively to the speaker. Mr. Sanders, who was with his regiment in the Philippines, spoke from the standpoint of one who had been on the ground and dwelt largely on the Philippine question. A meeting of the council committee, appointed to prepare proposed amendments to the city charter, was held Friday evening. Several matters were under discussion but the only change made was an amendment giving the council authority to donate not to exceed $75 per month for the support of the public library. As the charter now stands the amount is limited to $25. Another meeting will be held tomorrow evening, when the report of the committee will be prepared for submission to the council. Rev. B. F. Rowland, the new pastor of the Methodist church here, arrived on the noon train yesterday from his former charge in Springfield, Vermont, accompanied by his wife and young son. Rev. and Mrs. Rowland left Vermont on the 11th inst. and visited their old home in Ohio and other points of interest on their way to Oregon. Mr. Rowland is a man of about 35 years of age, of genial ways and very attractive personality. Mrs. Rowland is something of an invalid, but expects to derive much benefit from our superb climate. The reporter on the Evening Telegram who was given the assignment of getting the prominent citizens of Portland to criticize President Mellen's statement, favoring Astoria as the shipping port of the Columbia river, had, as he himself expressed it, "barrel of trouble" to get men to talk against the evidence of their better judgment. He succeeded in faking up a few interested parties, however, who were willing to aver that the supply will be exhausted to be kept open, though none of them seemed very positive nor could they give any essential reason why it should be. A recent issue of a Portland paper contains the following editorial: "If any number of persons want to build a city at Astoria, by all means let them do it. It is a free country, where everybody has an equal chance. But men of Portland are building a city at Astoria." It is hardly necessary to comment on how Portland has been built, as the facts are pretty generally known but it is worthy of passing notice that Portland has been built by the manner in which the Portland wheat shippers, working in the interest of British shipowners, have compelled the producers of this state to pay at least $2.50 more per ton for sending their grain to the markets of the world than if sent from the mouth of the Columbia river or from San Francisco. At a recent meeting of the new board of directors of the I. R. & N. Co., held at the headquarters of the company at Ilwaco, preliminary arrangements were made for a booming of the beach for next summer. With the I. R. & N. Co. back of it the beach will be widely advertised next year and weekly excursions given from points in Oregon, Washington, Idaho and other states on its line at reduced rates. This means improved transportation facilities, cheap fares, and shorter time in making the beach from inland points. Heretofore North Beach has depended principally on Portland for patronage. Under the new order of things it will tap the entire Columbia river basin and other sections beyond it. The official list of the new company is: A. L. Mohler, president; E. S. Benson, general auditor; J. B. Livingston, freight auditor; J. W. Mulka, treasurer; J. R. Goulter, secretary and superintendent. The directors are A. L. Mohler, E. S. Benson, Vert Miner, W. H. Kennedy and L. A. Loomis.

At the Methodist Episcopal church, today, the new pastor, Rev. B. F. Rowland, will preach both morning and evening. Subject for the morning service: "The Relation of the Old Law to the New Gospel." Evening subject: "Self-Justification." The hour for the Sunday school has been changed to 12:30. Preaching services as usual, at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. The funeral of little Pauline Gratie was held yesterday morning at 10 o'clock from the residence. The services were conducted by Rev. T. L. Eliot, of Portland. A profusion of beautiful flowers bore silent tribute to the profound sympathy that was universally felt for the bereaved parents and the tender love for the little one. The interment was at Greenwood and was private. The convention of photographers that was held in Portland adjourned yesterday afternoon after a very successful and interesting session. The official name has been decided as "The Photographers' Association of the Pacific Northwest." Any professional photographer in good standing can become a member. The membership is confined to three states, Oregon, Washington and Idaho. At the present time there are five or six vessels in the river to begin the month of November. This does not include the disengaged Halsewood, which is lying in the harbor here waiting for a charter. Freight rates are on the decline, and it is probably there will be taken at a rate not to exceed 45c. By the time the month opens there will be a number of ships due at this port, and they will swell the tonnage in the river to good proportions. Earl Sanders, of the Second Oregon volunteers, and who resides in Portland, delivered an address at the headquarters of the Jeffersonian Club last evening. The hall was well filled and the audience, although not very enthusiastic or demonstrative, listened attentively to the speaker. Mr. Sanders, who was with his regiment in the Philippines, spoke from the standpoint of one who had been on the ground and dwelt largely on the Philippine question. A meeting of the council committee, appointed to prepare proposed amendments to the city charter, was held Friday evening. Several matters were under discussion but the only change made was an amendment giving the council authority to donate not to exceed $75 per month for the support of the public library. As the charter now stands the amount is limited to $25. Another meeting will be held tomorrow evening, when the report of the committee will be prepared for submission to the council. Rev. B. F. Rowland, the new pastor of the Methodist church here, arrived on the noon train yesterday from his former charge in Springfield, Vermont, accompanied by his wife and young son. Rev. and Mrs. Rowland left Vermont on the 11th inst. and visited their old home in Ohio and other points of interest on their way to Oregon. Mr. Rowland is a man of about 35 years of age, of genial ways and very attractive personality. Mrs. Rowland is something of an invalid, but expects to derive much benefit from our superb climate. The reporter on the Evening Telegram who was given the assignment of getting the prominent citizens of Portland to criticize President Mellen's statement, favoring Astoria as the shipping port of the Columbia river, had, as he himself expressed it, "barrel of trouble" to get men to talk against the evidence of their better judgment. He succeeded in faking up a few interested parties, however, who were willing to aver that the supply will be exhausted to be kept open, though none of them seemed very positive nor could they give any essential reason why it should be. A recent issue of a Portland paper contains the following editorial: "If any number of persons want to build a city at Astoria, by all means let them do it. It is a free country, where everybody has an equal chance. But men of Portland are building a city at Astoria." It is hardly necessary to comment on how Portland has been built, as the facts are pretty generally known but it is worthy of passing notice that Portland has been built by the manner in which the Portland wheat shippers, working in the interest of British shipowners, have compelled the producers of this state to pay at least $2.50 more per ton for sending their grain to the markets of the world than if sent from the mouth of the Columbia river or from San Francisco. At a recent meeting of the new board of directors of the I. R. & N. Co., held at the headquarters of the company at Ilwaco, preliminary arrangements were made for a booming of the beach for next summer. With the I. R. & N. Co. back of it the beach will be widely advertised next year and weekly excursions given from points in Oregon, Washington, Idaho and other states on its line at reduced rates. This means improved transportation facilities, cheap fares, and shorter time in making the beach from inland points. Heretofore North Beach has depended principally on Portland for patronage. Under the new order of things it will tap the entire Columbia river basin and other sections beyond it. The official list of the new company is: A. L. Mohler, president; E. S. Benson, general auditor; J. B. Livingston, freight auditor; J. W. Mulka, treasurer; J. R. Goulter, secretary and superintendent. The directors are A. L. Mohler, E. S. Benson, Vert Miner, W. H. Kennedy and L. A. Loomis.

At the Methodist Episcopal church, today, the new pastor, Rev. B. F. Rowland, will preach both morning and evening. Subject for the morning service: "The Relation of the Old Law to the New Gospel." Evening subject: "Self-Justification." The hour for the Sunday school has been changed to 12:30. Preaching services as usual, at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. The funeral of little Pauline Gratie was held yesterday morning at 10 o'clock from the residence. The services were conducted by Rev. T. L. Eliot, of Portland. A profusion of beautiful flowers bore silent tribute to the profound sympathy that was universally felt for the bereaved parents and the tender love for the little one. The interment was at Greenwood and was private. The convention of photographers that was held in Portland adjourned yesterday afternoon after a very successful and interesting session. The official name has been decided as "The Photographers' Association of the Pacific Northwest." Any professional photographer in good standing can become a member. The membership is confined to three states, Oregon, Washington and Idaho. At the present time there are five or six vessels in the river to begin the month of November. This does not include the disengaged Halsewood, which is lying in the harbor here waiting for a charter. Freight rates are on the decline, and it is probably there will be taken at a rate not to exceed 45c. By the time the month opens there will be a number of ships due at this port, and they will swell the tonnage in the river to good proportions. Earl Sanders, of the Second Oregon volunteers, and who resides in Portland, delivered an address at the headquarters of the Jeffersonian Club last evening. The hall was well filled and the audience, although not very enthusiastic or demonstrative, listened attentively to the speaker. Mr. Sanders, who was with his regiment in the Philippines, spoke from the standpoint of one who had been on the ground and dwelt largely on the Philippine question. A meeting of the council committee, appointed to prepare proposed amendments to the city charter, was held Friday evening. Several matters were under discussion but the only change made was an amendment giving the council authority to donate not to exceed $75 per month for the support of the public library. As the charter now stands the amount is limited to $25. Another meeting will be held tomorrow evening, when the report of the committee will be prepared for submission to the council. Rev. B. F. Rowland, the new pastor of the Methodist church here, arrived on the noon train yesterday from his former charge in Springfield, Vermont, accompanied by his wife and young son. Rev. and Mrs. Rowland left Vermont on the 11th inst. and visited their old home in Ohio and other points of interest on their way to Oregon. Mr. Rowland is a man of about 35 years of age, of genial ways and very attractive personality. Mrs. Rowland is something of an invalid, but expects to derive much benefit from our superb climate. The reporter on the Evening Telegram who was given the assignment of getting the prominent citizens of Portland to criticize President Mellen's statement, favoring Astoria as the shipping port of the Columbia river, had, as he himself expressed it, "barrel of trouble" to get men to talk against the evidence of their better judgment. He succeeded in faking up a few interested parties, however, who were willing to aver that the supply will be exhausted to be kept open, though none of them seemed very positive nor could they give any essential reason why it should be. A recent issue of a Portland paper contains the following editorial: "If any number of persons want to build a city at Astoria, by all means let them do it. It is a free country, where everybody has an equal chance. But men of Portland are building a city at Astoria." It is hardly necessary to comment on how Portland has been built, as the facts are pretty generally known but it is worthy of passing notice that Portland has been built by the manner in which the Portland wheat shippers, working in the interest of British shipowners, have compelled the producers of this state to pay at least $2.50 more per ton for sending their grain to the markets of the world than if sent from the mouth of the Columbia river or from San Francisco. At a recent meeting of the new board of directors of the I. R. & N. Co., held at the headquarters of the company at Ilwaco, preliminary arrangements were made for a booming of the beach for next summer. With the I. R. & N. Co. back of it the beach will be widely advertised next year and weekly excursions given from points in Oregon, Washington, Idaho and other states on its line at reduced rates. This means improved transportation facilities, cheap fares, and shorter time in making the beach from inland points. Heretofore North Beach has depended principally on Portland for patronage. Under the new order of things it will tap the entire Columbia river basin and other sections beyond it. The official list of the new company is: A. L. Mohler, president; E. S. Benson, general auditor; J. B. Livingston, freight auditor; J. W. Mulka, treasurer; J. R. Goulter, secretary and superintendent. The directors are A. L. Mohler, E. S. Benson, Vert Miner, W. H. Kennedy and L. A. Loomis.

At the Methodist Episcopal church, today, the new pastor, Rev. B. F. Rowland, will preach both morning and evening. Subject for the morning service: "The Relation of the Old Law to the New Gospel." Evening subject: "Self-Justification." The hour for the Sunday school has been changed to 12:30. Preaching services as usual, at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. The funeral of little Pauline Gratie was held yesterday morning at 10 o'clock from the residence. The services were conducted by Rev. T. L. Eliot, of Portland. A profusion of beautiful flowers bore silent tribute to the profound sympathy that was universally felt for the bereaved parents and the tender love for the little one. The interment was at Greenwood and was private. The convention of photographers that was held in Portland adjourned yesterday afternoon after a very successful and interesting session. The official name has been decided as "The Photographers' Association of the Pacific Northwest." Any professional photographer in good standing can become a member. The membership is confined to three states, Oregon, Washington and Idaho. At the present time there are five or six vessels in the river to begin the month of November. This does not include the disengaged Halsewood, which is lying in the harbor here waiting for a charter. Freight rates are on the decline, and it is probably there will be taken at a rate not to exceed 45c. By the time the month opens there will be a number of ships due at this port, and they will swell the tonnage in the river to good proportions. Earl Sanders, of the Second Oregon volunteers, and who resides in Portland, delivered an address at the headquarters of the Jeffersonian Club last evening. The hall was well filled and the audience, although not very enthusiastic or demonstrative, listened attentively to the speaker. Mr. Sanders, who was with his regiment in the Philippines, spoke from the standpoint of one who had been on the ground and dwelt largely on the Philippine question. A meeting of the council committee, appointed to prepare proposed amendments to the city charter, was held Friday evening. Several matters were under discussion but the only change made was an amendment giving the council authority to donate not to exceed $75 per month for the support of the public library. As the charter now stands the amount is limited to $25. Another meeting will be held tomorrow evening, when the report of the committee will be prepared for submission to the council. Rev. B. F. Rowland, the new pastor of the Methodist church here, arrived on the noon train yesterday from his former charge in Springfield, Vermont, accompanied by his wife and young son. Rev. and Mrs. Rowland left Vermont on the 11th inst. and visited their old home in Ohio and other points of interest on their way to Oregon. Mr. Rowland is a man of about 35 years of age, of genial ways and very attractive personality. Mrs. Rowland is something of an invalid, but expects to derive much benefit from our superb climate. The reporter on the Evening Telegram who was given the assignment of getting the prominent citizens of Portland to criticize President Mellen's statement, favoring Astoria as the shipping port of the Columbia river, had, as he himself expressed it, "barrel of trouble" to get men to talk against the evidence of their better judgment. He succeeded in faking up a few interested parties, however, who were willing to aver that the supply will be exhausted to be kept open, though none of them seemed very positive nor could they give any essential reason why it should be. A recent issue of a Portland paper contains the following editorial: "If any number of persons want to build a city at Astoria, by all means let them do it. It is a free country, where everybody has an equal chance. But men of Portland are building a city at Astoria." It is hardly necessary to comment on how Portland has been built, as the facts are pretty generally known but it is worthy of passing notice that Portland has been built by the manner in which the Portland wheat shippers, working in the interest of British shipowners, have compelled the producers of this state to pay at least $2.50 more per ton for sending their grain to the markets of the world than if sent from the mouth of the Columbia river or from San Francisco. At a recent meeting of the new board of directors of the I. R. & N. Co., held at the headquarters of the company at Ilwaco, preliminary arrangements were made for a booming of the beach for next summer. With the I. R. & N. Co. back of it the beach will be widely advertised next year and weekly excursions given from points in Oregon, Washington, Idaho and other states on its line at reduced rates. This means improved transportation facilities, cheap fares, and shorter time in making the beach from inland points. Heretofore North Beach has depended principally on Portland for patronage. Under the new order of things it will tap the entire Columbia river basin and other sections beyond it. The official list of the new company is: A. L. Mohler, president; E. S. Benson, general auditor; J. B. Livingston, freight auditor; J. W. Mulka, treasurer; J. R. Goulter, secretary and superintendent. The directors are A. L. Mohler, E. S. Benson, Vert Miner, W. H. Kennedy and L. A. Loomis.

At the Methodist Episcopal church, today, the new pastor, Rev. B. F. Rowland, will preach both morning and evening. Subject for the morning service: "The Relation of the Old Law to the New Gospel." Evening subject: "Self-Justification." The hour for the Sunday school has been changed to 12:30. Preaching services as usual, at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. The funeral of little Pauline Gratie was held yesterday morning at 10 o'clock from the residence. The services were conducted by Rev. T. L. Eliot, of Portland. A profusion of beautiful flowers bore silent tribute to the profound sympathy that was universally felt for the bereaved parents and the tender love for the little one. The interment was at Greenwood and was private. The convention of photographers that was held in Portland adjourned yesterday afternoon after a very successful and interesting session. The official name has been decided as "The Photographers' Association of the Pacific Northwest." Any professional photographer in good standing can become a member. The membership is confined to three states, Oregon, Washington and Idaho. At the present time there are five or six vessels in the river to begin the month of November. This does not include the disengaged Halsewood, which is lying in the harbor here waiting for a charter. Freight rates are on the decline, and it is probably there will be taken at a rate not to exceed 45c. By the time the month opens there will be a number of ships due at this port, and they will swell the tonnage in the river to good proportions. Earl Sanders, of the Second Oregon volunteers, and who resides in Portland, delivered an address at the headquarters of the Jeffersonian Club last evening. The hall was well filled and the audience, although not very enthusiastic or demonstrative, listened attentively to the speaker. Mr. Sanders, who was with his regiment in the Philippines, spoke from the standpoint of one who had been on the ground and dwelt largely on the Philippine question. A meeting of the council committee, appointed to prepare proposed amendments to the city charter, was held Friday evening. Several matters were under discussion but the only change made was an amendment giving the council authority to donate not to exceed $75 per month for the support of the public library. As the charter now stands the amount is limited to $25. Another meeting will be held tomorrow evening, when the report of the committee will be prepared for submission to the council. Rev. B. F. Rowland, the new pastor of the Methodist church here, arrived on the noon train yesterday from his former charge in Springfield, Vermont, accompanied by his wife and young son. Rev. and Mrs. Rowland left Vermont on the 11th inst. and visited their old home in Ohio and other points of interest on their way to Oregon. Mr. Rowland is a man of about 35 years of age, of genial ways and very attractive personality. Mrs. Rowland is something of an invalid, but expects to derive much benefit from our superb climate. The reporter on the Evening Telegram who was given the assignment of getting the prominent citizens of Portland to criticize President Mellen's statement, favoring Astoria as the shipping port of the Columbia river, had, as he himself expressed it, "barrel of trouble" to get men to talk against the evidence of their better judgment. He succeeded in faking up a few interested parties, however, who were willing to aver that the supply will be exhausted to be kept open, though none of them seemed very positive nor could they give any essential reason why it should be. A recent issue of a Portland paper contains the following editorial: "If any number of persons want to build a city at Astoria, by all means let them do it. It is a free country, where everybody has an equal chance. But men of Portland are building a city at Astoria." It is hardly necessary to comment on how Portland has been built, as the facts are pretty generally known but it is worthy of passing notice that Portland has been built by the manner in which the Portland wheat shippers, working in the interest of British shipowners, have compelled the producers of this state to pay at least $2.50 more per ton for sending their grain to the markets of the world than if sent from the mouth of the Columbia river or from San Francisco. At a recent meeting of the new board of directors of the I. R. & N. Co., held at the headquarters of the company at Ilwaco, preliminary arrangements were made for a booming of the beach for next summer. With the I. R. & N. Co. back of it the beach will be widely advertised next year and weekly excursions given from points in Oregon, Washington, Idaho and other states on its line at reduced rates. This means improved transportation facilities, cheap fares, and shorter time in making the beach from inland points. Heretofore North Beach has depended principally on Portland for patronage. Under the new order of things it will tap the entire Columbia river basin and other sections beyond it. The official list of the new company is: A. L. Mohler, president; E. S. Benson, general auditor; J. B. Livingston, freight auditor; J. W. Mulka, treasurer; J. R. Goulter, secretary and superintendent. The directors are A. L. Mohler, E. S. Benson, Vert Miner, W. H. Kennedy and L. A. Loomis.

At the Methodist Episcopal church, today, the new pastor, Rev. B. F. Rowland, will preach both morning and evening. Subject for the morning service: "The Relation of the Old Law to the New Gospel." Evening subject: "Self-Justification." The hour for the Sunday school has been changed to 12:30. Preaching services as usual, at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. The funeral of little Pauline Gratie was held yesterday morning at 10 o'clock from the residence. The services were conducted by Rev. T. L. Eliot, of Portland. A profusion of beautiful flowers bore silent tribute to the profound sympathy that was universally felt for the bereaved parents and the tender love for the little one. The interment was at Greenwood and was private. The convention of photographers that was held in Portland adjourned yesterday afternoon after a very successful and interesting session. The official name has been decided as "The Photographers' Association of the Pacific Northwest." Any professional photographer in good standing can become a member. The membership is confined to three states, Oregon, Washington and Idaho. At the present time there are five or six vessels in the river to begin the month of November. This does not include the disengaged Halsewood, which is lying in the harbor here waiting for a charter. Freight rates are on the decline, and it is probably there will be taken at a rate not to exceed 45c. By the time the month opens there will be a number of ships due at this port, and they will swell the tonnage in the river to good proportions. Earl Sanders, of the Second Oregon volunteers, and who resides in Portland, delivered an address at the headquarters of the Jeffersonian Club last evening. The hall was well filled and the audience, although not very enthusiastic or demonstrative, listened attentively to the speaker. Mr. Sanders, who was with his regiment in the Philippines, spoke from the standpoint of one who had been on the ground and dwelt largely on the Philippine question. A meeting of the council committee, appointed to prepare proposed amendments to the city charter, was held Friday evening. Several matters were under discussion but the only change made was an amendment giving the council authority to donate not to exceed $75 per month for the support of the public library. As the charter now stands the amount is limited to $25. Another meeting will be held tomorrow evening, when the report of the committee will be prepared for submission to the council. Rev. B. F. Rowland, the new pastor of the Methodist church here, arrived on the noon train yesterday from his former charge in Springfield, Vermont, accompanied by his wife and young son. Rev. and Mrs. Rowland left Vermont on the 11th inst. and visited their old home in Ohio and other points of interest on their way to Oregon. Mr. Rowland is a man of about 35 years of age, of genial ways and very attractive personality. Mrs. Rowland is something of an invalid, but expects to derive much benefit from our superb climate. The reporter on the Evening Telegram who was given the assignment of getting the prominent citizens of Portland to criticize President Mellen's statement, favoring Astoria as the shipping port of the Columbia river, had, as he himself expressed it, "barrel of trouble" to get men to talk against the evidence of their better judgment. He succeeded in faking up a few interested parties, however, who were willing to aver that the supply will be exhausted to be kept open, though none of them seemed very positive nor could they give any essential reason why it should be. A recent issue of a Portland paper contains the following editorial: "If any number of persons want to build a city at Astoria, by all means let them do it. It is a free country, where everybody