United States. And it seems to be the opinion of this journal that it is within the power, and that it will be to the advantage, of European nations to erect tariff barriers against the United States as we have against them.

And yet it is not the simple matter that this statement of the case would seem to indicate. If tariff barriers could be relied upon to keep out foreign competition without at the same time inflicting internal damages upon the nation erecting them, they long since would have been tried by European nations.

In Germany, France and England the business of manufacturing has been reduced to its greatest point of economy—that is, in consideration of their traditional ways and methods. And until these countries undergo a thorough economic and industrial revolution and learn to imitate the efficient system of the United States, they cannot hope to compete with us.

Mr. J. W. Patterson, night police at Nashua, Ia., says: "In January I had a very bad cold on my lungs, and used half dozen different cough medicines and prescriptions from two doctors, but they were all of no use. Finally I bought a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar and after using two-thirds of it, I was entirely cured." CHAS. ROGERS, Druggist.
