It appears that a wealthy Russian syndicate, composed of prominent business men of Petropavlovsk and San Francisco, have acquired sole right of concession to fish the waters of Kamchatka for salmon.

At the Baptist church last night after the opening song service, the evangelist commenced his special work for the evening by a beautiful rendering of the solo, "I'll Go Where You Want Me to Go." This was followed by a powerful appeal to those present to awaken to their Christian duty and privileges, proclaiming that the great need of the people of Astoria is to thus awake and the great duty of the Christians of this city is to put on the strength of the Lord, thus making their religious lives of such a character as to attract men to Christ, and thus go forth to be used of God for the salvation of men. A meeting will be held tonight, commencing at 7:30.

The ladies of the library find it necessary to give an entertainment every so often in order to secure funds for carrying on their worthy work. Tonight the Caledonian club of Portland appears under their auspices and for the benefit of this library. Fisher's theater should be crowded and those who attend will not only receive due worth for their money in the way of entertainment, but will also be adding their mite to help along a good cause. The program will please everybody, young as well as old, the prices are extremely low—25 and 50 cents, so come along; bring the family and enjoy yourself. Seats on sale at Geddis & Reed's.

TEACHERS ENJOY TRIP

HISTORIC POINTS WERE VISITED YESTERDAY.

Prof. Campbell Spoke Last Evening on 'New Century Outlook in Education.'

The annual session of the Clatsop Teachers' Institute closed last night and today the members, who have been in attendance, will leave for their homes. Yesterday a trip to historic points in the vicinity of Astoria was enjoyed and at the night session a large audience gathered at the Methodist church to hear Prof. P. L. Campbell, of the State Normal School at Monmouth, deliver a splendid address on "The New Century in Education."

Mrs. Carrie Shaw Rice, of Tacoma, who was to have read an essay on "Poets of the Northwest Pacific Coast," was unavoidably detained at her home, and sent a message of regret to the institute. During the evening vocal solos were rendered by Prof. J. C. McCue and Miss Kathryn Shively. Prof. Campbell's address was a splendid effort and was received with enthusiastic applause. He is one of the foremost educators of the state and his address was replete with information particularly welcome to teachers. Prof. Campbell said in part:

"The material development of the century just closed has been enormous; but it has been fully equalled by the development in public education. There was practically no system of public schools as we understand them. At the beginning of the century enrolled and spent $12,900,000 annually in maintenance. Organization is being perfected, and advances are being made with rapid strides.

"At every stage of development we have feared, but we were going at too rapid a rate, and have imagined dangers lying just ahead; but the surprising fact is clearly ascertained that greater safety comes with greater complexity but apparently increasing risk.

"The progress of our twentieth century civilization will be safely met through a better trained citizenship, than was that of the century just passed.

"Our schools must continue to grow in efficiency, and they will. Children must be trained in the discharge of their duties of citizenship and the same responsibility that now constitutes the underlying basis of our commercial world will form the foundation of our national safety. Faithfulness in civil duty will be thought no less a crime than treason during war. To bring about this better condition some changes are already impending in the public schools.

"First, the conditions must be made better by assigning fewer pupils to each teacher; second, the method must be made more fully and clearly inductive, so that the habit of getting all the facts before forming the conclusion will be established in the pupils' mind; third, the school must be more intimately connected with everyday life. 'School is not a preparation for living but is life itself.'

"Industrial training will be more generally introduced, and industrial ideas more strongly emphasized. Strong, active, intelligent, reliable men and women will be the great end aimed at in all education. The new century will be more complex in its civilization, but it will be safer and happier than past, for the reason that it will have more highly skilled citizens to manage its affairs."

The excursion was a delightful trip, except for a touch of rough weather, which, however, did not mar the gaiety of the teachers and their guests. The party numbered about seventy when the steamer Cleander left its wharf at 8:30 a. m. The steamer crossed the river to Chinook and kept close to the Washington shore, where there was but a little roughness. The first stop was on the sands near Fort Canby, and was not scheduled. The rising tide floated the vessel after a half hour's delay, and the party proceeded to the fort, which was inspected. The lighthouse was visited and later a lunch was served in the gymnasium of the barracks, which the officers placed at the disposal of the institute. After lunch the party went to Baker's bay to view the light-ship and relics were secured.

The trip from Fort Canby to the Lewis and Clark river was enjoyed with songs and other amusements. Geo. H. Himes, assistant secretary to the Oregon Historical Society, was present and a number of relics of historical interest were displayed, and their value explained. At Fort Clatsop the party was received by Wade Hampton Smith, who conducted the teachers and their guests over the historic ground and pointed out places of interest. On the return trip the Callender reached Astoria shortly before 5 o'clock. Among the guests of the teachers, who enjoyed the trip, were the Hon. John Minto, of Salem; G. H. Himes, Oregon Historical Society; P. L. Campbell, president of Monmouth State Normal School; State Superintendent J. H. Ackerman; G. H. Chilcote, and E. H. Hartwig, representing D. C. Heath & Co.; Prof. Moore, superintendent of schools Marion county; C. H. Jones, editor Oregon Teachers' Monthly; Mrs. C. H. Jones, County Judge Gray, Reva. Trumbull, Dell, King and Rowland; O. P. Barnes, representing Ginn & Co., and others.

COL JUDSON'S INCUBATOR.

Fooled the Hens, But Overwork Caused Death.

Since the days of the immortal Mulberry Sellers, and his famous eye water, there has been no more worthy successor as a wealth-getting project than the marvelous incubator which is described in the following, reprinted from the Pendleton East Oregonian:

"Col. H. C. Judson, who was in town for a time this morning, and went to Milton, is the man who became famous from the marvelous incubator mentioned in the evening edition of the East Oregonian of Tuesday. He said that he would strenuously object to any further mention of his name, in the columns of the daily press, but told a reporter for the East Oregonian that the invention, thought to be a wonderful thing for the egg and chicken industry, had proved to be a total failure, and that he had abandoned it entirely. The difficulty was that the hens didn't understand the machine. It was supposed to operate upon the principle of placing eggs in one end of the incubator to lay the eggs, utilizing a high pressure heat to hatch them quickly, and bring out at the end of the affair a constant stream of live chickens.

"A hopper was beneath the hens, the eggs laid by the fowls dropping into the hopper and being kept there until good, faithful work, in fact, too faithful work, for they would proceed to lay the eggs, and the hen fruit disappearing through the hopper, the hens were made to think that they had failed in what they believed to have been successful attempts to do their duty. They would proceed to lay other eggs, and kept this up all the time, until they died from sheer overwork. This quered the incubator, and compelled Mr. Judson to give up the enterprise and dissolve the joint stock company formed to make and sell the great machines. He hinted that he had dropped several thousand dollars, and that some of his friends had, through his representations, done the same."

AUTOMOBILES IN WAR.

Automobiles are to be used as army transport wagons. Trial experiments in France have proved convincing. It is odd to note the different uses to which nature and science are put. On the battlefield they fight for the destruction of life, while throughout the country Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, one of nature's most scientific medicines, fights to preserve it. For fifty years the Bitters has had making strong stomachs and curing dyspepsia, indigestion, constipation and biliousness. In the spring when the system is usually run down this wonderful medicine will be helpful in restoring your health and strength. It will also prevent malaria, fever and ague and as an appetizer it is unequalled. See that our Private Revenue Stamp is over the neck of the bottle.

A LESSON IN VALUES.

DOLLAR for dollar, pound for pound, there is more in Ivory Soap than in any household soap. It is easy to find a cheap soap; but to find purity and low price in a single soap is not easy. They combine in Ivory Soap. You can afford to use it in the laundry; you can not afford not to use it elsewhere. It is vegetable-oil soap, in the cheapest form in which it can be procured. You pay nothing for a fancy box, wrapper or perfume. It is all in the soap! It floats.

Fisher's opera house, Wednesday next, La Loie Fuller will be one of the most delightful treats of the present theatrical season. Anyone who has ever witnessed her wonderful "Fire Dance" can picture it just as vividly in their minds eye as though they were seeing its actual production on the stage.

Not only will La Loie Fuller produce all her marvelous creation here, but she is bringing with her an usually strong company of specialty artists to fill in the intervals between the dances, presenting an array of talent, the equal of which has seldom been seen in this part of the country. Taking all things into consideration, it is little wonder that the critics along the route she has traveled thus far speak in glowing terms of her performance and of the splendid company with which she is surrounded. Her tour has been one continual ovation from the very start. The seats will open Tuesday morning.

EXCURSION TO LIGHT-SHIP.

The steamer Nahcotta will leave Astoria Sunday, April 21, at 9:30 a. m., for Fort Canby. This excursion is given for the purpose of affording those who cannot get away through the week an opportunity to view the light-ship as it is being moved from MacKenzie Head to Baker's Bay. Those who have seen the ship as she now lies in her cradle pronounce it to be a rare and unique sight. The owner of a kodak or camera should not miss this opportunity to get a snap shot of old No. 59. The Nahcotta will leave Fort Canby returning at 3:30 p. m., and the steamer will touch at Ilwaco dock both ways. Fare for the round trip, $1.

FANNIE B. RALSTON, (Showing her wonderful improvement.)

clear my skin, my face was in a horrible condition literally covered with red spots, pimples, blackheads, moth patches and freckles. And whenever the weather changed eczema, chaps and salt rheum added to my misery. I suffered a thousand deaths, and when I sent for a trial of Mrs. Ribalton's beautifiers just as I had done before times and again with other advertised remedies. I did not expect any result, imagine my surprise when the next day all redness and soreness were gone. At the end of a week my skin began to clear, the freckles and moth patches disappeared and the eczema and salt rheum were completely cured. I improved so wonderfully that my friends did not recognize me, so quickly had the change taken place. My skin is now perfectly lovely, and there is not a blemish or wrinkle anywhere.

I hope all ladies will at least try these marvelous beautifiers. Do not delay but write immediately. The treatment is harmless, a natural beauty maker and will permanently remove all tan, freckles, moth patches, pimples, blackheads, flesh worms, sunburn, chaps, roughness and any and all skin imperfections no matter what they may be. Write to-day without fail and the free treatment will be mailed prepaid with full directions and all particulars absolutely free. Address, MRS. B. RALSTON, 225 Elm Building, Chicago, Ill.
