

The Morning Astorian

TELEPHONE 661.

All contracts for advertising in the Astorian are made on a guarantee of circulation four times larger than that of any paper published or circulated in Clatsop county.

TODAY'S WEATHER.

PORTLAND, Aug. 20.—Western Oregon, Western Washington, fair, warm; Eastern Oregon, hazy, warm; Eastern Washington and Northern Idaho, probably thundershowers, cooler; Southern Idaho, thundershowers, warmer in the eastern portion.

AROUND TOWN.

See R. M. Gaston about harness.

The Knox Hat at C. H. Cooper's.

White Ash Coal, best for family use. Phone, main 661.

"Lipton" Tea and "White House" coffee at Fisher Bros.

Mrs. Harrison and daughter, Myrtle, spent last week at Ilwaco.

The Occident barbershop now has four first-class barbers. No waiting.

Call main 661 for your coal requirements. Orders promptly filled.

Best 15-cent meal—Rising Sun Restaurant, 612 Commercial street.

Japanese goods of all kinds, cheap at Yokohama Bazaar, 626 Commercial St.

Pure milk delivered twice daily by the Milk Depot, corner Tenth and Duane Streets.

You will not be disappointed if you buy your winter supplies of us.—Johnson Bros.

C. O. Bell, the well-known Portland attorney, was in the city yesterday on business.

Harness cleaned and oiled at Pinnell's 109 Twelfth street. Harness supplies at lowest prices.

John A. Montgomery has opened a shop at 421 Bond street and is prepared to do all classes of plumbing and tinning at the lowest possible rates.

For a bath and hire on Sunday mornings, go to the Palace Baths. Everything new and clean. Parcels, tubs, Davis & Corbett, proprietors.

Cream pure rye, America's finest whiskey. The only pure goods, guaranteed rich and mellow. JOHN L. CARLSON, Sole Agent.

BEST 15-CENT MEAL. RISING SUN RESTAURANT.

Arrived—The new fall block of Knox Hats. Gentlemen, come and see them. C. H. Cooper, sole agent.

Typewriting—Wanted, typewriter to copy letters. Address, stating price per letter, C. A. Astorian Office.

I carry a stock of mirrors well worth looking into; mirrors to suit all people and purses. Charles Rogers.

Do you drink tea? If so try our White Lily of Japan. Your money back if not pleased.—Johnson Bros.

Just received, the Knox hat for fall and winter, 1901-1902, both stiff and soft styles, at C. H. Cooper's, sole agent.

Parties holding coupons for crockery were at C. H. Cooper's should present the same while the assortment is large. Don't delay.

For first-class harness and general repairing go to A. C. Pinnell, 109 Twelfth Street. Prices reasonable and satisfaction guaranteed.

Furnished rooms to let by the day, week or month. Terms reasonable. Apply 215 Fourteenth street.

Haydahl Danielson, a native of Norway, was granted his first citizenship papers in the county clerk's office yesterday.

The First Lutheran church Sunday school picnic yesterday was a success in every way and the attendance exceeded 300.

The gasoline schooner Anita, which has been laid up at the O. R. & N. dock all summer, left our wharf yesterday morning bound for Alaska.

W. B. Brinker, a prominent attorney of Los Vegas, N. M., was in the city yesterday. Mr. Brinker is making a tour of the Northwest.

F. D. Botz has resigned as manager of the Clatsop Mill Company and will hereafter devote his time to his number interests on Puget Sound.

Roslyn coal tanks longer, is cleaner and makes less trouble with stoves and chimneys than any other. George W. Sanborn, agent; telephone 1311.

"Lipton" Tea and "White House" Coffee at Fisher Bros.

The necessary license for the marriage of Miss Burns and M. Nolan, which will take place at the Catholic church this morning, was issued yesterday by County Clerk Wherry.

J. W. Crow, of Knappa, repair man of the Sea Coast telegraph line, owned by the government, has resigned his position and his successor will be Herbert H. Dabak of Seattle.

The British ship Palladoch, with a cargo of grain for Europe, will arrive down the river this morning. The Palladoch has on board 140,806 bushels of wheat valued at $83,000.

Last Saturday afternoon, on Eighth street, between Franklin and Grand Ave., or on Eighth street road, a man's light-colored suit with velvet collar, finder please return to Astorian office. Reward.

The Tuke Point Oyster House is now open to the public at 112 Eleventh St. The celebrated Tuke Point Oysters served in any style. Everything new and up to date. Service the best. Open day and night. Frank Hlatt, proprietor.

The union people of the Baptist and Methodist Sabbath schools will be held at Youmans bay opposite the city, on Friday next. Those who desire to attend are requested to assemble at the Methodist church at 9 o'clock with lunch baskets.

J. E. Brallier, C. Bradbury and Carl Johnson were appointed by the county court yesterday to view the location of a proposed road partitioned for by residents of district No. 3. Several road matters were considered by the county court yesterday.

The log raft of the Robertson Company is still aground in the Westport slough and active steps to dredge it out has not yet been started. The two tugs that came around from the Sound to tow the raft to San Francisco are still standing by the raft and will assist in getting it afloat.

Parties desiring furniture should not overlook the opportunity to purchase at S. Danziger's. While considerable has been sold there still remains un sold some parlor furniture, china and glassware, kitchen utensils, curtains, walnut bedroom set, etc., which must be sold within the next fifteen days.

The O. R. & N. has made a rate of $56 from Astoria and Portland for the Pan-American exposition at Buffalo. Tickets will be on sale first to third Tuesdays, June to October, inclusive. These tickets must be used for continuous passage going, but stopovers will be allowed within final limit returning.

Some five years ago, Mr. Osborne, who lives near Dallas, killed a wild goose and found two large grains of wheat in its crop. He planted them and he replanted the product until now he has two and one-half acres of fine looking grain. The heads are extra long and the grain large, the yield being perhaps one-third more than ordinary wheat. He has no name for the new variety, but believes it to be a prospective big thing.—Albany Herald.

"Lipton" Tea and "White House" Coffee at Fisher Bros.

Arrived—The new fall block of Knox Hats. Gentlemen, come and see them. C. H. Cooper, sole agent.

Typewriting—Wanted, typewriter to copy letters. Address, stating price per letter, C. A. Astorian Office.

I carry a stock of mirrors well worth looking into; mirrors to suit all people and purses. Charles Rogers.

Do you drink tea? If so try our White Lily of Japan. Your money back if not pleased.—Johnson Bros.

Just received, the Knox hat for fall and winter, 1901-1902, both stiff and soft styles, at C. H. Cooper's, sole agent.

Parties holding coupons for crockery were at C. H. Cooper's should present the same while the assortment is large. Don't delay.

For first-class harness and general repairing go to A. C. Pinnell, 109 Twelfth Street. Prices reasonable and satisfaction guaranteed.

Furnished rooms to let by the day, week or month. Terms reasonable. Apply 215 Fourteenth street.

Haydahl Danielson, a native of Norway, was granted his first citizenship papers in the county clerk's office yesterday.

The First Lutheran church Sunday school picnic yesterday was a success in every way and the attendance exceeded 300.

The gasoline schooner Anita, which has been laid up at the O. R. & N. dock all summer, left our wharf yesterday morning bound for Alaska.

W. B. Brinker, a prominent attorney of Los Vegas, N. M., was in the city yesterday. Mr. Brinker is making a tour of the Northwest.

F. D. Botz has resigned as manager of the Clatsop Mill Company and will hereafter devote his time to his number interests on Puget Sound.

Roslyn coal tanks longer, is cleaner and makes less trouble with stoves and chimneys than any other. George W. Sanborn, agent; telephone 1311.

"Lipton" Tea and "White House" Coffee at Fisher Bros.

The necessary license for the marriage of Miss Burns and M. Nolan, which will take place at the Catholic church this morning, was issued yesterday by County Clerk Wherry.

J. W. Crow, of Knappa, repair man of the Sea Coast telegraph line, owned by the government, has resigned his position and his successor will be Herbert H. Dabak of Seattle.

The British ship Palladoch, with a cargo of grain for Europe, will arrive down the river this morning. The Palladoch has on board 140,806 bushels of wheat valued at $83,000.

Last Saturday afternoon, on Eighth street, between Franklin and Grand Ave., or on Eighth street road, a man's light-colored suit with velvet collar, finder please return to Astorian office. Reward.

The Tuke Point Oyster House is now open to the public at 112 Eleventh St. The celebrated Tuke Point Oysters served in any style. Everything new and up to date. Service the best. Open day and night. Frank Hlatt, proprietor.

The union people of the Baptist and Methodist Sabbath schools will be held at Youmans bay opposite the city, on Friday next. Those who desire to attend are requested to assemble at the Methodist church at 9 o'clock with lunch baskets.

J. E. Brallier, C. Bradbury and Carl Johnson were appointed by the county court yesterday to view the location of a proposed road partitioned for by residents of district No. 3. Several road matters were considered by the county court yesterday.

The log raft of the Robertson Company is still aground in the Westport slough and active steps to dredge it out has not yet been started. The two tugs that came around from the Sound to tow the raft to San Francisco are still standing by the raft and will assist in getting it afloat.

Parties desiring furniture should not overlook the opportunity to purchase at S. Danziger's. While considerable has been sold there still remains un sold some parlor furniture, china and glassware, kitchen utensils, curtains, walnut bedroom set, etc., which must be sold within the next fifteen days.

The O. R. & N. has made a rate of $56 from Astoria and Portland for the Pan-American exposition at Buffalo. Tickets will be on sale first to third Tuesdays, June to October, inclusive. These tickets must be used for continuous passage going, but stopovers will be allowed within final limit returning.

Some five years ago, Mr. Osborne, who lives near Dallas, killed a wild goose and found two large grains of wheat in its crop. He planted them and he replanted the product until now he has two and one-half acres of fine looking grain. The heads are extra long and the grain large, the yield being perhaps one-third more than ordinary wheat. He has no name for the new variety, but believes it to be a prospective big thing.—Albany Herald.

At a meeting of the Finnish Brotherhood held last night seventeen new members were initiated and Alex Penttila was elected president, to succeed the late Fred Wickman.

M. P. Callender, of Knappa, is quoted as stating that the calling off of the labor strike on the coast will not start up the sawmills, in fact, he claims, the damage done in suspending building operations has crippled the mills so that it will take them a long time to recover from the effects.

A salmon weighing seven pounds was caught on January 1 in the Hann river, Ireland, and, after being marked, was released. The same salmon has been taken in another Irish river. The fishermen, 100 miles from the coast from its native streams. That salmon evidently wanted to be caught and kept caught.

Henry Cameron, the young man who was arrested Sunday by Sheriff Linville on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Brower yesterday and the preliminary examination set for next Friday. The defendant will remain in jail pending the disposition of his case.

Although the weather conditions for the past few days have indicated rain and plenty of it, Observer Johnson expects the regatta weather to be ideal. But once in ten years had it rained on the three last days of August. On the other hand cloudy weather and showers have always been predicted about August 20.

The clerk's union held a meeting last night at which a considerable amount of routine business was transacted and two members were received. The committee appointed to interview the merchants and secure uniform early closing hours reported that the local merchants would be closed at 6 p. m., except Saturdays, after September 1.

Unless the pictorial department of the Evening Telegram is in error Walter L. Robb is a dead end. In last night's paper was a photograph of the regatta committee man and underneath was a tribute of respect and an account of funeral services held over the remains of a lately deceased Portland citizen, Robb himself was considerably surprised when he saw the half-tone and his friends said to him that he didn't get even half a chance to force it.

Hon. M. A. Moody, congressman from the Second Oregon district, is making a tour of the eastern part of the state with P. N. Nowell, chief of the division of hydrography of the interior department, and Clifford Pinnell, chief of the forestry division of the department of agriculture. The visitors are studying the influence and bearing of the streams in the state on the land lands. A meeting has been arranged to be held in Portland at which the government experts and officers and managers of irrigation and land reclamation companies will be present.

The wedding of Frances Gertrude Holden and Charles M. Brink will be solemnized today at the Presbyterian church, the Rev. Henry Marcotte officiating. Mr. Brink will be attended by Randall Reed, and Miss Holden's maids will be the Misses Tallant, Stockton, Hall and Strong. Ushers will be G. H. Ohler, Paul Trullinger, Gus Woods and Frank Woodfield. Mr. Brink and his bride will leave tonight for Oakland, Cal., where they will make their future home. A dance will be given by the young men of the wedding party to the maids, and a number of guests among local society folk have been invited.

Just before the Tahama left for Portland Monday night a crowd of Chinamen appeared on the dock and going aboard the boat, possibly removed one of their countrymen from her. It developed later that they were under the impression that the loss of the gang that has been working at the A. Booth Co's cannery, was going to fit to parts unknown with the proceeds of the season's work without paying his men. The Chinese were misinformed as the man they detained was a merchant and the boss is not only still in the city but has funds sufficient to pay the men by his credit at the cannery. The money will be paid over, said Manager Chatter yesterday, as soon as the Chinese finish their contract.

Admiral Edwards was in the city yesterday in conference with the regatta committee, and plans for the trip of the queen and the admiral and their retinue down the river were perfected. On the morning of the 25th the Astoria maids, their chaperones and the committee to entertain the queen will leave for Portland on the train. They will proceed immediately to the steamer Harvest Queen, which will convey the party to Astoria. The boat is to arrive at Astoria at 6 o'clock that evening and will dock at the Eleventh street wharf, where the grand stand will be erected. Two big guns from Fort Stevens will fire a salute—twenty-one guns for the queen and seventeen for the admiral. During the salutes the party will disembark and will be received by the committees and the queen will hold a reception to meet the people of Astoria and the visitors who are presented. The formal coronation ceremonies will take place the night following, the 29th, when the regatta ball will be held. It has not been decided yet whether the queen will open the ball and lead the grand march or will remain on the throne that will be erected for her and witness but not participate in the merry-making of her subjects.

Three different parties, says the Willapa Harbor Pilot, were in the city this week, all with the same object in view—the location of a sawmill site. The parties were I. Bumauer, of Bucoda, W. H. Cameron, of Wisconsin, and Frank Gouger, of Frances. As the city has plenty of sites and no end of timber the gentlemen could not help but be satisfied with the situation.

The jury in the case of the State vs. E. J. Lewellyn, of the fire department, charged with throwing sawdust into the river in violation of a provision of the fisheries law brought in a verdict of guilty yesterday, having been so directed by Justice of the Peace Brower, before whom the case was tried. The late Fred Wickman was the complainant at the time Lewellyn was arrested but at yesterday's trial no evidence was brought out to prove the violation charged.

The foreclosure sale of the fishing schooner Josie under a mortgage granted by W. W. Whipple, Alex Grant, C. F. White and Joe Baker, the latter's interest assigned to F. D. Winton, to Robert Carraher was not held yesterday owing to an injunction restraining the sheriff from carrying out the order of sale. The injunction was obtained by F. D. Winton from County Judge Gray and he alleges that the mortgage, amounting to $2000, has been paid and that the foreclosure sale was a fraudulent proceeding designed to defraud the petitioner out of his interest in the schooner. He asks for an accounting of the partnership in addition to the restraining order preventing the sale. The case will be argued before Judge McBride.

Here is a story of a dog dying of a broken heart—taken by his master, and desolate and forlorn in a new home that was not of his choosing. Everyone who knows "Bill" Madison knew his fox terrier, Mark. The two were inseparable up to a fortnight ago. Mr. Madison and Deputy Collector of Customs F. L. Parker recently took an extensive bicycle trip down the Oregon coast and Mark went along. But the trip proved tiresome for the dog and he was left with Mr. Madison's brother-in-law in Independence. The night before he was taken to his new home Mr. Madison spent the evening with his relatives, Mr. Parker staying at the hotel. About midnight he heard a commotion in the hall composed largely of agonized and pleading canine whines. He opened the door and Mark showed signs of unmistakable joy as he ran in and crept under the bed, where he slept until morning. The next day he was taken to his new master and Messrs. Parker and Madison continued their journey. And now Mark is undergoing all the tortures of painful separation and he doesn't enjoy it. Whenever he is released he goes directly to the hotel and to the room occupied by Mr. Parker. He whines at the door until it is opened and then investigates the occupants if there be any. If not he goes from one corner to the other, showing his disappointment. He has refused to be happy in his new home or to be in any degree comforted. And here in Astoria Madison has missed the dog almost as much as the animal misses his master. Therefore a reunion is on the cards which will probably occur within the week.

CARNIVAL KING'S ARRIVAL.

Ceremonies Tonight at the Street Fair Arch on Eleventh Street.

The good citizens of Astoria should not fail to go and have a look at the Fair Arch tonight on the corner of Eleventh and Duane streets. There will be witnessed the arrival of the avante courier of the king of the carnival which will be attended by the strains of local music and by a display of fireworks. As it is not often that good republicans have aught to do with kings and their heralds it would be as well to take in the matter for once in a while and hear what he has to say for himself. Just who the herald may be is unknown, but it is surmised that he is an eloquent Englishman with a banking air about the folds of his native land.

The herald will announce the arrival of the king in this city and will further declare that according to ancient but mysterious custom he expects that his incognito is to be preserved until such time as he himself unmask in the presence of the fair queen of the regatta. Why these should be any incognito is beyond most people and it is suspected that there is a relic of Eastern customs in the matter and that perhaps the monarch of the fair and carnival is a lineal descendant of Khalif Haroun al Raschid that famous potentate of Bagdad whose incognito achievements are recounted at length in the tales of the Thousand and One Nights by the incomparable Sultana Scherazade.

Of course there are others beside Oriental sovereigns who travel quietly, the present king of Great Britain having often masqueraded in fair Paree as the Earl of Chester and with such eminent examples to give him courage a popular citizen of Astoria may well appear as the incognito king of the carnival.

BANKRUPT SALE.

The entire stock of H. Tol, consisting of dry goods and curios must be closed out within thirty days. Goods sold regardless of cost. 551 Commercial St.

FOR SALE.

The Columbia River Packers Association has for sale, two schooners and one launch. A description of the schooners follow: Schooner "Kinney"—Length, 35.5; beam, 11.3; depth of hold, 3.04; Schooner "Hattie"—Length, 31.9; beam, 9.9; depth of hold, 3.3. Offers will be received at the office of the association, where full particulars may also be had.

ODD WAYS OF THE BEAVER.

How He Manages to Stay Under Water So Long in Winter.

The current number of Rod and Gun in Canada has an article on the habits of the beaver, in which the writer, Frank H. Risten, tells some interesting things about that most interesting of North American animals. Of the cutting power of the beaver's teeth the writer says:

"The beaver is really a sort of portable pulp mill, gripping up most any kind of wood that comes his way. I once measured a white birch tree, twenty-two inches through, cut down by a beaver. A single beaver generally, if not always, amputates the tree, and when it comes down the whole family fall to and have a regular frolic with the bark and branches. A big beaver will bring down a fair-sized sapling, say three inches through, in about two minutes, and a large tree in about an hour.

"One of the queerest facts about the beaver is the rapidly with which his long, chisel-shaped teeth will recover from an injury. I have known beavers to break their teeth in biting a trap, and when I caught them again ten days afterward you couldn't see a sign of the break—the teeth had grown out to their former perfection in that short period."

Mr. Risten's experiences have not given him a very high opinion of the beaver's swimming powers. He writes:

"As compared with the otter or mink the beaver is a very slow swimmer. His front legs hang by his sides, and he uses only his webbed hind feet for purposes of swimming. It is easy to capture one in a canoe if you can find him in shoal water. He is a most determined fighter but clumsy and easy to handle. If he could get hold of you with his teeth he would almost take a leg off—so you want to watch him sharp. The place to grab him is by the tail."

Of the ability of the beaver and some other wild animals and birds to remain a long time under water this writer says:

"The ability of a beaver to remain under water for a long time is really not so tough a problem as it looks. When the lake or pond is frozen over the beaver will come to the under surface of the ice and expel his breath so that it will form a wide, flat bubble. The air column in contact with the ice and water is purified, and the beaver breathes it in again. This operation he can repeat several times. The otter and muskrat do the same thing.

"When the ice is thin and clear I have often seen the muskrat attached to his bubble, and by pounding on the ice have driven him away from it, when he would drown in a very short time. I believe the beaver, as well as the loon, sometimes employs this pneumatic function principle by breathing into the mud on the bottom and thus remaining under water for a remarkable length of time."

That it is difficult to hold most of the shyer fur-bearing animals in captivity as known to those who have made the experiment, but the beaver evidently takes the lead in this respect. In Mr. Risten's estimation as the following will show:

"I almost take a burglar-proof safe to hold a newly captured beaver. I once caught an old one and two kittens up the north branch of the Sog-West" put them in a barrel and brought them down to Miramichi Lake. That night she gnawed a hole through the barrel and cleared out leaving her kittens. They were so young that I had no way of feeding them, so released them in the hope that the mother might find them. Soon after that I caught a big male beaver. I made a large log pen for him of dry spruce, but the second night he cut a log out and disappeared.

"Beavers when alarmed generally make no sound, so I went up the brook to where a little branch came in and I thought I would go up that a little way, and I hadn't gone more than ten rods before I ran across my lad sitting up in the bed of the brook having a lunch on a stick he had cut. He actually looked as if he knew he was playing truant when he caught sight of me out of the side of his eye."

"I picked him up by the tail and brought him back, put him in the pen, supplied him with plenty of fresh paplar, and he seemed as tame as possible. I brought him out to Stanley where he lived a long time. Turnbull had a thoroughbred mongrel dog which was jealous of the beaver, and one day he attacked him. He only did that once for the beaver nipped the dog's tail off quicker than a cat could catch a mouse."

ODD WAYS OF MAKING A LIVING.

Some Curious Occupations That Men Have Taken Up in New York.

New York Sun.

"About as odd an occupation as a man could be engaged in," said a downtown business man, "is that of selling needle threads, and I have known but one man to be engaged in that business. I've seen him, day after day, and year after year, standing in a busy downtown street, showing over and over again how the thread works, and selling threads to passers-by. How many years he's been at it I don't know, but, if he will permit me to say so, he and I have grown gray together. I am engaged at my business, and he at his.

"Another odd calling for a steady occupation is that of the man who sells pipe cleaners. More than one man engages in this business, occasionally, but there is one man whose face has been familiar for years, to thousands of downtown business men who stand on the sidewalk and sell pipe cleaners to you the year 'round.

"There's a man downtown who for years and for quite a good many of them, too, has been selling to sidewalk

How He Manages to Stay Under Water So Long in Winter.

The current number of Rod and Gun in Canada has an article on the habits of the beaver, in which the writer, Frank H. Risten, tells some interesting things about that most interesting of North American animals. Of the cutting power of the beaver's teeth the writer says:

"The beaver is really a sort of portable pulp mill, gripping up most any kind of wood that comes his way. I once measured a white birch tree, twenty-two inches through, cut down by a beaver. A single beaver generally, if not always, amputates the tree, and when it comes down the whole family fall to and have a regular frolic with the bark and branches. A big beaver will bring down a fair-sized sapling, say three inches through, in about two minutes, and a large tree in about an hour.

"One of the queerest facts about the beaver is the rapidly with which his long, chisel-shaped teeth will recover from an injury. I have known beavers to break their teeth in biting a trap, and when I caught them again ten days afterward you couldn't see a sign of the break—the teeth had grown out to their former perfection in that short period."

Mr. Risten's experiences have not given him a very high opinion of the beaver's swimming powers. He writes:

"As compared with the otter or mink the beaver is a very slow swimmer. His front legs hang by his sides, and he uses only his webbed hind feet for purposes of swimming. It is easy to capture one in a canoe if you can find him in shoal water. He is a most determined fighter but clumsy and easy to handle. If he could get hold of you with his teeth he would almost take a leg off—so you want to watch him sharp. The place to grab him is by the tail."

Of the ability of the beaver and some other wild animals and birds to remain a long time under water this writer says:

"The ability of a beaver to remain under water for a long time is really not so tough a problem as it looks. When the lake or pond is frozen over the beaver will come to the under surface of the ice and expel his breath so that it will form a wide, flat bubble. The air column in contact with the ice and water is purified, and the beaver breathes it in again. This operation he can repeat several times. The otter and muskrat do the same thing.

"When the ice is thin and clear I have often seen the muskrat attached to his bubble, and by pounding on the ice have driven him away from it, when he would drown in a very short time. I believe the beaver, as well as the loon, sometimes employs this pneumatic function principle by breathing into the mud on the bottom and thus remaining under water for a remarkable length of time."

That it is difficult to hold most of the shyer fur-bearing animals in captivity as known to those who have made the experiment, but the beaver evidently takes the lead in this respect. In Mr. Risten's estimation as the following will show:

"I almost take a burglar-proof safe to hold a newly captured beaver. I once caught an old one and two kittens up the north branch of the Sog-West" put them in a barrel and brought them down to Miramichi Lake. That night she gnawed a hole through the barrel and cleared out leaving her kittens. They were so young that I had no way of feeding them, so released them in the hope that the mother might find them. Soon after that I caught a big male beaver. I made a large log pen for him of dry spruce, but the second night he cut a log out and disappeared.

"Beavers when alarmed generally make no sound, so I went up the brook to where a little branch came in and I thought I would go up that a little way, and I hadn't gone more than ten rods before I ran across my lad sitting up in the bed of the brook having a lunch on a stick he had cut. He actually looked as if he knew he was playing truant when he caught sight of me out of the side of his eye."

"I picked him up by the tail and brought him back, put him in the pen, supplied him with plenty of fresh paplar, and he seemed as tame as possible. I brought him out to Stanley where he lived a long time. Turnbull had a thoroughbred mongrel dog which was jealous of the beaver, and one day he attacked him. He only did that once for the beaver nipped the dog's tail off quicker than a cat could catch a mouse."

ODD WAYS OF MAKING A LIVING.

Some Curious Occupations That Men Have Taken Up in New York.

New York Sun.

"About as odd an occupation as a man could be engaged in," said a downtown business man, "is that of selling needle threads, and I have known but one man to be engaged in that business. I've seen him, day after day, and year after year, standing in a busy downtown street, showing over and over again how the thread works, and selling threads to passers-by. How many years he's been at it I don't know, but, if he will permit me to say so, he and I have grown gray together. I am engaged at my business, and he at his.

"Another odd calling for a steady occupation is that of the man who sells pipe cleaners. More than one man engages in this business, occasionally, but there is one man whose face has been familiar for years, to thousands of downtown business men who stand on the sidewalk and sell pipe cleaners to you the year 'round.

"There's a man downtown who for years and for quite a good many of them, too, has been selling to sidewalk passers-by, two-foot rules. I venture to say that he is the only man in the world who makes a business of selling two-foot rules in the street.

"And who, of downtown New York does not know, by sight at least, the man who sells garters? I don't mean the man met now and then with a pushcart load of all sorts of garters, but the man who for years, summers and winter the year 'round, has stood in one place in the city's busiest thoroughfare, and sold garters of just one special kind to the passers-by."

GOLD! GOLD! GOLD!

The latest El Dorado is reported to be on Nome City Beach, Alaska. Thousands of people are hastening there, many of whom will return broken in health. Of what avail in gold when health is gone? Guard your health with the best of all medicines—Howater's Stomach Bitters, and you will always have true health. The Bitters are for people who have abused their stomachs, or are naturally weak. It will regulate the bowels, stir up the liver, invigorate the kidneys, and absolutely cure indigestion, constipation, malaria, chills and fever. It is a natural tonic, absolutely free from dangerous narcotics. It should be taken to protect the system from attacks of malaria, fever and ague. It's a good medicine to keep on hand.

GRAND TWENTY-ROUND GLOVE CONTEST

Under the Management of Fred Brown,