

Crockery Sale Still Booming.

The crowds around our crockery and glassware bargain counters yesterday reminded us of the day before Christmas. We were all so busy selling these articles that we hardly had time to think, and the clerks were glad when the day was over so that they would have a chance to rest.

Are You Sure You Have Not Made a Mistake?

Is what so many of the ladies said when we told them what this or that article was worth.

Don't See How We Could do it.

They didn't see how we could sell such good ware at such a low price. But we have sold the stock must be sold out before January 1st.

The approaching city election promises to be one of the most interesting ever held. While Republican candidates for office have not yet been announced, party leaders are said to be getting matters in shape in time for the convention. J. K. Wirt has just announced his candidacy for the office of street superintendent. He has not asked the nomination from either of the political parties. Mr. Wirt says he has paid taxes in Astoria for the past 20 years and is of the opinion that in view of his especial fitness for the office he is entitled to the votes of the people. The Republican primaries will be held today. The regular ticket will have no opposition and the primaries will not be attended with any excitement. It is understood there will be a scramble of candidates for mayor on the Citizens ticket, but the belief seems to prevail that Mayor Bergman will be re-nominated. Whether or not Councilman Cook will make the race for police commissioner is an open question but it is understood he prefers to remain in the council.
