Some time ago it was announced that the Louvre building would be removed to an uptown location. Negotiations looking to lease of the Flavel Property at the southeast corner of Bond and Ninth streets were attempted, but the owners declined to fix a price, and the Louvre will not be removed at present.

The last trip of the Elder from Astoria was a very rough one. She reached San Francisco twelve hours late, and on the voyage down the coast the passengers were compelled to remain in their staterooms almost continually. Chief Officer Wallace was thrown against the bulkheads during the heavy weather, suffering a fracture of the leg.

The ladies of the Monday Club of the Presbyterian church are making extensive preparations for the sale and tea to be given at the residence of Mrs. C. W. Fulton on the afternoon and evening of Friday, November 22. The sale begins at 1 o'clock and a large variety of useful articles will be offered. The public is cordially invited to be present.

Three instruments were filed for record yesterday. One was a power of attorney for Louis White, of Oakland, to Mary P. Strong, of Portland. The other instruments were two sheriff's deeds, conveying to J. E. Higgins, trustee, 240 acres of land in section 15, township 12 north of range 4 west, and section 17, township 6 north of range 4 west. The consideration was $1235.

This far County Clerk Wherity has collected $22,214.68 in delinquent taxes. Collection of this amount is one of the results of the law passed at the last session of the legislature providing for the sale of all delinquent property on July 1. Sale has been postponed several times in Clatsop for the convenience of property owners and is now set for December 1. The amount above named represents collections made for the county, city and school district.

Balston and Martin, who were locked upon as top-notchers in the Commercial Club baseball tournament, met with bad luck last night, losing two out of three games to Allen and Tuttle. The scores were: 21-13, 21-16 and 16-21. Oiler and Mills took two out of three from Peterson and McNamee, the scores being 21-17, 21-41 and 21-21. Tonight Woodfield and Funge will play Sinnott and Osburn and H. C. Thompson and C. R. Thomson will meet Blackton and Thomas.

The gasoline schooner Delta arrived yesterday from Nantuxoa with a cargo of farm produce. The schooner reached the mouth of the river Tuesday afternoon, but when about half way in her supply of gasoline became exhausted. The bar tug Walluta was near at the time and the schooner displayed distress signals, but they were not seen by the tug. The tug at Capt. Disappointment saw the signals and called out the life-saving crew, but by the time the lifeboat reached the bar the schooner had stood out to sea, using her sails. She anchored near the whistling buoy and was towed in this morning.

Indications are that the present month will be one of the wettest November on record, a good start in that direction having already been made. The records of Weather Man Johnson show that the precipitation up to 5 o'clock last night was 7.34 inches, while the average for the first 20 days of the month is 6.43, the excess being .91 of an inch. The greatest precipitation in any single day was 1.54, which isn't very much in this land of rain, but the elements have precipitated for sixteen out of the twenty days and maintained a fair average at that, bringing the total up to 7.31. There is no prospect of the average for the present month being raised by sunshine.

At the last meeting of the Push Club Harrison Allen and Harrison L. Hamblet were named by President Gaston as a committee to interview all former members of the club and others as well and inform them that the Push Club proposed to do business in the old-time manner. Yesterday Messrs. Allen and Hamblet prepared a circular letter in accordance with the instructions received and sent a copy to each business man and former member. It is expected the membership of the club will increase from this time on. The committee named by President Gaston to prepare a program for the annual meeting, December 15, will meet some time during the present week and outline a plan. It will be the aim of the committee to secure five-minute addresses from prominent members and to arrange for other features of interest.

Two big real estate deals have just been consummated in West Astoria property. A. V. Allen and Carlton Allen, who owned jointly a two-thirds interest in the Washington country property, have sold their interest to William E. Tallant, the consideration being $10,000. The other one-third interest in this property is owned by E. W. Tallant. Messrs. Allen have purchased from the Peninsula Land & Trust Company 250 feet of frontage adjoining the Washington country tract on the west. The property bought extends from the pier-head line to Taylor avenue. The price paid was $20 a front foot, or $5000 for the tract. A. V. Allen, when seen yesterday, stated that he was not yet ready to announce his plans, and could not say definitely whether or not he and his brother would build. It is understood that Mr. Tallant will organize a company to build a new cannery on the property just purchased, and that the packing house will be ready for operation by next season.

This morning at 9 o'clock the reserve seat sale opens for the great laughing Irish farce comedy, "Maloney's Wedding Day," which appears at Fisher's opera house tomorrow evening. It is a refreshing combination of comedy and drama, entertains with a cleverly developed story and amuses with the most delightful drollery. A breezy, original streak of comedy runs through its three acts that carries audiences into flights of merriest moods and keeps them in the liveliest humor from rise to fall of curtain. Its story hinges on the ambition of a happy-go-lucky Irishman—Dan Maloney—to wed the captivating wealthy Widow Clancy. The erratic Maloney is a veritable "football of fortune that has been kicked into every convenient gutter." Through an amusing case of mistaken identity he is introduced into a social circle, which includes the wealthy widow with whom Maloney falls in love. The many complications and blunders in his love-making are said to be an endless source of laughter that keeps fun at a white heat through the whole performance.

According to the Oregonian, E. P. Kendall, district manager of the American Can Company, has offered to remove the local factory to the metropolis if the people there hold out suitable inducements. Coming just after settlement of the freight rate southerly, which was adjusted to the entire satisfaction of the can company, Mr. Kendall's statement is in the nature of a huge surprise, as he expressed himself quite differently while in Astoria some time ago. The Oregonian quotes him as saying: "We will want a site 200x400, between water and rail, as we do a good deal of shipping out and in by boat and car. The recent terminal rate given Astoria helped us materially so far as shipping freight from the East is concerned, but the local rate is added on goods we ship to Portland and two local rates are put on freight sent to Spokane. By moving our plant here we can save a good deal on freight and serve our Portland customers direct, without paying freight at all. Besides furnishing cans for salmon packing, we do a large business in hard cans, paint cans, spice cans, etc., and most of this business has to be shipped from our present location at Astoria to the distant customers."

Captain Langille has appointed W. E. Morris, assistant engineer, to make a report on the request of the county for a location for the proposed new draw-bridge over the Lewis and Clarke river. Mr. Morris will meet the interested parties at the county court rooms at 10 o'clock this morning, when the views of those concerned will be heard. Mr. Morris' report will be forwarded to Captain Langille, who will recommend a location to the secretary of war. This action is necessary in all cases where bridges are constructed over navigable streams. The bridge will constitute part of a new road petitioned for by people living between Astoria and Warrenton. The road will connect with the Youngs bay bridge and will be about five miles in length. One and one-half miles of the road have already been built. Location of the bridge over the Lewis and Clarke has not been decided upon, some preferring a location at the mouth of the river and others desiring that it be built about three-quarters of a mile from the mouth. At today's meeting a thorough expression of opinion will be secured. All those interested are requested to be present, as there is a general desire that there should be no unnecessary delay. The proposed bridge will cost between $6000 and $10,000, according to the length of the draw required by the war department. At the present time the price of iron is very high, and it is estimated by Judge Gray that if the Youngs bay bridge were to be constructed now, its cost would be about double the actual cost.

The test case instituted by Sam Howard, of Portland, president of the state barbers' commission, who seeks to establish the invalidity of the law requiring payment of $10 district attorney fees in divorce cases, has been appealed to the supreme court, notice of appeal having been filed in County Clerk Wherity's office yesterday. Some months ago Howard brought suit for divorce from his wife. His attorneys, Claude Strahan and W. Seton, at the time of filing of the papers, offered an amount that would not cover the district attorney fee. Clerk Wherity declined to accept the papers unless this fee were paid. Payment was made under protest, and later suit was filed for recovery of the sum. District Attorney Allen entered a demurrer to the complaint and Judge McBride sustained it, throwing the case out of court. The matter has now been appealed. Prior to the session of 1899 district attorneys were not under salary, fees being provided for. The legislature of 1899 repealed the fee system law and placed attorneys throughout the state on salary. However, the old $10 fee provided for in divorce cases was not done away with, and the sum has since been required of persons filing suits. The money has not been paid to the district attorney, but has gone to the county. While payment of the fee is regarded as unjust by county officials, they feel that they should follow the provisions of the law. Since 1899 perhaps not less than $250 has been collected in this manner. There are thirty-three counties in Oregon, and if Howard wins his suit all the fees paid in since 1899 will be refunded to the persons filing suits. For this reason, of course, the case is one of much importance, and the decision of the supreme court will be awaited with interest.
