

ORANGES

We also find that we have an overstock of fine Sweet Fancy Navel and Japanese Oranges, and to move these quickly have priced them at twenty-five and fifteen cents per dozen. The reason for this, is that we are expecting other fruit and do not like one shipment to overlap another.

At last night's meeting of the Chamber of Commerce Judge Postoy reported that the committee appointed to confer with the gentleman who proposes rebuilding the Clatsop mills had been unable to complete its work, as it had not been yet learned the price demanded for property desired by the company. Further time was granted the committee.

On Sunday Coroner Pohl received word that a body had been found on Sand Island and yesterday Deputy Coroner Max Pohl went over to view the remains, which had been taken to Iwaco. The body was in a bad state of decomposition and was buried at Iwaco. Papers found on the body showed the corpse to be that of George Carlson, who had been missing for about three weeks. Carlson lived in a house near Hines Slough and left Astoria in a small boat, presumably for the purpose of going home. The weather was very severe and it is supposed the boat was overturned. Carlson was between 45 and 50 years of age and an unmarried man.

D. K. Warren yesterday filed notice of his determination to charge tolls to all persons who float logs in the Lewis and Clark river where the stream runs through Mr. Warren's property, in section 29, township 4 north of range 3 west. Mr. Warren will demand 25 cents per thousand feet for logs where his employees are required to handle the raft, or 10 cents per thousand feet where the owner of the raft himself assumes the risk incident to transportation. Recently Mr. Warren filed a declaration to appropriate to his own use that portion of the river running through his land, in accordance with a new law just passed by the legislature.

Of late it has become the practice of a large number of small boys to gather around the justice's court during the trial of cases. The boys sneak in while trials are on and cannot be observed by Justice Goodman. They are becoming a nuisance and should be excluded from the courtroom. Often the testimony in cases is not fit to be heard by lads ranging in age from 12 to 18 years, as was the case yesterday afternoon. Given an inch, the ordinary boy will demand an acre, and the failure of the officials to eject the lads from the courtroom at the preliminary hearing of Mate Wywood, who was charged with the murder of John W. McNally, has made the boys quite bold.

The departure of F. P. Kendall for San Francisco has created a vacancy on the school board, and the Woman's Club has undertaken to secure the appointment of a woman to fill the place thus made vacant. At Saturday's meeting of the club the secretary was instructed to communicate with the board regarding the matter. The women of the city are urging the appointment of Mrs. Gearhart, who has been prominently identified with educational matters. Several members of the school board have already been approached by the women, and all have expressed themselves as favorable to the appointment of a woman director. It is expected the board will take action on the Woman's Club communication at the next meeting.

A woman giving the name of Pauline Denmore was arrested by the police Sunday evening on a charge of robbery. Miss Denmore is of questionable character and a few nights ago robbed an Italian of $60, first having induced him to go with her to the back room of a saloon. The man made complaint to the police and the woman was arrested. After being taken to the station she confessed that she had committed the robbery and volunteered to show the police where she had hidden the money. The police accompanied her to her room, and in a stove there $57 was found and restored to the owner. The other $3 had been spent. The woman who is but 21 years of age, will be tried before Justice Goodman this afternoon. She recently arrived here from Seattle.

The new state law providing for appointment of judges and clerks of election contains some unique provisions. One is that three judges and three clerks must be appointed. The first set—three judges and three clerks—are required to remain on duty until the polls close, while the second set, also three judges and three clerks, must count the vote. The law provides that the judges and clerks shall be named at the January term of the county court and that the court shall sit in February to hear protests from persons appointed. Those who do not wish to serve must appear before the court at the February session and state their reasons. Persons who do not file protests must serve, under penalty of $25 fine. The county court has thus far appointed only one set of judges and clerks for each of the city precincts, but the necessary second set will be named later.

Articles of incorporation of the Oregon Pine Company will be filed today. The new company is made up of local and outside capitalists and will build a large mill at Smith Point. The incorporators are W. W. Whipple, F. D. Butzer and P. J. Taylor. The capital stock is placed at $200,000, divided into 500 shares, and the principal office of the company will be at Astoria. The articles authorize the company to engage in the manufacture of all kinds of lumber, to operate steamers, etc. The necessary capital to build the mill has already been subscribed, and within a short time work on the buildings will be commenced. The company will pay particular attention to its planing machinery, and will in all a mill that will permit it to eventually charge very extensively in other lines than that of sawing lumber. The incorporators are not quite ready to make any definite announcement of their plans, but they give assurance that the mill will be one of Astoria's most important industries before long. Representatives of the Universal Sash & Door Company are expected in the city before the expiration of the present week to let contracts for construction of the company's buildings.

In the justice's court yesterday afternoon Edward O'Neill was examined on an information charging him with assaulting John Nolan with a dangerous weapon. A. M. Smith represented the defendant, while Judge Winton appeared for the plaintiff. O'Neill was alleged by Nolan to have hit him with a club, striking him with a club and cutting eleven gashes in his head. O'Neill sought to justify the assault with the statement that Nolan had been untidy intimate with O'Neill's wife, and that he used the club in an effort to chastise him for his indiscretion. In addressing the court Attorney Winton assailed the personal character of O'Neill, alleging that an equal scandal could not be found if hales were gone over with a flea-tooth comb. Mr. Winton's address afforded much amusement for the crowd that thronged the court. Justice Goodman took the case under advisement, and will hand down a decision today. If he finds that O'Neill was guilty of assault as charged in the information, the man will be bound over to await the investigation of District Attorney Allen. The case is the outcome of a family row of long standing, and the assault is said to have been committed on New Year's night.

CHOOSE NEW OFFICERS

ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING OF ASTORIA CHAMBER.

Several Matters of Importance Taken Up and Acted Upon Last Night.

President—E. W. Tallant. Vice-president—F. J. Taylor. Secretary—E. C. Holden. Treasurer—G. W. Lounsbury.

The annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce was held last evening, when the above-named officers were elected for the ensuing year. The meeting was largely attended and one of the most successful gatherings ever held by the chamber. All the officers were unanimously chosen. At the conclusion of the business session members and invited guests, including members of the Push Club, partook of a sumptuous spread, which had been prepared with care by Mr. Whipple, and it was quite late before the meeting finally adjourned.

A communication was received from the Commercial Club, asking that a committee of five be appointed to act with similar committees from the Commercial Club and Push Club in an endeavor to harmonize sentiment between Portland and Astoria. The Commercial Club's idea is to bring about, if possible, a friendly feeling between the two cities which have fought each other so long in the hope that the advantages offered by the location of both can be utilized to the fullest possible extent. President Van Dusen named Messrs. Tallant, P. A. Trullinger, J. E. Higgins, F. J. Taylor and Mr. Sorenson.

A communication was received from the Portland Chamber of Commerce urging that Astoria join with it in its efforts to secure greater depth at the mouth of the river, as well as improvement of the upper river. The petitions urge the improvements referred to and will be generally circulated throughout the Columbia basin. The local chamber endorsed the action of the Portland body, and the petitions will be circulated here.

The committee to which was referred the matter of rates on cans made an unsatisfactory report. The report was to the effect that the railroad people had stated the matter had been adjusted to the satisfaction of all concerned, while P. P. Kendall, of the can company, had given out the information that a satisfactory adjustment had not been brought about. Mr. Kendall pointed out to the committee that removal of the factory would be expedient under present rate conditions because more freight was now shipped out of Astoria than into the city—a statement that did not coincide with the result of an investigation made by the committee. Mr. Kendall believed fair rates would permit him to go after business in any part of the Northwest, whereas, at present, he could not compete for business in Seattle and Spokane. Notwithstanding Mr. Kendall's statement that rates had not been adjusted to his satisfaction, both General Agent Mayo and President Hammond, of the Astoria road, had made statements that the difficulty had been settled. The committee was given further time to investigate the matter.

HOW TO ECONOMIZE.

COME men economize so closely on the number of words in a telegram that the receiver can not understand it. This is not sensible economy. Neither is it sensible economy to ruin garments of value with cheap soap or powerful chemicals that eat into the fabric. True economy uses Ivory Soap in the laundry. It is the most of pure soap that can be sold for the money. Chemically it is as innocent as water. Yet it does everything you can ask of a soap. Try it!

A resolution by W. W. Whipple, pledging the support of the chamber to the 1902 fair to be held in Portland, and endorsing the plans of the fair committee, was unanimously adopted.

James W. Welch moved that the officials of the Astoria chamber be instructed to urge the government to prepare a definite plan for improving Astoria harbor, and that plans for dredging out Youngs river from the Walloeki to its mouth to a depth of 20 feet be also asked. The motion prevailed.

The annual report of President Van Dusen was then read. The report was an interesting one, and its full text will appear tomorrow in these columns.

Judge Bowley then reviewed briefly the work of the chamber and related some interesting history. The chamber first was thought of at the Columbia bar, a resort that once occupied the lot on which the Odd Fellows' building now stands. There, in years gone by, Astorians were wont to congregate and talk over matters commercial, and from those informal gatherings the chamber sprang. Judge Bowley told of the work of the chamber, referring briefly to its efforts for the jetty, better channels, lighthouses, lighthouse tenders, the buoy station, signal station, weather bureau and many other matters. The address was full of interesting information and was attentively listened to.

Secretary Holden, who was re-elected last night, has held the position for 23 years. Judge Taylor spoke datteringly of the excellent work done by Mr. Holden in past years, and the venerable secretary was congratulated on all sides. President Van Dusen and Treasurer Lounsbury were also tendered a vote of thanks by the chamber.
