

Magical Lamp Chimneys

These chimneys do not smoke or break however high the flame. A lady demonstrator will exhibit these chimneys at our store this afternoon. Price but a little higher than the breakable kind.

Schmehl, cleared yesterday for San Francisco. She takes 600,000 feet of lumber. The barkentine Encore, Captain Palmgren, also cleared, with 750,000 feet of lumber for San Pedro. The Gleaner sailed Monday.

Weather permitting, the work of constructing the new buildings for the universal ash and door factory will be begun on Monday. The necessary lumber will be procured at Rainier. Preparations are being made to remove the sawmill to Astoria.

The ladies of the Methodist church have made elaborate preparations for the luncheon which is to be served at the parsonage, corner Ninth and Exchange, tomorrow (Thursday) evening, from 5 to 7 o'clock. After the luncheon a choice program will be rendered, followed by ice cream, cake and coffee.

"Jim" Taylor yesterday met with an accident that will keep him at his leisure for at least a week to come. While engaged at the Astoria Iron works in drilling a piece of iron the third finger on the left hand was badly cut, and it was necessary to take five stitches in it.

The steamship Elder arrived down the river yesterday, and was due to depart for San Francisco at daylight. Owing to the storm, however, she remained at her dock, and will leave out this morning if conditions are favorable. The storm yesterday completely tied up shipping and there were no movements in or out of the harbor.

The regular meeting of the Push Club will occur at 8 o'clock this evening. Several matters of importance, including the final report of the park committee, are to be acted upon, and a full attendance of members is requested. The park committee has been endeavoring to make arrangements with Mr. Shively to acquire the one-half of the tract thus far paid for by the club.

A diver was yesterday sent down to examine the tug Tatoosh, and his investigation disclosed the fact that the damage to the vessel was quite as serious as was thought, the shoe having been broken. The tug will, within a few days, be taken around to the Sound and placed on the drydock for repairs. During her absence one of the Sound tugs will be sent here. The statement that the Sea King is coming is premature. It being stated that a vessel has not yet been detailed for service on the Columbia.

For some time past General Agent Mayo, of the A. & C., has been making an effort to have the transcontinental extend terminal homeowner's rates to Astoria, but the effort has proved unsuccessful. Yesterday Mr. Mayo received a very curt reply from Chairman Charlton, of the Transcontinental Passenger Association, informing him that his request had been refused. The consent of the roads directly interested had been secured, and Mr. Mayo is at a loss to account for the failure of the association to extend the rates.

The work of raising the sunken bark Henriette has been successfully prosecuted during the past few days, and last evening the Frenchman was almost clear of water. No effort was made to patch up the holes in the bottom of the vessel, but the pumps were worked at full speed. While the bark is not yet clear, there is now no longer any question of the feasibility of the plan employed, and within a day or two the little vessel will again be afloat. Some months ago she dragged her anchors and settled on one of them, sinking. She was sold for $2000, her lumber cargo bringing $2100. The purchasing firm will realize handsomely on its investment.

J. J. Kellher, for many years in the weather bureau service at Fort Canby, has just returned from a term of service in the Mississippi Valley and will be again stationed at Fort Canby. His commission at this time is to superintend the erection of the new station for the weather bureau at North Head, and to construct a telephone or telegraph line from North Head to Fort Canby or Ilwaco, as he may find most advantageous for the purpose, to connect with Astoria and Portland. Arrangements will be made with the telephone company or one of the telegraph lines for sending reports of the condition of the bar and shipping movements several times each day for promulgation in Astoria and to the Chamber of Commerce in Portland.

The Commercial Club bowling team will try conclusions with the Irving team on the alleys of the latter tonight. The home team will doubtless give a good account of itself, and the enthusiasts look for an exciting contest. The Commercial team will be slightly changed, the accident to J. D. Taylor making it impossible for him to bowl for a few days.

"Hooley" Allen, the famous southpaw, will take Taylor's place. In the last contest Taylor bowled the excellent total of 194, and "Hooley" has promised to hold up the record made by Taylor. The Irving Club aggregation will be materially strengthened by the presence of G. C. Fulton, who is bowling like a demon. Last night, while some of the Commercial bowlers were at the alleys, Fulton rolled up an average of 50 for three games, and later announced his intention of establishing a new four-game record at tonight's contest. Captain Astbury is expected to show up with 200 or thereabouts, and the team average will doubtless be well over 40. The games will commence promptly at 8 o'clock and ladies of both clubs are invited to be present.

Formal transfer of the property of the West Shore Mills Company and Astoria Gaslight Company to the Astoria Electric Company was made yesterday afternoon, and control of all three concerns has passed to the General Electric Company, of which the Astoria Electric Company is the local representative. The deal was practically closed about two weeks ago, but not until yesterday were the final papers drawn and signed. Charles A. Coolidge is general manager of the new consolidation and will have complete control. G. O. Moen remains superintendent of the gas lighting plant, but P. A. Trullinger retires as manager of the electric lighting plant. It is stated that there is $50,000 in the First National bank for the purpose of making the necessary payments and the extensions to the street-car system and improvements to the lighting plant. The work of making these improvements will be undertaken at once and rushed to completion. New boilers and machinery will be installed at the electric lighting works and the service vastly improved. "The sooner we are able to commence work, the better it will please us," said one of the interested parties last night. The consummation of this merger is one of the biggest deals worked in Astoria in recent years, and the city is now assured of first class lighting and street-car facilities. That the investors have great faith in Astoria's future is evident from their action in depositing $50,000 for the necessary improvements.

The work of selling property bought in by the county for delinquent taxes is progressing rapidly, and yesterday Sheriff Linville took in more than $1000. Only one or two pieces of land brought less than the tax amount to, while nearly all the property bid in brought many times the amount of the delinquency. Twenty-five or 30 prospective investors crowded the county court-room, and there was always a starter. Taxes on some property were as low as 5 cents. The sheriff would read the description and ask for bids, whereupon some one would offer 10 cents. Then the price would go up to 50 or 60 cents at 10-cent bids, and perhaps finally sell for $1.50 or $2. Property delinquent as far back as 1898 was disposed of yesterday. Clatsop is now selling more property than in any other county in Oregon outside of Multnomah county. Much of the land is of the wild-rose variety, and the muddles resulting from the chicanery in 1891 and 1892 are largely responsible for the delinquency. Of course, there is a variety of opinion as to whether or not the sale is regular, and that it will prove a boon to lawyers is cheerfully conceded by members of that profession. Many purchasers insist that they will not permit original owners to redeem from them unless something like the true value of the land is paid. The sale will be continued for several days, and those who enjoy the sensation of "taking a chance" will be present to bid for the land.

The New York Journal of Commerce prints the following item of interest to salmon packers: The market for spot salmon was disturbed yesterday by the announcement of a cut in price by the Pacific Selling Company. It is stated that the reduction was brought about largely by the fact that various independent salmon brokerage interests here have been offering red Alaska fish to arrive at $1.15, o. b. New York for falls. This price the Pacific Selling Company has promptly met, and on the following descriptions as well, goods ex steamer American via Cape, due here March 1: Sockeye talls, $1.12 1/2; flats, $1.27 1/2; half pounds, 90c; red Alaska talls, $1.11; flats, $1.15; medium red, talls, 90c; pink, 75c; and chuma, 70c. Cash less 1 1/2 per cent f. o. b. New York carload lots. On sockeye talls, flats and half-pounds the reduction means a decline in the spot market values. A decline below the spot of about 2 1/2c is noted in red Alaska salmon, but there is noted no decline below offerings to arrive on the latter. Medium red and pink salmon show a reduction below the opening price basis f. o. b. Coast cost to lay down here of about 10c per dozen. At the office of the Pacific Selling Company it was stated that a good business to arrive on the basis of these prices has been booked. Independent brokerage interests, however, speaking with particular reference to red Alaska salmon, state that at $1 to arrive the trade is disinclined to buy. The $1 price, it is pointed out, has been available for two weeks. Reports were unable to confirm state that a price of 97 1/2c on red Alaska talls is available.
