The city health authorities report Bagley who is confined in the pest-house with smallpox to be doing well. It is also stated positively that no new cases have developed, and the authorities are hopeful that there will be none.

Two Iliaco school girls, while playing, became entangled and had to send for a physician to get separated. The dress hook of one caught in the nostril of the other and it could not be released without the aid of the local physician.

The Republican county central committee has rented rooms in the Fulton-Dement building on Commercial street and will open headquarters at once. The quarters will be arranged by Monday and a regular campaign will be inaugurated.

The old problem of providing a suitable water supply for Fort Stevens seems now about to be solved. A party of engineer officers have been making surveys and estimates during past month for a pipe line to bring water from the Lewis and Clark at a point above the canon, where a never failing flow of the pure cold fluid can be drawn from. Indications point to the construction of the plant at an early date.

Young Waud, who is still at St. Mary's hospital, is reported to be doing well. The bullet has not yet been located, however, and there is some doubt of it still being in his body. It is thought that he may have swallowed it or spit it out at the time, under the theory that it fell loosely into his mouth after it had passed through the upper gum.

The inmates of the Astor House are at liberty, the quarantine being raised yesterday morning. While there has possibly been no great danger of contagion on account of the man Bagley having slept there, since the place was fumigated, still such precautions are necessary to make sure. The hotel is again open for business and there is no possible danger from it.

The churches will all be decorated today and Easter services will be held generally, and of course the proverbial hat will be in evidence. The designs this year are unusually handsome and if the weather is good today the critics will be kept busy, as well as those who just look on because they admire a thing because it is a "beauty and joy forever."

The members of the local lodge of Eagles are preparing for an Easter sociable this afternoon. The orchestra of the order has been rehearsing for several days and one of the features of the entertainment will be the music. Of course, the refreshments will be of the best, and, as the Eagles soar high, this entertainment will not fall short of a great success.

Since the Alaska fishermen's strike in San Francisco has been declared off, the matter will also be dropped by the interested parties in this city, as the fishermen thought it not advisable to hold out for the raise in the prices after the San Francisco men had agreed to work for the old rates. They hope, however, to effect some modification in the form of contract now offered by the companies before the season opens.

Willie Rober, the 17-year-old son of Bert Rober, the engineer of the Nahcotta, who has been sick for some time, ran the Nahcotta to Iliaco and back on one of her trips this week. Mr. O'Dell, the engineer who has been taking Engineer Rober's place, was called away to Portland, and it looked as if the Nahcotta would not be able to make the trip. Engineer Rober was carried aboard the vessel and under his directions the boy did all of the work on the trip.

The tugboat Geo. R. Vossberg, E. Loll, captain, which arrived in port Friday night from Tillamook, was fined $500 yesterday by Collector of Customs Fox for violating section 4465 of the United States Revised Statutes in carrying more passengers than permitted under the boat's certificate. Although the boat is permitted to carry 12 passengers when she arrived in port there were 25 on board. Such flagrant violation of the law reflects little credit on the management of the vessel or the discretion of her officers. A short time ago she crossed the bar when a storm was raging and it was unsafe to make the trip. It is reported that the sea was so high that water actually went down her smokestack.

Speaking of the regatta question yesterday Mr. W. T. Chutter said that he was not in favor of postponing the regatta for a single season. He said that the people over the country were expecting the regatta; that if it was once postponed they would look to other points for amusement, and that to take the regatta up again after letting it drop for a while would be like beginning anew, and much of the work would have to be done over again. This applies especially to advertising. As it is, it is already advertised, and the public begins to expect it at its regular time. He is heartily in favor of making the regatta a permanent institution. Like many others, he claims that the money expended finds its way back to them with interest, and that it is in every way beneficial to the city, and in no way detrimental.

Secretary of State F. I. Dunbar was in the city yesterday and returned to Salem by the evening train. The secretary was kept busy while here shaking hands with old friends, and while he had nothing of a public nature to say on state politics, he was delighted at the local situation. He found everything harmonious here; in fact, it is stated that it was the most harmonious convention that has been held in Clatsop county in the past 10 years. No objection is raised to any of the nominees, and the statement is universally made that it is a good ticket from top to bottom. He was also glad to receive the unanimous endorsement of his home people. While no opposition has risen against Mr. Dunbar in this state, there is no better recommendation than the fact that his home people are for him to a man.

The trial of Mat Jarvi, charged with the murder of his father, was concluded before the examining court yesterday afternoon. Jarvi himself went on the stand and told all about the killing. He said that his father had not been living at home for some time regularly, and that when he got drunk he came to the house and gave them trouble. On the night of the killing the boy heard his father raising the disturbance down stairs, and he got up and took the pistol, which he thought was not loaded, and went down to frighten his father away. When he opened the door and presented the revolver, his father grabbed at it, and in the excitement the revolver was discharged. Young Jarvi claims that he does not know in what manner it was discharged, but says it was accidental. His bail was set at $2000, but as the hour was late no attempt was made to make the bond last evening. His attorney says he people of Unlontown generally are in sympathy with young Jarvi, and that he thinks they will make the bond for him.

THE REPUBLICAN TICKET.

The candidates nominated at the Republican county convention last Friday do not need any individual introduction to the public. They are all well known, and, as stated by all who have expressed themselves on the subject, not a mistake was made in the excitement of politics and personal ambitions and desires men are sometimes nominated by a convention composed of good citizens, who are justly unsatisfactory to the party and the public. In what is called "trading a favorite in" factions sometimes get men nominated for a purpose and not because of their individual qualifications. But in last Friday's convention there was plenty of good material to select from and the contests never reached beyond the point of good judgment.

There is but one excuse for not supporting every man on the ticket, and that will be on political grounds. If other parties put out a ticket then non-Republicans would naturally be expected to vote the other ticket on political grounds, in many cases. But from a standpoint of honesty and capability the ticket is worthy the support of every voter in the county, and it is safe to say that should another ticket be placed in the field this will still draw a large support from men who may not believe in the principles of the party of Lincoln and Garfield and McKinley.

Many of the candidates have been tried, and their stewardship was strongly instrumental in placing them before the people again. The others are equally known in private life for their honesty and ability. It is from men who possess the right qualifications here that we select our public servants. Not a charge can be registered against either of them, those who are in office already, or those who are about to be tried for the first time. It is said that if a man has ever done anything out of the line of right it will be found out if he runs for office.

It is claimed that things are often found of which the candidate is ignorant himself, and it is further claimed that the allegations are generally proved, but in the case of this ticket nothing has been charged, and it is presumed that it is an exceptional one all the way through. Friday's convention did good work. It is such a convention as is good for a party. It was not only a harmonious meeting, without strife at the time, but the effects have proved harmonizing. It was a sort of re-union as well as a working body. Under past conditions some differences of opinion had arisen between prominent members of the party which had resulted in no good for the party. But last Friday they all met together and their work has brought harmony all along the line. This harmony gives strength to the party and ticket, not only within the party on account of the general confidence, but it sets a strong example to outsiders, and will not have a tendency to drive them away. It has been stated that the work has made votes that have never been obtained before.

It is well. The candidates are good enough for anybody. If they are elected the public may rest assured that they will perform their duty to the best interests of the country from the highest to the lowest office.

GRAND OPENING AT HOEFLER'S. Commencing Saturday, March 23 we will open our elegant soda fountain and ice cream parlors to the public. All flavors of soda, several flavors of ice cream.

PRESIDENT'S FIRST MESSAGE. The president's first message was considered by everyone, regardless of political differences, to be a wonderful literary production, and was of such a character as would tend to raise the author much higher in the estimation of the people of the United States. In selecting a medicine most suited for family needs it is always wise to choose one that is held in high esteem by thousands of people who know its value from personal experience. Such a medicine is Hostetter's stomach Bitters. No other remedy can take its place as a cure for belching, heartburn, dizziness, headache, nervousness, indigestion or constipation. We would, therefore, urge every sufferer to try it. It is also a splendid spring tonic and preventive of la grippe, malaria, fever and ague.

Through tourist cars, personally conducted excursion cars, free reclining chair cars—in fact all the latest conveniences known to modern railroad-ing.

Editor Morning Astorian: In the Evening News, of Saturday, appears worthy suggestions from our medical fraternity as to what should have been done concerning the Astor House case, corrosive baths, etc. Permit me to say that good soap baths are at a premium in many parts of this city, and our sterilizing apparatus is somewhat broken down. As to the house being quarantined for 15 or 20 days after the people directly exposed had escaped and the house thoroughly fumigated, especially the room occupied by the diseased, it was hardly necessary, more especially when the nidus of infection did not effect there any more than any other part of the city, for he covered the city pretty well before he was cooped.

However, if these eminent physicians will leave their names at my office the Board of Health will thank them in detail. C. A. CORLINER, City Physician.

Right reserved to reject any and all bids. By order of the board, E. Z. FERGUSON, Clerk.
