DEATH IN A DANCE HALL.

CARL MILLER SALOON MAN NO MORE.

Was He Killed or Did He Die of Apoplexy is the Question?—Inquest Today.

The sudden death of Carl Miller occurred in the Standard Dance Hall about 4 o'clock last afternoon. The manner of his death has caused considerable speculation. It is claimed that he struck at May Collins, an inmate of one of the dance halls, and with whom he had been associating, and that, missing her, he fell to the floor, striking his head severely against the floor and probably against an iron railing around a stove in the vicinity of where he fell. His body was picked up from the floor and placed in a sitting position, but it afterwards developed that he was dead. Just when the breath left him is not known.

W. A. West, manager of the Music Dance Hall and of which Miller was one of the proprietors, heard that Miller was over at the Standard, drunk and giving trouble. He went over and found Miller sitting in a chair in what he thought was a drunken stupor. He attempted to arouse him, but, falling, called for assistance and took him to his room. When he reached the room about a block away and placed Miller on his bed he discovered that he was possibly dead. He rushed for Dr. Estes and the coroner was also sent for about the same time. Upon the arrival of the doctor he pronounced Miller dead, but as the body was still warm it was evident that he had not been dead long. Coroner Pohl took immediate charge of the body and had it sent to his undertaking parlors, where an inquest will be held about 10:30 this morning.

In the excitement there was considerable speculation about the cause of Miller's death and there were various rumors and statements. It was claimed that Miller had been drunk all day and had trouble with the Collins woman. The skin was broken on his knuckles when found and it was claimed that in striking at the woman he had missed her and struck some object, making the wound. The statement was also made that while he and the woman were scuffling, and he was attempting to punish her, some one ran up and seized him to save the woman and gave him a severe swing across the room, striking his head against the railing around the stove and against the floor. Others stated that some one struck him and knocked him down against the hard floor, his head striking and causing his death.

An Astorian reporter saw Mr. H. A. Bernard, a barkeeper at the Standard, where the trouble occurred, and he stated that Miller was scuffling with the woman and fell to the floor. Miller had been drunk all day, and Bernard, who went and picked him up from the floor after he fell thought he was merely maudlin drunk, and set him in the chair from which he was afterward taken dead. May Collins, the woman with whom he had had the trouble, was very much grief stricken and refused to talk about the matter last evening.

Dr. Estes, who examined the body, is positive that the man did not die from heart disease. He examined him about two weeks ago on an application to join the local lodge of Eagles and the doctor says he found a fine physical examination and there was no sign of heart disease. The doctor is of the opinion that the deceased died from epilepsy caused from a rupture of a blood vessel in the brain. He thinks that the deceased received a severe shock and that this caused the rupture of a blood vessel. When the evidence is heard this morning there will be more light on the case and then it will be determined whether or not it is necessary to hold an autopsy. It appears that there were only two or three persons witnesses to the transaction and some of them being excited it may be necessary to hold the autopsy to verify the real cause of his death.

Miller was about 35 years old. He came here from Bavaria about 19 years ago and worked at Kopp's brewery. He has been in co-partnership with Mr. Anderson in running the Music Hall saloon for about six months. He is well known about town and had joined the local lodge of Eagles about two weeks ago. He was also a member of the Red Men's lodge at Hammond. Miller had a wife and two children in Bavaria.

CRUTCH-BOUND

The crutch is a poor substitute for legs, and affords a very inconvenient and tiresome mode of locomotion—there is no more pathetic sight than a person slowly and painfully moving along the street supported by these artificial limbs.

When Rheumatism settles in the bones and muscles of the legs, it is safe to predict that the victim will eventually become helpless and crutch-bound. The corrosive, irritating matter that is deposited in the joints and muscles causes the most intense pain, the knees and ankles swell, and when the natural oils and fluids that lubricate these parts are completely destroyed the joints become locked and the muscles drawn and stiff, and crutches a necessity.

The acid poisons that produce rheumatic pains form in the blood, and are distributed through the system, and lodged in the arms, shoulders, hands, back and feet, or other parts of the body—resulting often in total disability. A permanent cure of Rheumatism can be effected only by a complete cleansing of the blood, and no other remedy so surely accomplishes this as S. S. S. It neutralizes the acid effects, purifies and invigorates the stagnant blood, and the gritty particles are washed out or dissolved by the new rich blood, and relief comes to the pain-racked sufferer. S. S. S. leaves no morbid, irritating matter in the blood to reunite and produce another attack, but expels every atom of it from the system. S. S. S. is a purely vegetable remedy, and does not impair the digestion or general health like alkali or potash remedies.

DREADFUL ATTACK OF WHOOPING COUGH.

Mrs. Ellen Harrison, of 300 Park Ave., Kansas City, Mo., writes as follows: "Our two children had a severe attack of whooping cough, one of them in the paroxysm of coughing would often faint and bleed at the nose. We tried everything we heard of without getting relief. We then called in our family doctor who prescribed Foley's Honey and Tar. With the very first dose they began to improve and we feel that it has saved their lives. Refuse substitutes. Foley's Honey and Tar contains no opiates, and will not constipate like nearly all other cough medicines. Refuse substitutes."
