Talking About CLOTHING

Do you know that there is a vast difference in the make-up, lining, sewing and general finish of clothing.

There is the "made to sell" kind, pretty patterns, gaudy linings, but there's no satisfaction in the wear; it is made in a hurry by underpaid labor, just "made to sell."

Then there's the "made to wear" kind, properly shrunk, plain but strong linings, the "vitals," or inside paddings, properly adjusted sewed with silk, made by skilled labor and sold on honor.

The "made to wear" kind costs a little more than the "made to sell" kind, but, dear me, it is ever so much better.

We sell the made to wear kind.

ROCK BARGE AND MEN SAFE

Manzanita Brings the Very Welcome News to this Port.

RESCUED BY THE TUG TYEE

The Was Towed into Neah Bay and is Now in Charge of the Sampson.—Men Did Not Suffer.

The rock barge Washougal is safe and the three men cast adrift on her are alive and well.

The officers of the Manzanita, which arrived in port about 9 o'clock last evening, brought the welcome news that the lost rock barge had been found and was on her way to a safe port under tow of the tug boat Tyee, of Puget Sound.

The Manzanita left the Tyee about four miles south of the Quinalt river and the tug had the barge in tow about three miles off shore and was steaming for Neah Bay. The tug had taken the barge from her anchor and was towing her out of danger.

The report that the three men aboard the barge had been left with only a few hours provisions and that they were probably suffering is explained by the report of the Manzanita. The men on board the barge were as comfortable as the circumstances would admit and will arrive in Astoria in a short time, none the worse for their experience.

The Manzanita lay by the barge all night Wednesday night and saw the Tyee take charge yesterday morning.

A report came from Portland last evening that the Sampson had arrived at Neah Bay and had taken the barge in tow and would arrive in Astoria this morning.

Pittsburg Strikers May Resume Their Work.

PITTSBURG, May 1.—Nine organized building trades in Pittsburg district started a conflict this morning for higher wages. ## WATER CURE OFFICER

THE PRESIDENT ORDERS COURT MARTIAL.

Trial in Philippines for Convenience of the Many Witnesses.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—President has ordered the trial by court-martial of Major Edwin F. Glenn, Fifth Infantry, one of the officers referred to as a participant in the administration of the water cure in the testimony developed before the senate Philippine commission recently.

Court will meet at Catbalogan, Samar, P. I., May 12.

It is stated at the war department that the order for the trial of Major Glenn is in accordance with the determination of the president as the result of the testimony before the senate committee on Philippines in regard to the infliction of the so-called "water cure." The original plan was to try Major Glenn and other officers involved in this country, but it was found more expedient for the trial to take place in the Philippines, for the reason that most of the principal witnesses are now in that country.

PROHIBITION IN KANSAS.

TOPEKA, Kas., May 1.—It is just 21 years ago today since prohibition was adopted in Kansas. Governor Stanley today discussed the effects of prohibition as follows: Prohibition in Kansas has been marked by very beneficial results. There are thousands of young men in Kansas who never saw a saloon. There are thousands of men who would probably patronize saloons if sanctioned by law and conducted with state approval, who avoid it and will avoid it as long as the law brands it as an Ishmaelite among the legitimate enterprises of the community.

THREATENED AND DOOMED

British Supremacy in Trade and Commerce is on a Retrograde Movement.

"MORGANEERING AND MORAL"

The Great French Author Lamoupons the English Nation in a Brilliant Essay.

NEW YORK, May 1.—Henry Labouchere, in this week's Truth, under the heading of "Morganeering and the Moral," tells the British nation, says a Herald despatch from London, that its supremacy in trade and commerce is not only threatened, but doomed, and that it will take all the best efforts of which the empire is capable to prevent a retrograde movement, which, if it begins, will increase year by year. Mr. Labouchere says:

"To the impartial observer it is a strife amusing to watch the perturbation of John Bull at the march of the American capitalist. For a generation or two past the gospel of salvation of mankind by the agency of British capital has been preached with sincere conviction. Whether it was a dying nation in Europe or Asia, a sickly republic in South America, an unclaimed region of Africa, peopled by idolaters and cannibals, or even a poverty-stricken British colony, the means of regeneration were always the same; let British capital and British enterprise exploit the patient thoroughly, and there will be an end to all his diseases, political, economic or social. For 50 years we preached this gospel and acted upon it religiously. Now comes a little turning of the tables.

"With a much larger population and immeasurably greater natural resources, the United States offered a field for the accumulation of greater wealth than we can ever aspire to.

"Americans, in their turn, now aspire to regenerate the world by American capital and American enterprise. They practice upon us the doctrine which we so long applied to the rest of mankind. Lastly—for the present—they lay sacrilegious hands on the shipping by means of which 'Britannia rules the waves.'

"No wonder John Bull is in a comic state of consternation! Instead of the exploiter, he is becoming exploited.

"For about 30 years we have been beset with a craze of acquiring in the out-of-the-way places of the world, new places for British capital and new markets for British goods. The craze has colored our national thoughts and policy.

"While we have been pursuing this phantom, what has the foreigner been doing? He, too, seeks an opportunity abroad for his surplus capital and a foreign market for his surplus goods. And where does he first find them? In England.

"While we seek to extend the area of our commerce and of our increments by acquiring control of countries that have no population, or of people who have no wants, the manufacturers and investors of Germany and America find in this country the finest opening in the world. While we sink millions in the construction of railways throughout the South African continent which can not yield a return within the life of the present generation, or perhaps the next, the American capitalist discovers a remunerative investment for his millions in improving the means of locomotion in London.

"While we spend countless millions in annexing vast tracts in Asia and Africa and maintaining armies to defend them, with the view of supplying a penniless population with goods from Manchester and Birmingham, our German and American competitors supplant us in our own country.

"Individual fools have often enough dropped the substance to grasp its shadow, but never before has a whole nation deliberately committed itself to this folly.

"Our supremacy in trade and commerce is not only threatened, but doomed.

"Yet, by utilizing to the best advantage our resources in raw material, capital and labor we can hold our own, even if we are forced to see Germany and America increase their output faster than we can. It is only by the stupidity of squandering our capital in foreign countries, overlooking the opportunity of employment at home, that foreign capital can supplant British in any home industry.

"But at the present crisis of our economic history, which are the objects that chiefly occupy our minds? The regeneration of South Africa, or by the introduction into that accursed land of British capital and labor, the expansion of our army at the expense of our labor market, squandering time, money and energy on the empty ostentation of the coronation ceremony, which will suspend industry, dislocate trade and divert public thought from matters of pressing and evil imports.

"At the moment while we are thus engaged, Mr. Morgan and his colleagues descend upon us, seeking what they may devour. Almost within an hour of the king's feast come forth the fingers of a man's hand and write upon the wall. It is easy to read the warning and not difficult to accept and act upon it.

"Shall we attend to it at once or shall we finish our wine and think about the Medes and Persians after the dinner?"

PETITION FILED WITH THE SECRETARY.

First Application of the Law Under the Mays Act.—2500 Signatures.

SALEM, Ore., May 1.—A petition, circulated in a dozen counties in the state, bearing over 2500 signatures, today filed with the secretary of state, asking that Governor Geer's name be placed on the official ballot as the Republican candidate for United States senator. ## LAW MAKERS IN SESSION

The District of Columbia Appropriation Bill Subject of Discussion.

AGUINALDO IN THE SENATE

Philippine Situation Represented to be Falsified and that Information was Suppressed.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—The house gave most of the day to the District of Columbia appropriation bill, which was not completed. Shattuck, of Ohio, spoke on the industrial condition and Gaines, of Tennessee, in interest of the condition in the Philippines.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—Aguinaldo was the special subject of a discussion in the senate today. As soon as the Philippine government bill was taken up, Carmack resumed his criticism of the Philippine commission because of its refusal to call Aguinaldo and other Filipinos as witnesses. He maintained that as reflections by witnesses had been cast on the character of Aguinaldo, he ought to be permitted, in all decency, to defend himself.

The Carmack contention was sharply combated by Foraker, McComas and Burton. Culbertson, in support of a statement by Carmack that there was a department suppressed information and falsified the Philippine situation, presented a letter from the secretary of war, which he thought was proof of the Tennessee senator's assertion. The secretary of state, in a letter, stated that it was not practical to supply information requested, because no special count was kept of Philippine war expenses and it would require the services of a large force of clerks to work out the information desired.

MILES OF PROCESSION.

SANTIAGO, Cuba, May 1.—About 40,000 people were packed in narrow streets of this city when President-elect Palma arrived, and the crowds were so dense at certain points that they obstructed the procession which was increased by mounted delegations from all parts of the province, until it was many miles long. The greatest enthusiasm prevailed.
