The run of salmon yesterday, while not up to that of the previous day, was very good, and receipts of the canneries were sufficiently large to keep the crews busy from morning till night.

A drunken sailor came very nearly being drowned at an early hour yesterday morning. He fell overboard at the foot of Seventh street, and but for the timely arrival of a fisherman would have been drowned.

Mayor Suprenant yesterday signed all the ordinances which were passed at the last meeting of the council. These measures provide for the improvement of Commercial street, from Third to Sixth, and appropriate money for the payment of two other street improvements.

E. B. Hyatt, who has been representing the Wright Music House of Portland in Astoria the past week, has left a supply of the latest popular sheet music at A. H. Cyrus piano house, at No. 424 Commercial street, which will be closed out during today and tomorrow at 20 cents a copy, or four copies for 70 cents.

The British ship Dimplale arrived in port Wednesday evening from Newcastle New South Wales. Captain Archard reports that he encountered head winds during the entire trip, and that he was 32 days on the way. The Dimplale brings 2791 tons of coal for Portland and Astoria. She left up the river at an early hour this morning.

Fish Warden Van Dusen returned yesterday from a trip to the McKenzie river hatchery, where operations were recently commenced. The fish taken there are of the May and June varieties. As yet the location of this site is in the nature of an experiment, but it is believed it will prove one of the best hatcheries in the state.

Among the deeds filed for record yesterday was one that transfers to George W. Hume the sawmill site at the Tongue. The deed is executed by the Van Dusen Investment Company and the Columbia Land and Development Company, and transfers to Mr. Hume a tract of waterfrontage 559.5 feet wide and 1850 feet deep. The consideration is named at $2200.

The steamship Eureka arrived yesterday from Eureka, Cal. She has aboard 500,000 feet of redwood and comes here for the purpose of completing her cargo, which is destined for the Orient. The Eureka is an old-looking vessel, having been built at Cleveland, O., for the lake trade. When the Klondike excitement broke out she was brought around the Horn, and has since been operated out of Seattle.

Considerable local interest is manifested in the Fitzsimmons-Jeffries fight, which takes place in San Francisco this evening. For some days past prominent Astorians have been dropping out of town on "business" trips, but they can be relied upon to get together at the ringside tonight. While it is the general belief that Jeff will retain the championship belt, it is realized that he has no walkover, and the betting fraternity seems inclined to place its money on the Cornishman at the prevalent odds, 4 to 10. Bulletins of the fight will be received at several local resorts.

Washington pilot commissioners threaten to put on another pilot schooner, the "Joe Pulitzer," and will charge the full rates according to the Washington pilot law. With the coming of the new Washington pilot schooner there will be fully a 40 per cent increase in pilotage rates. The rate in effect at the present time is $5 per foot draft and 2 cents for each registered ton. The Washington rate is $8 per foot on all vessels drawing not in excess of 12 feet, and $10 for each additional foot. The Washington and Oregon pilots secured the pilot schooner Joe Pulitzer at the cost of $12,000.

That the industrial excursion, which the joint manufacturers committee will give to Seaside on Sunday, August 3, will be a grand success is evident from the manner in which tickets are being sold. Yesterday almost 500 tickets were disposed of, and members of the committee were very much gratified with the manner in which the people of the city hastened to their financial assistance. It is believed that fully 1500 tickets will be sold, and that the necessary $1000 will be raised by the excursion. W. W. Whipple, who had intended returning to Buoda, remained over for the purpose of helping out the committee, of which he is a member, and he alone had sold more than 100 tickets by dinner time. The fare is only 75 cents for adults, and 50 cents for children, and every loyal Astorian should make preparations to spend the day at the beach.

Marcelle Duprey, a native of sunny France, was up before Police Judge Nelson yesterday afternoon to show cause why she should not be sent out of town. Miss Duprey is still here, and the indications are that she will remain for some time to come. It seems the woman has given the police considerable trouble in the past, and yesterday when she visited the depot, a short time prior to the departure of the morning train, and cursed an intending passenger, it became necessary to take her into custody. She was accused of vagrancy, and when City Attorney Smith asked her to enter a plea, she maintained rigid silence. In cases of this kind the law presumes that the defendant wishes to plead not guilty, so Miss Duprey's trial proceeded. "Now, if you wish to employ legal assistance, we will give you until tomorrow to do so," said Judge Nelson. Miss Duprey asked where she would be retained in the meantime, and when told that the city jail was at her disposal she threw up both hands and indicated a desire to have the case proceeded with. Her record was against her and the court imposed a fine of $50, agreeing to suspend sentence on condition that she leave the city. It was explained to her that she could pay the $50, serve 25 days in jail, or leave Astoria. After pondering for a moment, she said she would stay in jail, but the police believe she will tire of life there.
