THE PROPOSED CUBAN LOAN.

Bulletin.

That is happening which was expected to happen. The government of Caba finds itself in such financial straits that it proposes to incur a debt much greater than the ordinary revenues of Cuba shall provide for. Under the Platt amendment, which the Cuban constitutional convention accepted as a condition of securing the onsent of the American government to the establishment of an independent Cuban government, the Cuban legislature is limited in the creation of debt to an amount that may be paid, principal and interest, out of the ordinary revenues of the Island. While there may be a difference of minion as to the amount of debt that may be incurred under this limitation. it will certainly be difficult for the Cuban government to show how a debt of $35,000,000 can be pail out of ordinary revenues, after paying current EXDELISES.

A reduction in the American duties a kind of obligation resting upon the United States as compensation for the Incorporation of the Plait amendment into the Cuban constitution. It was contended that it was hardly fair to Cuba to limit its power to issue bonds without in some way making it unnecessary to issue bonds.

Without doubt one purpose of the Platt amendment was to put it out of the power of the Cuban government to incur a large debt to pension Cuban soldiers who had taken part in the war against Spain. But the amendment stands against any issue of bonds which the Cuban treasury cannot show the means to pay without incurring a permanent debt. The Cuban house does not make a pretense of complying with the provisions o the Platt amendment, as the bond issue proposed is not made redeemable within 40 years. It is probable that the question will arise if a sale can be made of the bonds, issue of which must be regarded as an infraction of the Cubaa constitution.

Mr. Bryan attacks President Roose elt because the latter said that "a good soldier must not only be willing to fight, but anxious to fight." This, Mr. Bryan thinks, is a sign of an Inhuman and blood-thirsty disposition. The logical inference is that Mr. Bryan, though once a soldier, was not anxious to fight. Many persons thought as much at the time, though perhaps unjustiv.
