ROUMANIAN JEWS WILL BE PROTECTED

Joint Action of England and America Calls Forth European Attention.

Other Powers Have Tried to Suppress An Outrage Which Anglo-Saxons May Now Suppress.

LONDON, Sept. 23.—The Daily Telegraph in an editorial article on Great Britain's "unhesitating" support of Secretary Hay's Roumanian note, says:

However unwelcome may be the phenomenon to certain sections of continental opinion there is but little doubt that the significant co-operation of the two Anglo-Saxon powers will go far to put an end to a condition of things which is a scandal to modern civilization and a reproach to every country responsible for the Berlin treaty.

The Telegraph, noting that Count Von Bulow has gained considerable diplomatic experience at Bucharest, takes leave to doubt whether the German chancellor will adopt crudely the anti-American attitude which is being pressed upon him from intemperate and injudicious quarters.

The paper says that after the incident of the sinking of the Haylen revolutionary gunboat Crete-a-Pierrot by the German cruiser Panther, it is absurd to say that the United States has no right to interfere in this matter.

"In any case," says the Telegraph, "Lord Lansdowne's action has settled any difference which might have advanced on account of the United States not being a signatory of the Berlin treaty."

Referring to the subject editorially, the Times this morning says the British note is confined at the present stages as to inquiry as to what view the other signatory powers take of Secretary Hoy's note. "The correspondence published," says the Times, "shows that the subject has produced deep impression on public opinion in Great Britain. If the Roumanian government is able to contradict the statements made it should do so without delay. Apparently, however, it has reckoned up the cost and is willing to incur any possible risk if it can only rid itself of the Jews. There is shrewdness in the calculations of the Roumanian government that no coercive intention by all the powers is to be expected and that isolated interference by one or two governments is not likely to be pushed beyond the point of remonstrance."

"The differences of enforcing the obligations of the Berlin treaty are obviously very great and if any efficient check is placed upon the anti-semitic legislation of Roumania, it will most likely be done in an indirect way. Roumania is not in such prosperous financial condition as to be able with impunity to affront a race which reckons among its members the leading financial magnates of Europe."

In another dispatch from Vienna the correspondent of the Times says that Secretary Hay's Roumanian note has not only given the newspapers a topic, but that it has given diplomacy a task. More than one of the powers has remonstrated with Roumania, says the correspondent, but their warnings have been ignored. The ruthless persecution of the Jews continues and there is no prospect of its abatement. Austria-Hungary long ago warned Roumania, and what Austria failed to achieve the United States is not likely to accomplish, even with the moral support of the other powers.

"Indeed," continues the correspondent, "I hear from Bucharest that a capacious interpretation of article 41 of the Berlin treaty is ready as a reply to any further diplomatic representations. Coercion, of course, is out of the question."

The United States governments must reckon with its own Jewish element special legislation against the immigration and it is not likely to resort to any form of Roumanian Jews, while the European governments, which did not venture to move in the case of the Armenian massacres are not likely to do much in behalf of the Roumanian Jew.

"It is already obvious," concludes the correspondent, "that America's generous efforts will lead to no practical result."

STATE AFTER BRIBERS.

St. Louis Prosecutors Are Now Gathering Evidence Against Millionaires

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 23.—Ex-Councilman Frederick G. Uthoff, who it is said was "buncoed" out of $45,000 of $70,000,000 it is alleged he received for his vote for the Central Traction bill, by R. M. Snyder, of Kansas City, has returned from Colorado and was in conference with Attorney Folk this afternoon. It is believed Uthoff's return is second in importance only to the return of John K. Murrell, and that the revelations render unnecessary the testimony of Charles Kelley, who is wanted by the state as a witness against certain millionaire bribe-givers.

PLUCKY PRESIDENT BEARS IN SILENCE

Continues Tour and Hides His Wounds--Nature Asserts Itself and Lays Him Down--Trip Abandoned.

At Indianapolis His Strong Constitution Gives Way--Leg Swells Seriously and Immediate Operation Necessary.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 23.—President Roosevelt's Western trip came to an untimely end in this city today. He was found to be suffering from a swelling of his left leg between the knee and ankle that required an immediate surgical operation, and he was conveyed to St. Vincent's hospital, where he was operated on. The operation lasted only a short time. At 7:59 p. m. he was conveyed on a stretcher to the train and left for Washington.

The first intimation that anything was wrong came in rumors to the great crowd that was patiently waiting around the Columbia Club for the president to appear. It was 3:30 o'clock, one-half hour after the time set for the president leaving the city, that a few of the favored ones in the crowd received the information that the president was sick and that the rest of the trip would be abandoned.

Finally it was noticed that a movement of some kind was on. The president's carriage stood in front of the entrance of the club, with Colonel Wilson, the governor's private secretary, inside.

The command was given to make room and a path was cleared from the club entrance to the carriage, and the president, accompanied by Senator Fairbanks, hastily entered the carriage. Colonel Wilson got out and Senator Fairbanks, Secretary Cortelyou and Governor Durbin took seats in the carriage with the president.

Amid the sound of many hooves trotting upon the asphalt and the rattling of the carriages could be heard the cheers of the people, who thought that they were bidding the president good bye. In a few minutes St. Vincent hospital was reached and the operation began without delay.

The swelling of the president's leg, which made an operation necessary, was occasioned by a bruise received the time of the trolley accident at Pittsfield, Mass. Besides being injured in the face and across the eye, the president received a blow upon the inner part of his leg, between the ankle and the knee, but he paid no attention to it, ignoring it as a slight bruise, not worth talking about.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 23.—The following official statement was issued this evening:

"At 3:31 p. m. the president went to St. Vincent's hospital and shortly afterwards an operation was performed by Dr. George H. Oliver, of Indianapolis. He is in consultation with the president's physician, Dr. George A. Luing, and Dr. George J. Cook, Dr. Henry Jameson and Dr. J. J. Richardson.

"At the conclusion of the operation the physicians authorized the following statement:

"As a result of traumatism (bruise) received in the trolley accident at Pittsfield, Mass., there was found to be a collection of serum in the middle of the left anterior tibial region. The matter, about two ounces, was removed.

"The indications are that the president should make a speedy recovery. It is absolutely imperative, however, that he should remain quiet and refrain from using his leg. The trouble is not serious, but temporarily disabling.

GEORGE CORTELYOU, Secretary to the President."

RICHMOND, Ind., Sept. 23.—President Roosevelt's train arrived here at 9:45 p. m. The president was resting easily and the wound in his leg shows no immediate effects.

He is cheerful and is lying in bed with his leg propped up on pillows. The train is due to arrive in Washington at 6:30 tomorrow evening. It was learned tonight that his determination to abandon his trip was reached yesterday, and notices were sent to those interested in the places the president was to visit.
