Fall Wash Shirtwaists

Nothing that has come out in a long time has so caught the feminine fancy as our fall shirt waists. The fact that they will really wash and come out looking as smart as ever appeals very strongly to the lover of fresh, dainty garments. The wash materials of which they are made are handsome enough to trim themselves, and the waists come mostly in the simple, ample styles, with tailor finish—beautiful buttons being one of the chief features of the garment. We are selling these waists in very brilliant mercerized or plain cotton stuffs, such as basket cloth, hop sacking, pique, linen, cheviot, etc.; colors white, light green, light blue, pink and tan.

543 Bond Street SOLE AGENT FOR ASTORIA

The case of smallpox on Bond street continues in every way satisfactory. Mrs. Crispen is not seriously ill and the disease will doubtless not leave any bad effects on her. There are five others kept confined in the house besides the patient and none has as yet shown the slightest symptoms of the sickness.

Our fall shipment of canned fruits, vegetables, oysters, bottled olives, catsup, etc. have now arrived. We have spared no pains in selecting these goods and we are more than pleased with the quality of same. A trial order will convince you that these goods are second to none. We guarantee entire satisfaction. Johnson Bros.

The British ship Clydesdale, now out 112 days from Newcastle, Australia, for San Francisco, is quoted at 5 per cent reinsurance, a drop of 5 per cent. There is a general feeling among seafaring men that the Clydesdale is safe despite the fact that she is long overdue and is laden with coal. The only other overdue on the board is the Norwegian ship Prince Louis, 178 days out from Vancouver for Cardiff, quoted at 15 per cent reinsurance.

William Beasley returned yesterday afternoon from a hunting trip in the direction of Youngs river, staggering under a load of dead rooks and with his two faithful hounds pacing by his side. Considering the vast number of these animals Mr. Beasley has killed, the wonder is that any more are left alive, but he never fails to bag as many as he can conveniently carry whenever he goes on a hunt for them, and his trips are frequent.

Those who have been making an effort to secure a Y. M. C. A. for this city have in no sense lost interest in the idea, but are pushing the proposition with a vigor that seems bound to result in success. Officers and prominent members of the Portland Institution have signified their willingness to do all they can to assist in the undertaking. The establishing of a Y. M. C. A. here means a great deal for the city and it is to be hoped the project will not fall through.

Captain C. G. Calkins, commander of the Thirteenth lighthouse district, announces in a circular that a gas buoy was stationed at the entrance to the river on October 25, in 23 feet of water. The buoy shows a fixed white light during periods of 10 seconds, separated by eclipses of 10 seconds. It has been placed only as an experiment, and will be discontinued if it does not give satisfaction. Masters and pilots have been requested to report to Captain Calkins as to the visibility of this buoy.

It is quite evident that the Portland Journal will be a permanent fixture. Two new typesetting machines have just been installed and it is the intention to give the people a 10-page paper after November 1. C. S. Jackson, manager of the Journal, in a letter to an Astoria friend, says that it is his purpose to print a daily that will strive to advance the interests of the entire state, and that Astoria will be given fair representation. It is generally understood that J. N. Teal is Mr. Jackson's financial backer.

Portland is in the throes of another mysterious disappearance. This time a well-known business man of the metropolis, J. W. Fuller, is missing and causing his friends and relatives a great deal of worry. He was last seen on Monday when he left his rooms for the Portland Riding academy. Since that day nothing has been heard of him, though diligent search has been instituted to locate the missing man. Mr. Fuller is a sufferer from insomnia and nervous prostration and lately returned from San Francisco where he underwent treatment.

Captain Joseph Bertrand of the steamer "Iowena" has been called by the United States engineering department to go to Cello to operate a new self-water sounding device of his own invention. He leaves Monday. The current at Cello runs at 10 or 15 miles an hour and the ordinary sounding leads are of no avail, so Captain Bertrand's invention is an important one. The work to be done at Cello at present will be in charge of W. E. Morris, who superintended the removal of the Sylvia de Grasse reef in East Astoria. The government has made an appropriation for the construction of locks there, and the present undertaking is a preliminary one.

Senator Fulton has been at Oregon City for a brief visit with Senator Brownell. It has been stated that Mr. Brownell will be the choice of the Fulton-Mitchell men for president of the senate, but another report has it that Booth of Lane will be given the berth. Brownell and Booth are warm supporters of the Clatsop statesman and the election of either to the presidency would be a big help to the Lower Columbia aspirant for senatorial honors. The refusal of senatorial candidates to talk has put the public down to a guess on all matters pertaining to the approaching contest, but through-out the state the belief prevails that Senator Fulton will be chosen to succeed Senator Simon. It is freely predicted that one ballot will suffice to land him in the place for which he has so manfully struggled.

The billboards, window spaces and dead walls announce the coming of Gal lager and Barret in that famous comedy, "Finnigan's Ball," at Fisher's opera house next Tuesday evening. Assurance is given that the piece theatergoers will witness this season bears very little resemblance to last year's "Ball." The management appreciates the necessity of keeping its farce-comedy right up to date and during the past summer extensive alterations have been made, so that it will appear like a new piece this season. New music, specialties, songs and dances have been introduced, and all old material put aside. A number of new faces will be seen in the company, including a chorus of handsome ladies. Seat sale opens Monday morning next, at Griffin & Reed's.

J. E. Flynn of Portland has returned to his home after a long stay in St. Mary's hospital. The accident which laid up Mr. Flynn occurred August 6, when he was struck by a train while walking along the railroad trestle here. Seven bones were broken by the accident. While here Mr. Flynn paid particular attention to Astoria's progress, and believes the city has a bright future. To a Portland Journal reporter he said: "The population of Astoria is rapidly increasing. During the past six years it has grown from a town of 5000 population to a city of 10,000. Capitalists are arriving there every week from the east investing in various lines of business, in timber lands and lumber interests. A large sawmill, with a daily capacity of 100,000 feet, is being built by George Hume, the pioneer cannery man. The lumber resources of Astoria are inexhaustible. Tributary to it is some of the finest spruce and yellow fir in the United States."

Mitchell Colman appeared yesterday before Judge Goodman on the charge of stealing a watch from a painter in the employ of Allen & Son. The theft occurred on Astor street Tuesday morning while the painter was engaged at his work. He had hung his vest, which contained the watch, not far from him and, later when he put it on discovered his timepiece was missing. Soon after Colman was arrested on suspicion of being the thief and a search revealed the missing property on him. At his hearing yesterday he pleaded guilty to the charge, stating that he was drunk at the time he committed the offense. This confession, however, did not free him from guilt in the eyes of the law and he was accordingly sentenced to serve 90 days in the county jail. Colman is a young man, not being much over 20 years of age, but is evidently old in the transgression of law. He lived here a number of years ago and at one time was sent to the reform school for some offense. His sojourn at that institution of correction has evidently not improved his nature any, for he is now accounted a stolid, indifferent, dissipated loafer. Until lately he has resided at Aberdeen, Washington.

Captain E. P. Parker was held for trial yesterday before the circuit court for assault with the intent to kill his wife. The preliminary hearing took place in Justice Goodman's court. Mr. Parker being represented by John H. Smith. The defense waived examination and the court fixed Captain Parker's bond at $2000. His sureties are H. B. Parker and Captain Dan J. McVicar. Mrs. Parker was brought from her home in a carriage, but was not required to appear in court, as no testimony was taken. Her features are said to have been badly disfigured by her husband and it is stated that she received other serious injuries. While in the carriage yesterday she swooned. District Attorney Allen will press the suit against Parker and, if he is found guilty, will demand the imposition of a heavy sentence. It is understood the defense will set up the contention that Mrs. Parker was under the influence of liquor at the time of the trouble and that she first assaulted her husband. Mrs. Parker's friends, on hearing of this, indignantly denied the story, saying that she never uses liquor; that Parker was intoxicated, and that he administered a cruel beating to a helpless wife. The case has excited much interest, as the parties to the suit are well known.
