Superintendent McGuire has announced a change in the Seaside time-card. After next Saturday the Seaside train will leave that town at 2:30 p. m., and, coming by way of Fort Stevens, arrive at Astoria at 4 o'clock. On the return it will depart for Seaside at 5:55.

Reports from Benton county show that few prunes have been sold thus far this fall as the growers are standing together and holding out for a better price. At present prunes are worth from 4 1-4 to 4 1-2 cents per pound. One company alone, the Benton County Prune company, controls about 25 tons of the fruit, and the indications point strongly toward a better price.

The people of Warrenton are considerably stirred over the announcement that a lean, tawny panther is prowling about the outskirts of the settlement apparently seeking whom he may favour. The animal was first seen near the famous "weeping spruce" north of town, by some farm hands in the employ of D. K. Warren and since then by various pedestrians. The fact though, that the animal has not as yet kidnaped anyone tends to the belief that he is not a very dangerous article, but is merely having a look at the situation.

The following appeared yesterday in an afternoon publication: "Deputy Auditor Leberman says he never heard until this morning of his self-imposed task of tabulating the vote of the city. He says he has plenty to do without adding to his labors." This evidently has reference to an item in these columns yesterday stating that Mr. Leberman would tabulate the registration for the December election. Mr. Leberman himself made the statement in the office of The Astorian, and the item to that effect was based on what he said to a reporter. Mr. Leberman has been misquoted, or else is very forgetful.

Many Astorians were anxious to see the election returns from Wisconsin, where they hoped to see the name of Lyman E. Barnes among the list of successful congressional candidates. Mr. Barnes had been offered the democratic nomination for congress, but doubtless declined it, as his name does not appear among those of successful congressional candidates. The only democrat elected in Wisconsin was Charles H. Wells of the Sixth district. Mr. Barnes formerly lived in Astoria. He went from Wisconsin to Florida, at a time when the democrats of the latter state were split over factional differences in one county. They could not decide on a candidate for state senator and offered the nomination (which was equivalent to election) to Mr. Barnes as he was a newcomer and not identified with either faction. The nomination was declined, and Mr. Barnes said while here that his failure to accept was one of the biggest mistakes he ever made. However, after a stay of two or three years in this vicinity he returned to Wisconsin, and was elected to congress, serving two terms. While here he took up a claim near Saddle mountain, and also owned several residence lots. He was anxious to go into the law business, but did not find an opening such as he desired. The result of the gubernatorial election in Idaho was also awaited with interest here. The family of Mr. Morrison, the successful candidate, was at Gearhart for several weeks last summer and made many friends from this city. Mr. Morrison is a republican and was elected by a small majority.

Victor Lindbeck returned last night from Portland.

The W. C. T. U. will hold its regular meeting this afternoon at the usual time in the hall, on Bond street.

All the ordinances passed at the last session of the city council were yesterday signed by Mayor Surenant.

A marriage license was granted yesterday to Fred A. Anderson and Ida S. Johnson, by County Clerk Clinton.

Mrs. S. H. Paget and Miss Paget will arrive from Portland tonight to reside. They will occupy the Holson residence at Bond and Fifth streets.

The Foresters had a jay good time last night. A visiting delegation from the Clatskanie lodge was in attendance and music and song delighted the hours away. A number of candidates were initiated into the order.

The board of directors for the Alaska Fishermen's Packing company has rejected the officers who are serving at present. They are: W. F. McGregor, president; John Nordstrom, secretary, and the Astoria Savings bank, treasurer.

A telescope basket was found last night on Commercial street, near Elvehent. The owner can recover his property by calling at the police station and paying for this advertisement. The telescope contained a quantity of clothing.

J. K. Clark of Portland, a brother of Senator Clark of Montana, has purchased the well-known Booth-Dysett hydraulic placers in Josephine county for $25,000 cash. This property consists of 777 acres and includes besides the mines two excellent farms. Mr. Clark was at one time a resident of Butte, but his mining interests are principally in this state. The investment will enlarge the equipment of his new mines and will work them on a much larger scale than they have been operated heretofore.

The strike of the grainhandlers' union that has been going on during the past week in Portland has been settled satisfactorily to all parties concerned. As a result of the settlement the nonunion men have joined the ranks of the union and henceforth it is anticipated that everything will run smoothly. The great point gained by the strike is a full recognition of organized labor, one of the exporters making the statement that work is done much more satisfactorily by union men than otherwise.

The election in Wahkiakum county cannot yet be officially assured, but a fairly good estimate has been made. The republican ticket is generally successful with Megler for representative in doubt and with certain defeat staring Faubion for auditor and Canaris for commissioner from the First district in the face. The majority for Harrington, according to the last count is very slight and the precincts yet to be heard from always poll a good republican vote so genuine hope is extended to Megler. But with Faubion and Canaris it is quite different as they are now 125 in the rear and it is admitted they cannot possibly right themselves by the returns yet to be made.

At a session of the county commissioners' court yesterday a petition was presented asking that a road be constructed near Elsie. Under the condition that the petitioners furnish bonds in the sum of $200 the court agreed to appoint viewers to lay out a road. The petition is headed by John Weeks. There is opposition to the road however, and this was made known in a remonstrance signed by others. This remonstrance was presented but was later withdrawn when it was made clear to the remonstrators that no action could be taken in regard to it until a survey shall have been made. A report made by C. C. Knapp, supervisor of district No. 19, specifying that repairs were needed at the Big creek bridge was referred to the road master. According to the report of the road master the portable saw mill operated 14 days during the past month and cut during that time 161,500 feet of lumber. The rock crusher worked 18 days and crushed 782 yards of rock. Of this 523 yards have been used in constructing the Nehalem road.

Reports from eastern Oregon state that prospectors are now returning to the mining regions there who had gone either to Alaska or Thunder Mountain filled with the idea of accumulating a fortune in a very short while. The Thunder Mountain country seems to have been particularly deceiving. The reason the boom held on as it did was due very likely to the fact that snow upon the ground prevented the prospectors from finding out their mistake any earlier. All that was necessary was for a good chance to present itself to prospect and as soon as it came was made the most of and then—exodus. The outlook for the mining industry in this state grows constantly brighter and more capital is being ushered in. The prospectors who are returning from abroad are satisfied to remain and there is every indication that eastern and southern Oregon will eventually become the Mecca of gold seekers from all over the country. Already the accommodations in the small towns are being overtaxed, hotels being crowded with transients and new residence buildings constantly going up to be occupied by permanent residents.
