M. J. Kinney recently presented to the New Astoria school district six fine lots for school purposes. At their last meeting the directors of the district passed resolutions thanking Mr. Kinney for his generosity.

In the circuit court yesterday formal orders were handed down in the following: S. G. Peterson vs. S. D. Adair, decree of foreclosure; H. H. Henderson vs. James Hansen, set for trial April 15; T. K. Johnson vs. W. E. Tallant, set for trial April 12.

Did you notice that the fresh telegraphic and local news printed in yesterday's Morning Astorian measures over 21 feet in length, or 250 linear inches, or nearly 30,000 ems in Nonpareil measurement. Nothing small or empty about that.

The estate of the late M. Nowlen is valued in the neighborhood of $10,000, and the will was admitted to probate yesterday. The widow, Mrs. Nancy Nowlen, is named as the principal beneficiary, though the descendants of the testator came in for good shares. The executors named are Mrs. Mary J. Radoloff, Granville Reed and R. N. Carnahan.

Dr. Alfred Kinney left last evening for Salem to attend the annual meeting of the state board of health of which he is a member. He will return home Sunday evening. This is the first meeting of the board and they meet to effect a permanent organization and elect officers. There are several candidates for the office of secretary, which carries a salary of $2000 or $2500 per year.

The county commissioners' court convened yesterday morning. The report of the viewers appointed to lay out a road from Seaside to Elk creek, was approved. The road will be opened for travel, an order being issued to that effect. The Bremner Logging company was granted permission to haul logs on the county road in the vicinity of Youngs river falls. The company, however, must first file bonds.

J. W. Cawker who has been in the city the past few days from Westport, Wash., has placed an order for 13000 cans with an eastern firm to be used by his clam packinghouse. Mr. Cawker will begin to pack the latter part of this month. The reputation gained by the article he put up in Warrenton has been quite beneficial, creating a demand for his goods. He expects to dispose of all he can put up, but will start in the business on somewhat of a small scale.

The woman's club has secured permanent quarters in Odd Fellows' hall over the Astoria National bank, where it will hold its first session today at 2:30 p. m. This will be "Library Day," Chairman, Mrs. Eunice De Yo Barnes. Papers: "Books to Read and How to Read Them" by Miss Emma C. Warren; "Advantages of a Public Library, and the Work and Training of a Librarian," by Miss Mary Frances Isom. Quotations pertinent to the subject—quotations of interest—are requested for the question box. The program will be interspersed with music.

City Physician Pilkington has recommended to the school board that in order to insure good sanitary conditions in the schools the buildings be thoroughly fumigated. The recommendation was made after Doctor Pilkington had made an inspection of the schools. He attended to the matter yesterday and feels that the carrying out of his recommendations is highly essential to the health of the pupils. The expense that will attend the work, the physician explained, would be comparatively slight, $150 being sufficient to cover it. The board will consider the matter and will render a decision at an early date.

The concert at the M. E. church last night was attended by a large and appreciative audience. The participants were at their best, both the instrumental and vocal selections being well received and warmly endorsed. The recitations also evoked much laughter and applause. The program, as published in The Astorian yesterday, was carried out in detail excepting an additional vocal selection by Professor Brewer. He sang "Queen of the Earth," and after a prolonged encore sang "Without Thee." The young people are to be congratulated upon their efforts to give an evening of pure, legitimate entertainment.

Miss Mary Frances Isom, librarian of the Portland free library, will address the Astoria Woman's club today in the Odd Fellows' hall at 3:30 p. m. on "Libraries and the Work of a Librarian." Miss Isom is a thoroughly trained librarian and graduate of an eastern library college. Her services were at first secured by the trustees of the Portland library to catalogue the books before the library was made a free institution. They were so well pleased with her work that she was given charge of the new free library of Portland. Miss Isom is an enthusiast in her work and an interesting speaker. All who are interested in the subject, especially the patrons and friends of the public library, are invited to be guests of the club this afternoon. Gentlemen are particularly invited to attend, and all who appreciate libraries and literary work.

MISSING GIRL WAS SEEN

Emma Mustola Passed Tongue Point Thursday.

Her Brothers Are Positive She Is Alive, and Will Prescute Search.

As time passes the mystery surrounding the sudden disappearance of Miss Emma Mustola becomes more baffling and public opinion regarding her movements, subsequent to the moment she fled from her companions at the corner of Seventeenth and Exchange streets, is now undergoing a change, it being candidly expressed by relatives and friends of the two ladies that they were in error regarding their statements relative to Miss Emma's leaving overboard. It is certainly true that both ladies were greatly excited, that one fainted in the excess of her alarm, so it is not unreasonable to suppose that any inexplicable movement by the demoralized girl in the uncertain light would be construed by them to mean the worst thing possible. Miss Hannah Mustola ran to the very spot where she was sure her sister had disappeared, but by the most careful scrutiny she failed to detect the slightest movement, and although she listened closely she could hear nothing. It seems probable that had Miss Mustola leaped from the roadway she must have eventually perished, while it is possible, but not probable she struggled to the shore, yet at the time of the fall she must certainly have given some sign of her presence there.

THE HEATHER IS NOW IN THIS PORT

New Lighthouse Tender Arrived Here Yesterday on Trial Trip.

The new lighthouse tender Heather arrived here yesterday at exactly 12 o'clock and berthed at the foot of Eleventh street alongside the Flavel dock. The tender left Seattle at 8 minutes past 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon so the trip consumed 23 hours, lacking 3 minutes. The syringe speed made was 12 knots, but this was by no means fast for the Heather, as the engines were kept down the entire distance. She is allowed to carry 125 pounds of steam, but at no time did she get beyond 100. The Heather behaved admirably in every respect. She has a lighter draught for her tonnage than either the Columbia or the Manzanita and is equipped in a manner that may prove her superiority over either.

The Heather does not come here to supplant either of the other two tenders, but will supplement the service. Indeed, there will not be enough to do the work then. One of the officers who came around on the tender from Seattle stated yesterday that at least two more vessels will be needed and he had no doubt but that they would soon be forthcoming. There is already talk of one of them.

The tender will remain at the foot of Eleventh street until next Monday, when the next and last trial trip will be made. This will consist of a short run out to sea and a return to this port. The Heather has not yet been formally turned over to the government and will not be until her final trial trip is over. There is no question but that the transfer will be effected as the government has already signified perfect satisfaction with the vessel. There are a few details to which objection is made, but these are of a minor nature and will easily be remedied.

It is not known positively who will be appointed commanding officer of the Heather, but it is reported on good authority that Captain Gregory, of the Manzanita, may be transferred to the position and Harry C. Lord of the Columbine will be made the chief engineer. However, nothing is known definitely and will not be until the appointments are made which will be by the treasury department. Captain R. McFarland of Seattle is master of the tender, being in charge of the builders. The gentlemen who accompanied the Heather from Seattle were Captain Calkins, Captain Gregory, Wm. Moran, vice-president of Moran Bros.; United States Naval Constructor Pahn, who is in charge of the construction of the battleship Nebraska now being built by Moran Bros.; Chief Engineer Harry C. Lord, Chief Engineer Richards, and Mr. Hart of the inspector's office in Portland.

REWARD OFFERED.

A reward of $50 is offered by the undersigned for any information that will lead to the discovery of Miss Emma Mustola, if alive, or the recovery of her body.
