Noted Historian Gives Address

Mrs. Dye Speaks On Early Achievements Of Famous Indian Princess.

The second day of the convention of the State Federation of Woman's clubs met promptly at 9:20 a. m. Mrs. Wade, president, in the chair.

A letter from Mrs. Abigail Scott Duffway stating her inability to attend the convention was received. A vote of regret from the federation was passed.

The credential committee reported 60 delegates present. This was a slight increase over the number reported the day before, a few additional delegates having put in an appearance Monday night.

A paper on domestic science by Dr. Mae Cardwell was read by the recording secretary, Mrs. Elmore. This paper was followed by reports from the various clubs that had been concerned with the subject during the past year.

Mrs. Hattie Young, president of the Grant's Pass Woman's club, read a most interesting paper on the "Work of the State Committees." A spirited discussion followed the reading of the paper, many valuable pointers on the conduct of committees being gleaned through this medium.

The afternoon was taken up principally in club reports and committee work. A solo played by Miss Maja Frederickson on her violin and accompanied by Mrs. Maul Higgins was greatly appreciated and the performers were warmly encared.

At 5 o'clock the federation adjourned and the ladies boarded the light-house tender Manzanita. A delightful ride was taken down the lower harbor, the chief point of inspection being the jetty.

The evening session was probably the most noteworthy yet held. The hall was crowded to its utmost capacity and the speeches were both of high order.

Mrs. Eva Emery Dye, the noted historian of Oregon was introduced to the audience by Mrs. Wade, president of the federation. In opening her address Mrs. Dye gave a greeting from the Chautauqua association to the federation and to the citizens of Astoria and spoke of the great advantages and increasing popularity of that institution. She also took occasion to pay high tributes to Mrs. Narcissa White Kinney and the late Mrs. Robert Miller, two of Oregon's greatest women. After listening to Mrs. Dye's eloquent account of the achievements of the young Indian slave Sacajawea, no one could but think of her other than as a heroine.

"When I began reading the records kept by Captains Lewis and Clark with intention of writing an account of their explorations," said Mrs. Dye, "I must confess that they seemed at first somewhat dry, and I said to myself however can I make a story out of nothing but men, but as I read farther and learned of the daring deeds of the brave slave woman and the important part she took in the expedition I found that my story was not to be lacking in romance, nor without a heroine."

Mrs. Dye easily brought before her hearers the vision of a slender and beautiful princess, raised among the beauties of Yellowstone park, a princess by birth, proudly bearing a cupid-like papoose on her back as she unerringly directed the path of the famous expedition.

It is plain that the efforts now being made by the Sacajawea Statue association to erect a fitting bronze in honor of that noble woman and which shall be commemorative of heroism of women in general, will not lack for enthusiastic support.

Mrs. Dye also stated that during her visit to Astoria on the occasion of the centennial exposition 11 years ago, she was made acquainted with the existence of a manuscript which had been written years ago on the subject of Astoria, and which had been sent away by her informant to be published, but which had become lost. After searching for 19 years, Mrs. Dye states she at last found the manuscript in Canada and has it in her possession. She avers that "it is the best thing" she has ever found and that it is of utmost importance to the history of Astoria. It is her intention to bring it out in book form as soon as it is prepared.

Mrs. J. B. Montgomery, member for Oregon of the board of lady managers of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, was also introduced and spoke briefly on the subject of expositions, mentioning that Oregon should, by all means, erect a suitable building at St. Louis. Mrs. Montgomery stated that the St. Louis exposition is the foundation of the Lewis and Clark fair, and that we cannot hope for complete success unless we show to the world that we are capable of making it a success by a proper representation at St. Louis.

PUSH CLUB'S "EMPTY BOTTLE FULL OF GAS."

Analysis to Be Made of Product from Deep River District—Committee Nearly Choked.

The Push club last night decided to have an analysis made of the contents of a bottle said by Gus Hildebrand to contain gas from the Deep river district. The bottle was carefully sealed, and as the investigating committee, consisting of Messrs Hildebrand and Lyman, was nearly smothered in the effort to fill it at the gas outlet, it is reasonable to suppose that there is more than hot air under the cork.

Another subject that came before the club last night was the proposition of A. Noltner to have a write-up of Clatsop county in his magazine, the Exposition. The Chamber of Commerce has already subscribed $40 and the Push club took under consideration the question of contributing an equal amount. The decision will be announced this morning.

DEATH OF MRS. FRYE.

Wife of County Roadmaster Passes Away After Long Illness.

After suffering from consumption for two years, Mrs. Mary Frye died at her home on Youngs river Tuesday evening. Mrs. Frye had been very low for some months and for the past few weeks was confined to her bed by the incurable disease. She was the wife of John Frye, the roadmaster, and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bartholomew, well known residents of this county, having been born at the old home at the mouth of the Walluski 20 years ago. Besides her husband Mrs. Frye is survived by her parents, a sister and three brothers. The funeral will be held from her late residence at 2:30 today and the interment will be in Greenwood cemetery. Rev. W. Seymour Short, rector of Grace church, will officiate at the house and graves. A launch will leave Ross, Higgins slip at 12:30 for the purpose of taking friends in this city who desire to attend the services.

RELIEF FUND BENEFIT PROVES GREAT SUCCESS

Standing Room Only Sign Was Out Early at Opera House—Amount Will Be Announced Today.

The benefit entertainment in Fishers' opera house yesterday afternoon was a marked success, and resulted in adding largely to the fund for the Heppner sufferers, although the exact amount will not be known until today. The house was packed to the doors, many persons standing throughout the performance. The program was excellent, and was very ably carried out.

Mayor Suprenant, chairman of the relief committee, who has worked energetically for the fund, was much pleased with the success of the entertainment, and warmly expressed his thanks to those who took part. The thanks of the committee were due Manager Selig for his generous assistance; to the members of the Allen Stock company, particularly to Little Verna Felton; to Manager Hager and the performers from the Unique theater; to the Quaker doctors and their troupe; to Messrs Grant and Keating for their turn; to the Columbia orchestra; and to the Astoria Electric company.

The custody of Nellie Hansen, a minor, will be decided at noon today in the circuit court. The girl's sister Annie Bell, alleges that Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Moore, who have charge of her at present, are unfit to have charge of a child and that Mrs. Moore is a bad character.

Jarvi Draws Seven Years

Pleads Guilty To Manslaughter—Circuit Judge McBride Comments On Case.

Matti Jarvi, having pleaded guilty to a charge of manslaughter, was yesterday sentenced by Judge McBride to 7 years and six months in the penitentiary.

Jarvi shot and killed his father, Gabriel, on March 15. Public sentiment was strongly in his favor on account of his youth, and the bad reputation borne by his father. Jarvi was released on bonds, and took opportunity of the fact to escape to Alaska, where he was recaptured by Sheriff Linville.

The version of the shooting given by the defendant was to the effect that his father had come to the door of their house at Uniontown, and when he had shown a gun in an attempt to frighten him away, his father had caught the barrel and had been killed by its accidental discharge.

In imposing the sentence Judge McBride said that he had to take for granted that Matti Jarvi was a sober and industrious young man, while his father was a worthless drunkard, who abused his family, and was to some extent himself responsible for the fate with which he met. "On the other hand," said Judge McBride, "the taking of human life is a most serious crime, and I do not feel justified in imposing a less penalty than that announced."

VERNA AND HER FRIENDS.

"The Real Lord Lennox," was presented to a house that occupied nearly every available seat in the theater. The popular Allen company certainly did themselves proud and Little Verna Felton was as near perfection as an actor can get. This little lady is a wonder and the audience showed their appreciation of her work by frequent bursts of applause. Her songs in the second act were excellent, the Hebrew impersonation being especially good. The entire cast was good and it would be invidious to mention any particular character. Mr. Allen is to be congratulated upon the smoothness and cleanliness of his productions. Frank Walsh made a decided hit in songs. His work alone is worth the price of admission. The orchestra rendered a very fine program. To all lovers of music this orchestra is certainly a treat.

This evening the play will be "Hazel Kirke." This is considered one of the finest plays ever written and has made more money than any similar production ever turned out. The company make a specialty of this play in the way of scenery and effects, especially strong being the storm scene in the second act. "Hazel Kirke" promises to draw the largest house of the week so far.

There will be matinee on Saturday afternoon. Little Verna will be seen in a play that was especially written for her. The play will be given with the same careful attention to detail as the night performances. There will be plenty of fine specialties and it will be an afternoon long to be remembered by the children. Prices for the matinee will be 15 and 25 cents.
