Good Words For Astoria

Mrs. Edith Tozier-Wetherred, Editor of "The Exposition," Returns From the East

Mrs. Edith Tozier-Wetherred, editor of "The Exposition Magazine" and St. Louis World's fair commissioner for the state of Oregon, arrived in the city yesterday, en route to Seaside. Mrs. Wetherred has just returned from Atlantic City, N. J., where she attended the meeting of the Inter-National League of Press Clubs held there, and she also attended the convention of the National Editorial Association held at Omaha, Neb. During her tour she has been scattering copies of "The Exposition" containing the illustrated article on Clatsop county, and it does not require extended comment to say that wherever she went the people with whom she came in contact learned something they never before had known or imagined concerning the picturesque resourceful state of Oregon.

Mrs. Wetherred says that she likes Astoria, which at once entitles her to consideration at the hands of Astoria people. "I think it one of the best places of business in the state," she says, "and outside of Portland I hear it mentioned often and more favorably than any other section of the state. During the Lewis and Clark centennial the people here have a distinct advantage over any other locality in the Northwest. Historically the city will be brought into great prominence, and commercially you are making rapid strides and will continue to quicken and widen the gait."

But while she has words of praise for the city and its enterprising citizens, she offers a few timely suggestions that find a keynote in the words "push, opportunity and enterprise." She addresses herself not so particularly to the people of Astoria as to the people of Oregon generally when she says: "What the people of Oregon need is more push and less knockers. When we succeed in eliminating selfishness, jealousy, kickers and mossbackism and get together for the greatest good for the greatest number we will accomplish something and great things will materialize for the advancement of the entire state. If our neighbor makes two dollars where we make only one let him alone; if some one has a little more experience than we have on some special matter let him use it. Let us keep enthusiasm on the move. We must get in a little of New York venturesomeness. We cannot sail a boat on dry land; it must be out on the billows. We must venture out, reach out and grasp as it were."

"Clatsop county has more opportunities than one; its interests are diversified. Take its beach resorts. They are unequalled in the United States. I am surprised that the railroads do not make a special feature of them for summer excursions by advertising the eastern and middle west resorts more extensively. I appreciate, of course, there is one great obstacle, and that is lack of hotel accommodations, but these conditions could be quite easily adjusted. While we have good hotels at reasonable rates which meet the present requirements, yet a fine hotel with beautiful grounds at one of the beach resorts would be a well paying investment. If I owned property at Seaside I would not rest until a plank walk was constructed from Gearhart to the Seaside house. A walk five or six feet wide with benches and probably rolling chairs would be a great drawing card for the place. This is only one of the little improvements that could be made at a very small cost, but there are numerous others."

"I distributed the issue of 'The Exposition' containing the article on Clatsop county and Astoria throughout the East, that is to say wherever I went. In Chicago, G. M. McKinney of the Southern Pacific advertising bureau received a package of the magazine. He told me they came at the right time, for he had received several letters calling for information of Clatsop county. Mr. McKinney sent out several hundred copies and said he could use many more to good advantage. P. E. Hopp of the Union Pacific immigration bureau at Indianapolis took 200 copies and had them distributed at his stereopticon lecture throughout Indiana. "I truly hope you will derive valuable returns from your investment in 'The Exposition.'"

Those present were Mesdames Ridehaigh, Carruthers, Brink, Bell, Gunn, Callander, Marrs, Finch, Thine, and the Misses Tallant, Crang, Bowly, Fox, Ward, Sutherland, Flavel, Katie Flavel, Hobson, Higgins and Cole.

Here Are the Solid Facts

Who Is There In Astoria to Dispute These Statements And Figures.

This exhibition of strictly highest grade pianos is the first one ever witnessed in Astoria on such a large scale. The choicest and most expensive instruments made are here for your inspection and test. Not merely one or two, but our loads of them. Among them you will find the world famed Chickering, father of all American pianos, and without question the best of them all. Here is New York's finest and most perfect piano, the wonderful Weber, built on a principal entirely different from all others. The greatest artists on earth use the Weber pianos to the exclusion of all others, on account of their wonderfully sympathetic tone qualities, combined with volume unequalled in any other make. Every American piano, no matter what the make, is either copied from the Chickering or the Weber. Every improvement of value pertaining to tone production was originated by either of these two great makers.

More than this, here is also the great and wonderful Kimball of Chicago. The Kimball is used today by more great artists and musicians than is any other make. Over 105,000 Kimball pianos have been made and sold during the past 15 years. Think of that. Over one hundred and ten miles of Kimball pianos, if stood in a row, end to end. It is the most up-to-date, one of the most reliable, and the most highly approved piano in the world.

Besides the above, our assortment here contains sample instruments of over 30 other leading and reliable makes. Prices, to wind up matters this week quickly, are lower than what is usually paid for such pianos wholesale by regular dealers.

Peter Henige In Hard Luck

Alleged Victim of a Portland Employment Agency Stranded
In Astoria

The attention of the district attorney's office has been called to the business methods of certain employment agencies in Portland, several complaints having been received from boys and men who have been sent to Astoria with tickets addressed to fictitious people. These tickets are supposed to be the open sesame to positions, and the holders paid prices ranging from $1 to $2 for them. When presented at the given address, however, they either find that no such person or firm exists or that the people have not had business dealings with the employment agencies. The victim mis out the price of the trim, pink slip and also railroad fare and other expenses attendant on the trip.

The latest victim of the so-called business methods to find himself stranded in Astoria is a boy named Peter Henige who received a circular letter of introduction to "S. H. Everett & Co." of Astoria. The circular was in blank, with the name of the boy, the position to which he had been assigned, driver of a team, and salary $25 per month, board and room. The little fellow hunted all day to locate the firm of Everett & Co., but did not succeed, after which he sought out the police and told his troubles to the chief. The letter bore the name of the Alpine Employment Agency, 152 First street, Portland, and was signed by J. L. Wiggle, employment agent.

Last week Henige was sent from Portland to Astoria on a similar errand, by the Canadian Employment office, E. P. McCroskey, manager, only to find that the position of flunkey had been filled out about two weeks previous thereto. He was again out his traveling expenses, and nothing was done to reimburse him for this burden.

The boy went to Deputy District Attorney J. A. Eakin yesterday and gave him all the information he could on the subject, and Mr. Eakin took the matter up. It is understood that steps will be taken to afford better protection to the people who patronize employment to bear more stringently in the future than has been the case in the past.

A good piano, for which you would ordinarily expect to pay $250, can be obtained now for $167, on payments of $17 down and $6 a month.

The highest class upright pianos, such as cannot ordinarily be bought for less than $500 and $550, go now at a saving of $135, yes, $150 and even more.

Why we do it, how we can afford to do it, has been previously explained in our advertisements. Suffice it to say that the instruments are here. They are here at the prices advertised. They are here accompanied by the regular factory guarantees, duly countersigned by the Eilers Piano House, the most reliable, and most responsible and the largest wholesale and retail concern in the west.

We say to you "money back if the piano is not entirely satisfactory or in every way as represented."

Bring in $25 or more for first payment down. We know we can now please you in a piano, and we know, too, that you will never again have an opportunity to purchase such high-class instruments at such enormous savings in price.

Now, first thing tomorrow, is the time for you to attend to this matter.

Remember the place, Eilers Exhibition sale, corner Ninth and Commercial streets, in the Masonic building.

END OF FISHING SEASON

Seiners Are Said To Be In Violation Of The Law

The open season for salmon closed at 8 o'clock yesterday morning, and the gillnetters kept the canneries busy all day receiving the last catch, which was large. The traps reported a falling off in the catch; they lifted yesterday for the last time, and the men will bring the fish up today.

The only people who are said to be violating the fish law are the seiners, and it is reported that they have announced their determination to continue doing so. Master Fish Warden Van Dusen stated to the Astorian yesterday that the law was being obeyed by all classes of fishermen, and he did not anticipate any trouble.
