CANADA ON PROTECTION

The Victoria, B. C., Colonist has been giving editorial space to the subject of protection since Chamberlain's has taken an unequivocal position in favor of protection to England.

The attitude of many protectionists says an American writer in a very able article, towards this (the Chamberlain) discussion as revealed by opinions expressed here, is exceedingly hard to understand. They are apparently so delighted with the growth of protectionist sentiment in England, as affording corroborative evidence of the wisdom of the protective policy here, that they forget how large a measure of the success of American protection has come as a natural complement to British free trade, and how severe a blow to our present economic position in the world's markets would be the Imperial Zollverein.

It may be said in passing that it was at this first session of the legislature at which Champoug county had its name changed to that of Marion, Tualatin to that of Washington and Vancouver to that of Clark. Of the judges who composed the first supreme court of Oregon I knew but one—O. C. Pratt. In a former reminiscence I gave a short characterization of this man and shall not repeat it here. I will only say that while he presided as judge with propriety he lost no opportunity of showing his importance and replenishing his coffers.

OREGON REMINISCENCES

The State Bar Association of Washington that has just closed its annual session brought together a brilliant assemblage of legal lights. There were historians among the delegates and some interesting Oregon history was woven into the proceedings. Judge N. T. Cason of Davenport touched on early Oregon in a manner interesting to all Oregonians. Beginning with the creation of the territory of Oregon the judge said:

The act of congress creating the territory of Oregon was passed and signed on the 14th day of August, 1848. Gen. Joseph Lane, appointed governor, did not reach Oregon City, the place named as the temporary seat of government, until March 2, 1848. On the last day of the administration of James K. Polk, Gov. Lane issued his proclamation giving to Oregon her form of government. While it is not directly in the line of my subject, I desire to mention one incident in connection with the organization of Oregon territory that I think deserves preservation. Gen. Lane accompanied by Joseph L. Meek, who was appointed Oregon's first United States marshal, came to the Pacific coast overland.

The succeeding year, 1851, the bench was composed of Thomas Nelson, as chief justice, with O. C. Pratt and William Strong as associate justices. The chief justice was never intended either by nature or education for this hemisphere. He was very precise in all his utterances. He it was who told a lawyer who had read and talked law for an hour or more, that he fully agreed with him in the proposition for which he was contending, and among other things said: "Should I hold otherwise the 'suprem' court would promptly reverse me." He could not say "suprem' court" if his soul's salvation depended upon it, but always said "suprem' court."

I took it for granted that in his view of the matter the two phrases were idem sonans, and therefore made but little difference whether he used one form or the other.

Judge Strong subsequently occupied a seat upon the supreme bench of Washington territory. Judge Strong, in addition to being a profound lawyer and an able, conscientious and fearless judge, possessed a kindly disposition and easy and winning manners. I well remember his constant flow of language when engaged in conversation. His conversation was natural and animating. Richly endowed with a retentive memory, his instructive observation, in juxtaposition with anecdotes, in variously left upon the recollection of his auditors the heritage of a pleasant remembrance.

According to the Baker City Democrat, Baker county is not taking the interest that might be expected of that county in the coming irrigation congress. Eastern Oregon is the section most in need of irrigation and if its sage-brush plains are not converted into golden grain fields through the process of irrigation within the next few years, Baker, Union and Umatilla counties will have to assume the culture.

Under the new law providing for collection of statistics of commerce between the United States and its non-contiguous territory the record has been completed for the fiscal year and the result is indicated by the department of commerce and labor as follows:

Shipments from the United States to its non-contiguous territory 1903, $36,722,941
Receipts of merchandise from non-contiguous territory 1903, $8,894,117
Gold bullion received from Alaska (domestic production), $4,719,575
Annual, $100,337,237

Portland is suffering from a dearth of hotels and Seattle is growing sensitive over mention by outside papers of its vacant houses. The situation might be equalized by some of Portland's people going over to Seattle or removing some of Seattle's vacant houses to Portland.

Superintendent James has sent to Kentucky and procured a brace of bloodhounds to add to his force in keeping convicts in the penitentiary.

CUBA RECIPROCIITY

President Palma Denies Petition of Commercial Men

Havana, August 28.—The interest in the reciprocity with the United States which has been languishing for several months is reviving. The newspapers are urging the Cubans, in spite of their previous discouragement, to again join hands with the friends for the reciprocity treaty with the United States.

President Palma has denied the petition of several commercial and manufacturing organizations for a suspension of the tax on manufactured products and industries enacted by the Havana Provincial Council. The president holds that the impost is not in compatible with the taxes imposed by the general government.

UKASE OF FAR EAST

Powers Invested In Office of the Imperial Lieutenantcy

St. Petersburg, August 12.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press.—The Imperial Ukase placing the Amur district and the Kwantung Province under General Alexieff, who will assume the title of Imperial Lieutenant of these territories, declares:

"Our lieutenant in the Far East is invested with supreme power in all matters appertaining to the civil administration of the country entrusted to him, and this administration is removed from the jurisdiction of the ministries. On the Imperial Lieutenant is also conferred supreme power with respect to the maintenance of order and security within the zone of the Chinese Eastern Railroad, as well as the care of providing for the needs of the Russian population in the possessions bordering on the Imperial lieutenantcy."

"Until the promulgation of a law dealing with the administration of the far eastern territories, the limits of the Imperial Lieutenant's powers, rights and obligations with regard to the higher institutions as well as the local institutions, shall be determined in accordance with the local principles set forth in the imperial rescript of January 29, 1845, issued on the occasion of the institution of a lieutenantcy for the Caucasus. The institutions and functionalities of the state, placed under the Imperial Lieutenant may enter into relations with the ministries and general administration solely through the medium of the Imperial Lieutenant."

"Diplomatic negotiations regarding the affairs of these territories with neighboring states are placed in the hands of the Imperial Lieutenant in the far east."

"The Imperial Lieutenant is entrusted with the command of the naval forces in the Pacific and all the troops stationed in the territory placed under his jurisdiction."

MANY FIGHTS REPORTED

Trains Are Attacked, Turks Being Unable to Protect Passengers

Sofia, August 28.—Fights are reported from several districts around Adrianople. The insurgents are now besieging the town of Malkoternovo. The Autonomy states that at Ziknisher near Malkoternovo after an engagement lasting 11 hours, the revolutionists killed 40 Turkish soldiers and also burned the village of Hodgotashan because its Bashli Buzukos inhabitants had terrorized the Christian population in the neighborhood. The Turkish Guards along the Bulgarian frontier have fled before the revolutionists who are in possession of all the villages around Malkoternovo. The Turkish government is making the utmost efforts to repress the rebellion in the vilayet of Uskub. Every available man has been called out from the last line of reserves to the rawest recruits. The train outrage near Kuleli Burgas will have, it is thought, a very damaging effect on the Turkish government, showing at once the strength of the insurgents and the weakness of the Turkish authorities, who in spite of warnings received days ago that the trains would be attacked, have proved themselves unable to protect the passengers.
