FRANK PATTON WINS A HAT.

Frank Patton, a stockholder in the Alaska Fishermen's Packing Company, wins a $25 Panama hat on the pack of his company at Nushagak. The company sold 20,000 cases of fish prior to the opening of the season, and another buyer in negotiating for salmon, wagered a hat that his firm would be able to get 25,000 cases from the A. F. P. Co.

The total pack was 43,130, and the firm would be able to buy only 23,130 cases if all the available fish were sold to it.

Prominent Man Joins Majority

D. K. Warren Succumbs to Heart Failure, After an Illness of Less Than a Week.

Daniel K. Warren, pioneer resident and capitalist, passed away at his Warrenton home at 8:10 last night after an illness lasting since Sunday. The end was not unexpected and members of the family and other near relatives were at the bedside when the end came.
News of Mr. Warren's death was received by Mrs. Fulton and Kinney at 8:15.

Early yesterday Mr. Warren suffered a relapse from which it seemed almost impossible for him to recover. Dr. Fulton had caught a train for Warrenton late Thursday night and on his arrival at the Warren home found the sufferer quite low. He rallied, however, from the most severe sinking spell which had been experienced up to that hour and for a time during the morning appeared to be much stronger. His vitality surprised Dr. Fulton, who feared that he would not survive Thursday night's attack.

Dr. Fulton remained with Mr. Warren until 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when he came to the city. Mr. Warren was quite low at that hour, and it was arranged that Dr. Kinney should go over on one of the rock trains running to Fort Stevens. As the physician was preparing for the trip word came of Mr. Warren's death.

"I hardly expected that Mr. Warren would survive this latest attack," said Dr. Fulton last night. "His vitality was exceptional, but the frequency of the sinking spells made it appear certain that the end was very near. That he should have lived through Thursday night was surprising to me. Mr.
Warren was conscious most of the time, but during the past few days had not suffered very much. He was first stricken with angina pectoris in June, but rallied from that attack, and enjoyed fairly good health until last Sunday."

News of the death of Mr. Warren spread rapidly and there was universal sorrow among his many friends. He was regarded as one of the most substantial men of Astoria, ever alert to subserve the interests of the city and county, and had exerted powerful influence in the building up of the community. Mr. Warren's fortune is estimated to have been about $250,000.

A STURDY CITIZEN.
D. K. Warren was a sturdy citizen.
While of rather quiet disposition, he would express himself vigorously at times on matters affecting the interests of the city which he helped to build, and his opinions were always received with marked attention. During the memorial fight for common point rates Mr. Warren lent valuable assistance, his appeals for recognition of the Oregon seaport attracting the attention of the people of the entire state, and compelling the admiration of even those who differed from him. In every sense of the word, he was a big man, of broad views and even habits, and one of the most enterprising men of the Lower Columbia.

Mr. Warren was a native of New York state and came to Astoria when he was about 17 years of age. At the time of his death he was 67 years old.
Mr. Warren first engaged in logging, and recently, while driving along the Nehalem highway with Hon. J. E.
Higgins, pointed out near the Waluku bridge a spot where he had placed logs in the water 50 years previously.

Mr. Warren had lived here continuously and by hard work had built up a large fortune. His Warrenton farm is by far the finest in the county, and he owned much property in the city. He was president of the Astoria National bank, and it is understood, had other business interests in the city.

Deceased took little part in politics, but was at one time a member of the legislature. He also served in the city council and on the Astoria school board.

Recently Mr. Warren undertook the establishment of a large sawmill at Warrenton and work had just been fairly begun when he was stricken with heart failure. It is understood that the death of Mr. Warren will not interfere with this enterprise.

Mr. Warren is survived by Mrs. Warren and four children—Mrs. H. C.
Thompson, Mrs. Charles R. Higgins, Fred L. Warren and George W. Warren.

Arrangements for the funeral have not yet been announced, but it will probably take place Monday. Mr. Warren was a member of the First Presbyterian church.

NEW CITIZENS.

Three new citizens were made yesterday. First papers were issued by County Clerk Clinton to Augustine J.
Moen, a native of Norway, and to Andrew Wasala, a native of Finland.
First papers were granted to Erik Hanberg, a native of Sweden.

Present Law Is Not Necessary

Fish Warden Van Dusen Believes the Closed Season Should Be Abolished.

Fish Warden Van Dusen is of the opinion that the fishing season should be extended. He sees no good reason for keeping on the statute books the present law requiring suspension of operations August 15, but to the contrary says there is every reason for continuing the season right on through.
He meets every argument advanced by those who favor the present law, and, while not at all anxious to take part in what promises to develop into a warm fight, makes it clear that the plan proposed by some of the packers is a good one.

The closed season law was originally enacted as a means of protection to the salmon industry. It was the belief of lawmakers and others that continual operations would deplete the run of fish, which would be unable to reach the natural spawning waters.
The closed season was depended upon to give the fish a chance to get to the spawning streams.

However, Mr. Van Dusen does not agree that the closed season has the effect of increasing the supply to any appreciable extent, nor does he believe that it helps the hatcheries. He points out, in support of this belief, that the Salmon river and Clackamas hatcheries completed their takes of early fish this year before the season closed; and that quite as many eggs were secured as ever before. In view of the fact that the closed season is not essential to hatchery work, Mr. Van Dusen sees no reason why it should be continued in effect.

The warden is of the opinion that he can stock the river with a sockeye salmon that first made its appearance in the Columbia some 10 or 12 years ago. This fish averages about 12 pounds in weight and is of excellent color. It comes into the river just after the July run of chinook salmon, and packers say it is far superior to the silversides and other fall salmon of the Columbia.
The Grande Ronde hatchery takes large numbers of these fish every year, and as they are hardy and easily propagated the warden believes the river can be stocked with them. He states that 5,000,000 young sockeyes can be turned out of the Grande Ronde plant each year. Packers are anxious that the supply of this variety be increased.

"With the river full of sockeyes, surpassing any fall fish that we have at present, it seems to me we should keep on fishing after August 15," said Mr.
Van Dusen. "There need be no fear that the reputation of Columbia river chinooks will suffer on this account.
Packers are bound to protect their best brands of chinook salmon, which command the highest prices and are called for by the best trade. The present law merely has the effect of curtailing the salmon pack, without any good reason therefor, and I believe it should be repealed, for the reason that it does not have the effect intended."

TWO ALASKA SHIPS ARRIVE

Berlin and Sargent Reach Port
From Bristol Bay

The ships Berlin and Sargent, under charter respectively to the Alaska Fishermen's Packing Company and Portland-Alaska Packing Company, arrived yesterday from Nushagak, Alaska.
The Berlin brings 43,130 cases of salmon and the Sargent 37,752 cases.
Both vessels had uneventful trips down the coast. All the cannery employes of the two companies, about 400 men, returned on the ships.

Men returning on the Berlin report the peculiar death of a Chinese boss of the Wharfedale cannery, belonging to the Pacific Packing & Navigation Company.
The man was aboard the ship America, which was lying at her dock when the steamer Mary D. Hume came alongside. The shock caused by the vessels coming together loosened a ball at the masthead and it fell, striking the Chinese squarely on the top of the head.
The man was instantly killed.

When the America reached Nushagak the Wharfedale cannery was entirely out of provisions. A small boat was sent ashore, loaded with food, but capsized in the heavy sea. All the provisions were lost but the men were rescued.

The season was, on the whole, a satisfactory one. The cannery paid 10 cents for Ring salmon, 2 1/2 cents for reds and 2 cents for dog salmon, and the fishermen averaged about $150 for the season.

SALMON PACK IS SHORT.

Advises from the east are to the effect that the salmon pack is very short and that there is no relief in sight. The Puget sound pack is reported to be only about 30 per cent of the usual output.
The short pack on the sound is attributed to depletion of the supply because of the operation of traps without provision for restocking the waters with hatchery fish.

The success of the Columbia is well known in the east, as is evidenced by the following paragraph from the New York Commercial: "According to one authority the sockeye industry on Puget sound is confronted today by exactly the same conditions that prevailed on the Columbia river five years ago.
Now the hatcheries, which were established eight years ago are annually putting enough chinook salmon into the river to maintain the supply and since the effect of this policy has been noted the run in the river has increased.
It was heavy this year, but came too late, the advent of the close of the season stopping packing."

Guardsmen at Gearhart Enjoy Situation To Its Fullest Extent

Camp Summers, Gearhart Park, Sept.
4.—(Special)—The school of instruction of the Third regiment infantry, O. N. G., is conducted with clock-work regularity and precision. After a night's sleep by the roaring sea, the soldiers responded to reveille at 5:15 a. m. and were put through the daily routine of work, with the exception of dress parade this evening. This ceremony was dispensed with for the reason the band failed to arrive.

The Nineteenth infantry, U. S. A. band, from Vancouver, is depended upon for music and would have arrived today but for failure to connect with the
A. & C. train at Portland this morning.
The band will be here tomorrow and the first regimental parade will take place at 6:35 p. m. tomorrow to music by the Nineteenth regiment band.

The report of the new Krag-Jorgensen rifles was heard today in rifle practice. There was a strong wind during the practice hour and no extraordinary scores were made. The best was 21 out of a possible 25. The ranges are 200, 300, 500 and 600 yards. Each man is required to fire five rounds at each of the different targets. Rifle practice is conducted under the supervision of Lieutenant R. M. Leabo, rifle practice inspector. The First battalion had its turn today. The Second will shoot tomorrow.

So far, there is very little work for Dr. Whiting and Brosius of the medical department, as there has not been a case reported to the hospital.

The work the men are given and the ocean breeze prove to be good appetizers and Captain C. B. Winn, commissary, has little time for other work than dealing out rations. The camp consumes about 700 pounds of meat, 650 loaves of bread, 100 pounds of dry beans over 100 pounds of sugar, 80 pounds of coffee, 70 pounds of prunes, 24 pounds of salt and a large quantity of vegetables, especially potatoes, daily.

Most of the supplies come from Astoria.
Arrangements had been made with James Waterhouse, a near-by farmer, for potatoes, but Mr. Waterhouse was unable to get help to dig his spuds and they have to be shipped in.

There are in camp about 650 men including officers and when the band arrives tomorrow and some stragglers the number will be about 600. Company G, of Albany, Captain Frank C. Stell-macher, is the banner company for strength, showing 3 officers and 50 men.
The other companies show: Company A Captain Samuel White, 2 officers, 46 men; company B, Captain Thomas Furner, 2 officers, 39 men; company C, Captain Arthur W. Clothier, 2 officers, 41 men; company D, Captain Gustav E. Bartell, 2 officers, 41 men; company E, Captain Charles T. Smith, 2 officers, 31 men; company F, Captain William M. Gould, 1 officer, 35 men; company H, Captain Roy M. Doble, 3 officers, 36 men; company I, Captain O. D. Henderson, 3 officers, 39 men; company K, Captain Ryland Scott, 3 officers, 35 men; company L, Captain Horace E. Coolidge, 2 officers, 26 men; company M, Captain Charles A. Murphy, 3 officers, 32 men.

The weather is good and the soldiers from the interior are much pleased with the camp site. "It's the finest camp you ever laid your eyes on," remarked a soldier to his sweetheart, that he met at the train today. "The ocean just rolls an' rolls all night and sleeping is good out here."

The first review of the regiment will be at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon. General Summers, in whose honor the camp was named, will be the reviewing officer. On Wednesday evening at retreat General Funston will review the regiment and on the following day, Thursday, the Commander-in-Chief, Governor Chamberlain, accompanied by Colonel Huston, U. S. A., will review the men on dress parade. This review will also be at the hour of retreat.
