"Cutler's Red Book of Priceless Recipes" "Webster's Common Sense Dictionary" "The Life of Pope Leo XIII"

Briefly, the first book contains receipes for about everything from curing the sick or running a library to getting up the hundreds of dishes fancy or otherwise, that are known only to skilled chefs. As a compendium of information, this book is absolutely peerless, for being of the st modern date, its precepts are reliable, and reaching, in its wide scope, every one from the profes-getting their wives, the volume should be found in every household, There are 639 pages of good type, well illustrated by cuts appropriately distributed.

Webster's Common Sense Diction ary is an attractively bound volume of 60S pages with all the suitable cuts pretaining to such a work.

The Life of Pope Leo XIII, by Rev. J. J. McGovern, D. D., is an elegantly gotten up volume of over 500 pages, profusely and beautifully illustrated, dealing with the life and life-work of the late SoverlegnPon tiff of the Catholic Church, The Imprimatur is by the Archbishop cently..

As a historical work, which at the same time, does not partake in the slightest of the "dry dust" order this book will commend itself not only to members of the Catholic Church but to all readers as well, especially since the decease of the venerable prelate, respected the world over, which occurred so re

WHAT A CLERGYMAN THINKS ..

Astoria, Ore., Sept. 21, '03 I have been requested by The Astorian to write a recommendation of a work entitled "Life and Life-work of Pope Leo XIII." by J. J. McGovern, D. D. It is a pleasure to comply with this request. In this volume we find condensed in compact form, all the facts of interest in the life of the great world-figure concerning whom it treats. It is preeminently a practical biography, intended for the busy man with little time to spare; it displays an insight into the great pontiff's career which denotes the close observer and careful studene on the part of the compiler. No man, be he a Catholic or a thorough knowledge of the political, social, religious history of the last quarter of the nineteenth century, who is ignorant of the life and work of Leo XIII. This volume will in a measure, furnish a key to the secret of the deceased pontiff's wonderful success and influence in the world at large. The author pays special attention to Leo's attitude towards the United States. The chapters devoted to a consideration of "Leo XIII and Education" and "Activities in Behalf of Labor" are very timely. The even, non-polemnical tone of the volume recommend it alike to believer and unbeliever. The perusal of this book must needs prove uplifting. The typographical work is well done and the illustrations are highly interesting, and considering the price for which the volume is offered it is all that could be desired. We bespeak for this work a wide circulation.

AN EDUCATOR'S OPINION.

Astoria, Ore., Sept. 21 '03 I am famillar with Webster's Common Sense Dictionary, and can say that it gives the best authority, and contains about all that the busy person cares to learn when referring to a book of this kind, H. S. LYMAN, County Superintendent of Schools.

AS TO THE BOOK OF RECEIPTS. Astoria, Sept. 21, '03

After an inspection of Cutler's Red Book of Priceless Recipts, I can truthfully subscribe to its excellence as a most valuable compendium of information for the household, and take pleasure in placing myself on record to that extent. I may especially recommend those portions of the book relating to the care of the health. MRS. F. D. KUETTNER.

As it would hardly be fair to old subscribers to offer any or all of these valuable works to new subscribers, since there is no increase in the price of the paper, The Astorian, in a spirit of fairness, hereby extends the same privilege to its old subscribers and invites them to step into the office and secure for $1.00 one of these $3.00 books. Bear in mind that we mean exactly what we say in referring to the very limited number of books in the consignments.

No charge is made for showing goods and you may get together for the mutual benefit of both. There is no question but goods can be sold as cheap in Astoria as in Portland, and the fact that, as a rule, a high class of goods is carried here can not be gainsaid. The man who publicly advertises his goods and prices certainly has nothing to fear, and before going away from home to buy goods it's a duty the buyer owes to himself or herself to investigate the home merchant's offer. The advertising columns of today's Astorian are worth perusal.

An emryonic railroad scheme is coming to light in the town of Corvallis. Rev. H. S. Wallace is the promoter and the proposed road touches Corvallis Coos Bay and Portland. Somebody, some day, will discover a feasible route down the coast touching the big timber district. While a road down the Pacific coast would be the scenic route of the world, it is the magnificent bodies of timber to be marketed that will appeal with greatest force to capital and Clatsop, Tillamook and Lincoln countles, the three counties north of Yaquina and bordering on the ocean, have some of the finest timber of the Pacific coast.

The sardins packing industry, upon which the prosperity of seaport towns of Maine depends, is said to be a failure this year, and the six thousand or more persons who usually earn good money during the canning season are dieheartened. If the immense school of surdines that came into the Columbia of Norway, fell overboard from a yard river a month ago could have been succossfully canned the canner could have put his product on the market at a good price. The output on the coast of cases, whereas last year 1,340,000 were put up at Eastport alone.
