BIG STICKS SENT EAST

Sixteen Monster Timbers Constitute Carload That Goes Out of Astoria.

OUTSIDE ORDERS COMING IN

Increased Demand From Middle Eastern Points for the Superb Output of the Mills of This City.

There will be shipped out today over the Astoria and Columbia river railroad what is pronounced by millmen to be the finest small shipment of Astoria timber ever sent out. The shipment was especially prepared by the Clatsop Mill Company to fill an eastern order, and the timbers are of such immense size that 16 pieces only were required to load a car.

Each stick of timber is 22 feet in length and otherwise measures 24x24. The destination of the shipment was not learned, and there was considerable speculation as to what class of trade would demand such monster timbers. It was stated authoritatively, however, that the shipment is billed for an eastern point that is now taking much Astoria lumber.

Some of the timbers in the shipment were towed around from Nehalem bay by the tug Vosburg, as is evidenced by the holes in the ends of the big sticks. Great care was exercised in sawing the timbers, and the lumber is of first-class quality. The shipment will constitute a valuable advertisement for this city and its lumber manufacturing industry.

Local mills are now receiving many eastern orders, and only recently four carloads of box shooks were sent into Chicago and Michigan points, the very heart of the eastern timber region. Several have been made to Topeka, Kan., and points in Missouri, and a sample carload was sent out during the present week that will doubtless bring in an order for 25 or 30 carloads of box material. Considerable lumber has also been turned out for the Australian market, having been shipped by rail to San Francisco and then loaded on a vessel for Australian points.

A millman said yesterday to a press representative that the number of outside orders was rapidly increasing, and, while the beginning is only now being made, he was satisfied Astoria lumber would soon find a steady market in the eastern states. As a rule, the lumber shipped east is of the very finest quality, demanding the highest prices, although orders have also been received lately for the less valuable grades of lumber. One of the best orders received recently was for 20 carloads of washboard lumber, that will be used by a manufacturing concern in one of the Great Lake states.

The local mills are all running to full capacity, with the exception of the Hume mill, which is turning out only about 125,000 feet of lumber daily. The capacity of this mill will shortly be increased. The Clatsop mill company is employing 175 men, the box factory now being operated day and night to fill orders, while the Hume mill is working between 125 and 150 men. The Astoria Box Company has a force of 100 or more men. Astoria is fast developing into a lunch-basket town and the effect of the increased payrolls is being felt in every line of trade.

COUNTY COURT PROCEEDINGS.

A yesterday's session of the county court several complaints from owners of timber lands who filed objections to their assessments were considered, and corrections were made in some instances. The alterations now being made by the court will not materially change the roll. Judge Trenchard was empowered by the court to engage the services of an engineer to inspect the Lewis and Clark bridge prior to its acceptance. The delayed iron for this bridge reached Astoria yesterday. The court decided that it would be impracticable to gravel the road over the hill at Kann's Olney farm and the highway will be plankled. Court will be in session again today.

DELEGATES ARE APPOINTED

Will Represent Clatsop at Good Roads Convention.

At yesterday's session of the county court, Judge Trenchard presented a letter which he received from J. E. Magura, secretary of the Oregon Good Roads Association. The letter contained the request that delegates be appointed to the convention, which meets in Portland October 23-24. The court named the following delegates: Howell Lewis, E. A. Gerding, and O. I. Peterson. The members of the county court, all road supervisors and road masters, city street commissioners and the county surveyor are delegates to the convention by virtue of the offices which they hold.

Among the men who will address the convention are the following: Governor Chamberlain, Hon. James MacDonaid, state highway commissioner of Connecticut; Hon. J. B. Killbrew, of Nashville, Tenn.; Hon. James W. Abbott, commissioner of public road inquiries of the Rocky mountain division, and Hon. M. O. Eldridge, assistant director of the office of public road inquiries, of Washington, D. C.

During the convention object lessons in road building will be given for the edification of the delegates from the several Oregon counties. The government officials who will attend are all familiar with road conditions in this state, and the convention promises to be the most successful ever held. It is probable the attendance from Clatsop county will be large.

REFUTES REPUTED WEALTH

Captain Flavel Says He's Not in $300,000 Class.

George C. Flavel declines the honor of being classed as 1 of Oregon's $1, and 1 of Astoria's 2 millionaires, as shown by the "Financial Red Book," that is now out.

In the list of persons worth $300,000 and over, the Red Book credits two to Astoria: one to Baker City; one to Salem, two to The Dalles; one to Drewsey and 74 to Portland--$1 in all. Mr. Flavel's refusal to travel with the $300,000 crowd leaves Oregon's number 80 and Astoria's one. The power of wealth as exhibited in the Red Book's rating, has no attractions for Mr. Flavel and the glory of being known in the Gould and Rockefeller circles he would forego.

"I'm not worth $300,000, nor one-sixth of it," he said in plain, unequivocal language yesterday, which strikes one from Astoria's list eligible to bear the cross alone for the city by the sea. This one is Samuel Elmore. It is to Mr. Elmore the hat must be tipped in deference to wealth, as shown by the Red Book. The figures given are minimum and there is no knowing how much more one may be worth.

LEAVE TODAY FOR EASTERN OREGON.

Fish Warden Van Dusen and Samuel Elmore will leave this morning for the Wallowa and Ontario hatcheries on a trip of inspection. Secretary of State Dunbar and Treasurer Moore, members of the board of fish commissioners, will also make the trip. Mr. Elmore goes at the invitation of the board to view the progress of the work. The trip will probably require a week's time and will be one of much interest.

PASTURAGE IS NEEDED

Eastern Oregon Cattle Men Trying to Secure Acreage Along Lower River.

WOULD WINTER STOCK HERE

General Agent Mayo Trying to Arrange for the Lease of Large Tracts in Vicinity of Astoria.

J. C. Mayo is in receipt of a letter from Colonel R. C. Judson relative to securing pasture land for eastern Oregon cattle.

Through Mr. Judson, an eastern Oregon cattle raiser is endeavoring to secure enough grazing land in this vicinity to winter 1000 head of cattle. Mr. Judson in his letter requests Mr. Mayo to see if he can secure a tract of 3000 to 5000 acres in one body that would be leased to the eastern Oregon party for cattle grazing purposes.

Mr. Mayo has written to a party at Clatskanie and will make further inquiries about such a tract. In the Clatskanie vicinity there is a considerable area of logged-off land that would support a good-sized herd. There is other hill and ravine land between Astoria and Clatskanie that would furnish grazing for cattle during the winter. Some of the tide-lands of the Columbia might also be brought into requisition.

An eastern Oregon man, speculating on the project of bringing cattle into the Coast range country, expressed fear that the animals would not stand the winter rains. Mr. Mayo thinks such fears groundless, as cattle run loose on the hills in this vicinity every winter and yet do well.

D. W. Ralston, who is in Portland this week with a shipment of stock from Grant county, says there is little or no hay in eastern Oregon this fall, and he goes on to say:

"Unless we get an open winter we are going to lose a great many sheep and cattle. The entire country is overstocked, more so than ever before, as there were no sheep shipped east last summer. We have, therefore, all last year's increase to take care of in excess of the usual number. This increase alone numbers several thousand head. Farmers working new ground are cutting down our stock range year after year as the land mostly belongs to the government and proves to be valuable for wheat raising. The bunchgrass is already eaten out to the roots, and unless the weather is mild and showery there will be no grass for winter range."

It consists of 162 type-written pages. Smith was involved in the bogus damage suit brought against the city by "John R. Bock." His attorneys are preparing an appeal to the supreme court and recently were given 60 days' additional time in which to prepare the necessary bill of exceptions.
