It is pretty generally conceded that the tremendous gale of early Thursday morning claimed two victims and that their names are Charles Erickson and Henry Sture, the two blind slough fishermen that have been missing since they departed from this city in an open fish-boat some time after midnight of Wednesday. No one is known to have actually seen them embark, but it is known that they started for the pier and that neither the men nor the boat have since been seen. The boat was an ordinary sized lead colored fishing craft and seaworthy, as all such boats are; but as the gale Thursday morning ing raged with unusual fury and the boat was heavily loaded with freight it is quite probable that the daring navigators were lost. Friends of the men have been searching diligently for them since Thursday, but have about given up hope of ever finding them alive. Henry Sture's parson's residence at Knappa and he was unmarried. Mr. Erickson leaves a wife and eight children.

HOME FROM HIS TOUR

H. S. Lyman Visits Eastern Counties in Interest of Proposed Exhibit.

SCHOOLS ARE IN ACCORD

Letter From Head of Department Expresses Approval of Allotment of the Space Granted.

Superintendent of Schools H. S. Lyman arrived home yesterday from a trip through the counties of the eastern part of the state. Prof. Lyman has been away from the city for some weeks in the interests of the proposed educational exhibit for Oregon at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition. Mr. Lyman has the matter of an exhibit in charge, and during the progress of the fair will personally superintend Oregon's educational department. During his recent trip Mr. Lyman toured Wasco, Umatilla, Union, Baker and Malheur counties. Previously he had inspected the schools of Linn, Lane, Douglas, Josephine, Jackson, Benton, Polk, Yamhill, Washington and Multnomah counties.

The superintendent's method is to round up the county and city superintendents and principals of schools and make known to them what is wanted in the nature of an exhibit, and so far the educators of the state have entered into hearty accord with his plans, so that the educational exhibit from Oregon promises to be well up to standard. A particular feature of the pupil's work that will be worked up is to be essays and descriptive write-ups of their different surroundings.

Superintendent Lyman states that the schools throughout the state are in a flourishing condition, many of the public institutions of the smaller communities introducing the ninth and tenth grades in their curriculums. Both at Baker and Pendleton there are high schools that do thorough work. On his return Mr. Lyman found waiting for him a letter from Howard J. Rogers, head of the educational department for the world's fair, expressing approval of the use proposed to be made of the space allotted for the Oregon exhibit. The space consists of about 500 square feet, is triangular in shape and is conspicuous to all being immediately at the main entrance of the educational building. The most economical use possible will be made of the space and the plans drawn up by Superintendent Lyman receive high commendation.

PILES

The Imperial oyster and chop house has been opened on Commercial street opposite Peterson & Brown's store by S. M. Gallagher, a well known caterer. Mr. Gallagher has a very neat place of business and will keep constantly on hand all the delicacies of the season, including the famous Toke Point oysters. The public is invited to give the Imperial a trial.

California dispatches state that lumbermen of San Pedro will put on a line of steamers from that point to Grays harbor so that better service than that now afforded by the railroads may be acquired. The great shortage of cars that has been proving such a serious hardship to shippers for so long a time is supposed to be the principal reason for prompting the venture.

Last night's train got in on time from Portland, after much annoying delay. The roadbed at Bugby was damaged by blasting operations there and traffic for a week was seriously inconvenienced. Superintendent McGuire has kept a large force of men at work, however, and there will be no more delay. The recent work of the construction gang has put the road in good shape and trouble during the winter season will be minimized.

Chester A. Whitmore, president of the Pacific Coast Baseball League, and head of the firm of Irwin, Hodson & Co., of Portland, was in the city for a few hours Friday. Mr. Whitmore is enthusiastic over the baseball outlook for next season. The season just coming to a close was not very successful from a financial standpoint, because of the effort necessary to force the Pacific National league out of the field. However, the outlook for next year is bright.

Notwithstanding the heavy blow yesterday, the bar was comparatively smooth, but there were few movements in or out of the harbor. The heavy wind made it impossible for any of the bar-bound fleet to get out, and the oil steamer Rosecrans was compelled to turn back, after making the start. The barkentine Addenda arrived in and proceeded to Knappa, to take on a cargo of lumber, and the lighthouse tender Heather returned to port during the day.

District Attorney Harrison Allen expressed surprise upon returning from Oregon City to learn of the pardon granted the Chinese Wong Louie by Governor Chamberlain. Mr. Allen was asked for his views regarding the pardon by an Astorian reporter and he replied that he had not heard of it until he arrived home. "I received no notice that the pardon would be granted and am certainly surprised that an attorney I was not consulted in the matter," said Mr. Allen. He had nothing to say as to the justice of the case, but did not appear altogether pleased concerning the methods employed by the chief executive of the state in releasing the convict.

SOME PERTINENT REMARKS

A Subscriber Thinks It Bad to Be Otherwise.

I have noticed that there are a large number of people in this neighborhood who can never say a good word for any thing that relates to Astoria. There seems to be a systematic effort on the part of these people to prevent the advance that the city is now making. To any one who has been observing the local conditions for the past year he can not fail to see that Astoria has progressed. Our stores are now more metropolitan looking than they have ever been and this is an indication that our city is making progress. Business conditions are such that they are warranted in making these investments. To me this is a great source of pleasure for I have watched the progress of the city for several years, and can not think of any time in the past within my recollection when things had such a prosperous look on as they have just now. There is one thing that has been an important factor in this advance and that is the loyalty of the citizens to this burg and to the merchants who have invested their money in buildings and stock in order to give this city an air of business respectability. There are yet a few of these people left and they will ever be loyal to their town. On the other hand there are quite a number of people in the town who are using every effort to prevent the growth of the city whether through spite or envy. They are here and they are in evidence. They have a peculiar important air about them that says, I have the honor of trading in a city that is a city, that has something more ahead of it than mere prospects. If you want something good go out of town for it. What can this moss grown town produce that amounts to anything? They are ready to deny when confronted with their doings, and assert that they are loyal.

Now, I ask, Mr. Editor, whether or not something can be done with these people so that they go on record. There is no question that if their doings are made public they will pull in their horns and take to tall timber. Now the damage that such people as these do can not be estimated, but they do damage there is no doubt of. I had an idea that this business had pretty well ceased but my attention has been again called to it. It is evident, if you will but consider. Think of the express company's business, of the mail order business for things bought out of Astoria when Astoria merchants and Astoria people have as good or better at just as low figures. Articles may be manufactured here and the quality might be even better than the out-of-town articles, and yet some will take the product of other places in preference.

Is not this a suicidal policy? SUBSCRIBER. Astoria, Or., November 13, 1903.

HIGH SCHOOL EASY GAME

Holmes Business College Outclashes and Outplays Local Team Yesterday.

ONE SPURT AND ONE ONLY

Astoria's Strongest Man Put Out at an Early Stage of Game Leaving His Friends Helpless.

The heavy team from the Holmes business college outclashed and outplayed the Astoria high school team yesterday afternoon, succeeding in scoring twice for a total of 19 points. The high school boys were unable to resist the attacks of the visitors backs but were forced back yard by yard contesting fiercely every inch of the way. The high school's defense crumbled and fell away, the linemen were shoved back and great holes opened at will. The offense fared no better, for the visitors streamed through the line, broke through interference, tackling the runner for a loss. Woods was a tower of strength for the locals, but when he went out of the game on account of an injured shoulder the team became demoralized and played ragged from then on.

GAME IN DETAIL.

Holmes kicked to the high school, the ball going over the goal line. The high school kicked from the 25-yard line, the ball going out of bounds. Holmes' ball on the 35-yard line. Short, steady backs by the backs and the goal line was crossed. Holmes failed to kick goal. Score—Holmes 5, high school 0. Holmes again kicked to Campbell, who advanced 10 yards. The high school started out valiantly and made steady gains, but a fumble cost them the ball. Holmes was unable to advance and thus the ball changed hands continuously with the high school getting a shade the worst of it. The call of time saved the local men from being scored on again.

The second half opened by Stockton kicking to Holmes. After two plays Holmes was forced to punt, Campbell fumbling and one of the visitors securing the ball. The high school was shoved steadily down the field to their goal lines where they held for two downs, but on the third attempt they went through Mathena for the second and last touchdown. Again goal was missed. Holmes kicked to Campbell who again fumbled and failed to regain the ball. Holmes failed to gain and the high school began to play for the first time during the game. Graham skirted the end for 20 yards, Hill went through center for five more and Campbell fumbled the ball going to Holmes. Holmes on plunges over right tackle Mathena carried the ball to with in one yard of Astoria's goal when the call of time saved them from another score.

Score—Holmes, 10; high school, 0. The weather was fierce as it could well be making the attendance smaller than it otherwise would have been. Early in the day it was suggested that the game be postponed on account of the storm, but as in the afternoon it showed signs of clearing up, the boys donned their togs and went at it and an interesting game was the result.
