Bridge Tender's Wife Drowned

Mrs. Nat Jones Loses Her Life by Falling From Bridge Into Lewis and Clark.

Mrs. Nat Jones, wife of the keeper of the Youngs bay bridge, was drowned at an early hour yesterday morning. A number of people living on the Lewis and Clark river yesterday dragged for the body, but all efforts to recover it failed. This morning the search will be continued, and dynamite will be employed, in the hope that the corpse may be raised to the surface of the water.

Mr. Jones had been keeper of the Youngs bay bridge for some time, but recently had been transferred by the county court to the Lewis and Clark bridge. He was to have returned upon his new duties yesterday. Monday afternoon considerable of the household effects were moved by boat from the Youngs bay bridge to the Lewis and Clark bridge, and Mrs. Jones and her son, Master Gadsby, were to spend the night at their new home, Mr. Jones remaining at the Youngs bay bridge. The household effects were temporarily placed on the trestle at the Lewis and Clark bridge.

Towards morning the weather became stormy, and at 4 o'clock, Mrs. Jones and her son, fearing that the wind would blow the goods into the river, got up and went to the trestle. The bridge was not then in use and the big draw was open. In the darkness Mrs. Jones walked off the end of the bridge into the open draw, the son, who was following her, observing the draw just in time to save himself. He heard the splash in the water and the cry of his mother, and then all was still. The lad called to her, but received no response, and was unable to employ any means that might have resulted in saving her life. When Mr. Jones came over from the Youngs bay bridge in the morning the lad told of the loss of his mother, and the unsuccessful search for the body was commenced.

Mrs. Jones, who was formerly Mrs. Gadsby, was married to Mr. Jones less than one year ago. At the time of her marriage she was a resident of the Lewis and Clark, but had lived at Warrenton. Four years ago her son, Ross Gadsby, was drowned in Skipanon creek under distressing circumstances. The young man was floating a raft of logs down the stream in the dead of winter. At a point nearly opposite Warrenton he lost his footing and fell into the icy water. The sudden chill brought on a hemorrhage that caused him to lose consciousness and he sank immediately.

A Frightened Horse.
Running like mad down the street, dumping the occupants, or a hundred other accidents, are every day occurrences. It behoves everybody to have a reliable salve handy and there's none as good as Bucklin's Arnica Salve. Burns, cuts, sores, eczema, and piles, disappear quickly under its soothing effect. 25c. at Chas. Rogers drug store

MINISTER TURNS POLICEMAN

Works Hand in Glove With Mayor to Enforce Law.

Chicago, Dec. 1.—A dispatch to the Tribune from Joliet, Ill., says the Rev. W. F. Walker, of Christ Episcopal church, has been a sort of assistant chief of police to Mayor Crofton to enable him to conduct his anti-saloon campaign here.

The mayor has sent a letter to Mr. Walker asking him to act as the personal representative of the mayor in investigating the violators of the law and offering to the pastor the use of the police department in arresting any saloon keepers who might be found keeping open after hours or on Sunday hereafter. Mr. Walker has accepted the proposition.

The saloon keepers have concluded to organize and secure a general agreement to close as long as the present hostile situation exists.

Ten Men Quit Dredge Chinook

Vacant Places May Be Supplied by Men From Astoria and Vicinity.

The dredge Chinook is short 10 men, that number leaving the vessel yesterday, their intention being to return to California, from whence they came. It is thought that the places of the men can be filled without difficulty by employing Astoria men. It is pointed out that the closing down of the logging camps in this vicinity and fishermen out of work, brings to the front men who are willing to enlist on the dredge if the opportunity is given them. The work is not hard and it is not clear why the present crew is quitting other than that the men pine for sunny California. The dredge has not been at work for the past few days, the layoff being occasioned by a rough bar. The ship has not been entirely idle, however as repairs are being made to the boilers.

Since October 1 the circulation department of The Astorian has been in the hands of this paper's management, and subscriptions due this month will be collected by a representative of the business department. Mr. Lennie, formerly manager of the circulation department, has resigned and is not connected with The Astorian at present. His successor has not yet been chosen.

Dear Sirs—After suffering for two years from chronic diarrhoea, and four different physicians having failed to give me relief, I was induced to leave my Nebraska farm and come to Medical Lake, remaining at this place for a couple of days and taking baths in the wonderful water. I started east to sell my farm and get my family. Before going, however, I bought a pound package of Medical Lake salts, and dissolving them in water, I drank freely of it. In two weeks' time I was restored from a nearly dead condition to perfect health and have so remained. I would not be without Medical Lake salts if they cost $10 a pound.
