Save Your Daughter

No. 185 West 86th Street,
 New York City, N. Y., April 8, 1903.

Wine of Cardui has been a blessing to my home. I have often found that it was a great relief when I was weary or in pain, but I am especially grateful for what it did for our daughter and only child. I noticed that her menses were early and she suffered with headaches and giddiness, heaviness in the abdomen and about the loins. This seriously interfered with her studies and she had to discontinue several of them.

A visitor calling on me and discussing the matter suggested that I give her a course of your Wine of Cardui as it had relieved her daughter of a similar trouble. After my daughter had used it for five weeks I found a great improvement in her looks, health and behavior, in fact she was a different girl. The flow became regular and we have not had any difficulty since.

WINE of CARDUI

Here the menstrual function had not been properly started and the unnatural condition was making the young girl an invalid. The headaches and giddiness, indicated something more than a mere temporary ailment. They were symptoms of a functional weakness which would become more and more aggravated as years went by. But Mrs. Thompson was ready to take advice for her daughter's welfare and she gave the little sufferer Wine of Cardui and now she is a well young woman.

If your daughter is sickly and frequently ailing the letter of this good mother contains the best advice you can follow.

Wine of Cardui is the menstrual regulator that cures nine cases out of every ten. Young girls, mothers and aged women find this tonic indispensable. All druggists sell $1.00 bottles Wine of Cardui.

Freshet Melts Snow Causing a Flood That Destroys Bridges and Stops Traffic.

RICH HOMES ARE ISOLATED

Lakes Formed on Plains and Country Places of Millionaires Are Cut Off From Outside World.

New York, Feb. 23.—A freshet caused by heavy rains suddenly melting quantities of snow has deluged Hempstead, L. I., the home of Secretary Cortelyou. The mansions of many New York millionaires are isolated through the destruction of roads and bridges, while the homes of many persons of smaller means were invaded by the rush of water and the residents were compelled to leave in row boats.

In two hours the water, rushing in from Hempstead plains, rose nearly three feet. Residents along Front, Lower Main and Little Main streets were compelled to move their household goods to upper stories and the foundations were badly damaged. Water filled the basement of the town hall and covered the trolley line tracks, stopping all traffic.

Lakes several acres in extent have been formed in many places on the Hempstead plains. The largest of them is near the former site of Camp Flarek. Lakes also surround the Meadowbrook hunt and the other country places on the plains, but no damage has been done those buildings. The lawns surrounding the country places of August Belmont and several other millionaires were submerged and roads leading to the houses were destroyed, practically menacing the households until the water subsided.

WILL ABIDE BY DECISION.

San Francisco, Feb. 23.—Lorin J. Andrews, attorney general of Hawaii, has arrived here on his way to Washington to argue the fisheries case before the United States supreme court, which is expected to come up for hearing early in March. This case, involving rights valued at $1,000,000 or more, arose from a provision of the act creating the territory, that all claims to private rights to fish in the ocean adjacent to the islands must be established by suit brought in circuit court. Several hundred suits were brought under the act, but by stipulation all of the plaintiffs will abide by the decision of the supreme court of the United States in the present case now on appeal.

SHERIFF LINVILLE NOTES THE PRISONERS AT DINNER

During Sheriff Linville's last trip to Salem he witnessed for the first time the new manner in which the convicts at the state penitentiary are given their meals. Formerly all the prisoners were fed in their cells, with the result that there was much loss of food. Then, too, the cells were uncleanly in consequence of the method of feeding the prisoners, and generally the plan was regarded as a poor one.

Now, however, the new dining room has been opened, and 300 men eat there. The room is large and well arranged and everything is as clean as a new pin. The sheriff speaks highly of the excellent manner in which the prisoners are handled, and says the food is first class in every particular. The sheriff, with Major Smith and E. A. Taylor, were shown through the dining room by the superintendent on Sunday.

"There is but one guard in the dining room," said the sheriff yesterday. "This man occupies a cage placed at an elevation of 12 feet. The cage is of iron lattice work and from it the guard commands a view of every part of the big dining room. Before the prisoners are permitted to enter the dining hall the guard is taken to the cage and locked there, with an unloaded gun. Afterwards a supply of ammunition is brought to him and he loads the weapon. This precaution is observed to preclude the possibility of any mistake. Were the guard to enter the cage with a loaded gun, some accident might happen at a critical time, and it might be said the gun was not loaded; but under the arrangement now in effect there can be no possible error.

"At a signal the guards turn all the prisoners out of their cells and the men march into the dining room, where they stand at the tables. At the clang of a gong all take their seats. They are provided with excellent food and the men are allowed to eat just as much as they desire. If they want two bowls of soup, for instance, they hand back their bowls to the waiters. Their dinner on Sunday looked so good it actually made me hungry. The men are not given knives and forks, but use spoons. In some of the prisons throughout the country knives and forks are furnished, and after the meal the prisoners must deposit them in a box, near which stands a guard. The convict who fails to produce a knife and fork is taken from the line and an examination is made. I have an idea knives and forks will some day be provided at Salem.

"I have been in position to learn considerable of prisons throughout the country, and I know that the Salem penitentiary is one of the best conducted of any in the United States. The men are treated decently and the whole institution is a model of neatness, especially so far as the dining facilities are concerned. The superintendent told me the new system had effected a material saving in food over the old method."

The sheriff saw many prisoners whom he took to Salem. Paddy Lynch has grown fat since his incarceration, and the prediction that prison life would soon end his existence has proved a poor one. "John L. Bock," whose damage suit against the city brought him to grief, is also flesher. He recognized Sheriff Linville, and upon doing so commenced to limp, although there was no imperfection in his gait before he saw the sheriff. "Bunko" Kelly was also in the line which filed into the dining room. As he passed the sheriff he winked at him, doubtless in remembrance of the days when "Bunko" was a resident of Astoria.

The prisoners, the sheriff concluded, are not permitted to converse in the dining room, and the very best of order is maintained. The place is locked during meals, and an outbreak in the dining room would mean only certain death for the prisoners, who would fall beneath the fire from the guard, who could not possibly be reached in his iron cage.

HOLDUP MAN HANGED FOR KILLING INNOCENT VICTIM

Caught After Sensational Jail Escape-- No Trace Ever Found of Companion Implicated in Crime.

Butte, Mont., Feb. 23.—James Martin was hanged this morning for the murder of J. R. Williams at Silver Bow Junction in May, 1902. The trap was sprung at 4:42 a. m. The hanging took place in utter darkness and the only indication that the trap was sprung was the thud. His neck was broken by the fall. Martin's only words on the scaffold were: "Good bye, God bless you all."

The crime for which James Martin, as he was known as hanged, was the killing of John R. Williams, a railroad fireman, in an attempted hold-up. On May 19, 1902, Martin and Charles Lennox met Williams at Silver Bow Junction. Williams showed some money while in a saloon and Martin and Lennox followed him to the depot, where Williams intended to take a train for Anaconda. Williams resisted their attempt to rob him and was knocked down. One of the would-be robbers, it never has been settled, definitely which, shot Williams. Then the two men ran off without securing any money. Williams died the next day. Martin and Lennox were soon captured, tried and convicted and sentenced to be hanged. The executions were stayed by appeals to the supreme court. Before the appeals were decided there was a jail break, in which six prisoners got away, among them Martin and Lennox. Martin was recaptured, but no trace has ever been found of Lennox.

The true name of the man was not Martin. He has admitted that much, but refused to tell what his name was. He said he had a father and a sister and did not want them to suffer for his disgraceful end.

ONCE WORLD NOTED SINGER DEAD IN OBSCURE HOTEL

Mme. Eleanor Petrelli Who at One Time Thrilled the World With Song, Dies in Poverty in Chicago.

Chicago, Feb. 23.—The Inter-Ocean today says:

Mme. Eleanor Petrelli, once a world renowned opera singer, and widow of Prince Von Petroff, of Russia, has died in an obscure hotel in Chicago, alone and in want, save for the charity of strangers.

Daughter and heiress of one of the wealthiest counts of Scandinavia, this wonderful woman lived to see two great fortunes melt away and to have her title of royalty taken from her. Driven by necessity to sing for a living in the royal opera companies of the continent, the singer won her way upward in the profession until at the Russian court in St. Petersburg she became the wife of Prince Von Petroff.

a Boyar nobleman. Then began the series of misfortunes which eventually left her adrift as a poor teacher of music in Chicago at the age of 37 years. The singer had won fame under the name of Mme. Petrelli in three royal opera companies. The name was assumed for stage purposes and is Italian for Petroff, the name of her royal husband.

Her father was Count Weigant of Sweden. Her mother was Countess Von Schwerin. Mme. Petrelli's name was bald if he will use Newbro's Herpicide, the new scalp antiseptic. Herpicide destroys the germ that cuts the hair off at the root; and cleans the scalp of dandruff and leaves it in a perfectly healthy condition. Mr. Mannett, in the Maryland Block, Butte, Mont., was entirely bald. In less than a month Herpicide had removed the enemies of hair growth, and nature did its work by covering his head with thick hair an inch long, and in six weeks he had a normal cut of hair. Sold by leading druggists. Send 5c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

Dedication of Palmer Hall.

Colorado Springs, Colo., Feb. 23.—The crowning social feature of the dedication of the Palmer hall, the new science building of Colorado college, was the university banquet at the Antlers hotel. There were 350 guests, including alumni of nearly all the leading colleges of this country and England. General William Palmer, who contributed so generously to the erection of the science building, was among the guests. Judge K. R. Babbitt presided and other speakers included President David Starr Jordan, of Leland Stanford university, and Professor E. C. Moore, of Harvard. Palmer hall will be formally dedicated today.

It is the rarest thing in the world for a man to be necessarily bald. No man whose hair is not dead at the roots, need be bald if he will use Newbro's Herpicide, the new scalp antiseptic.
