The Effective Remedy

I was troubled for over a year with so scanty a flow that it was virtually suppression. A heavy cold superinduced this condition and nothing I could do seemed to help me.

The only effective remedy I ever found was Wine of Cardui. Within two weeks I felt the good effects of the medicine and after I had used it bottles in all I was as healthy and regular as any woman could wish to be.

My sister used it while expecting to become a mother and found that it made childbirth comparatively easy and after the child was born she found that it helped her to regain her strength.

Secretary Taft Speaks from Experience of Life in the Philippines.

RELIGIOUS TEACHING FOLLOW

At Present Attention Should Be Given to the Hospitals and Hygiene In Which the Natives Lack Knowledge.

Philadelphia, March 1.—Secretary of War Taft was the principal speaker last night at the fifteenth annual dinner of the Presbyterian Social Union of Philadelphia. He spoke on the "good which Protestant missions can do and are doing in the Philippines."

He said he had been agreeably surprised to find how liberal the country had been in accepting the religious questions in these islands. "Justice demands," he said, "that we acknowledge indebtedness to friars and other priests of the Roman Catholic church who have given to the United States Christian material from which we can make a self-governing people."

The secretary briefly reviewed the religious history of the islands and said that he did not think the time was ripe for proselyting. He believed that more can be done for the Philippines by sending money for hospitals, schools and churches, and above all high class clergymen who could set a standard for the people. Ninety per cent of the population, he said, lives in dense ignorance and until this great percentage of the people has been educased, he added, self-government in the islands must be postponed.

The hygiene of the Philippines, he said, is dreadful. He told of how infants died because of the lack of knowledge on the part of the parents to properly care for them.

TEACHERS CAN MARRY.

Husband No Bar to a Lady Teaching in Public School.

New York, Murch 1-The court of appeals has decided a case of the greatest importance to the teachers of this a tremendous stir in educational circles. The case is that of Mrs. Kate M. Murphy against William H. Maxwell as city superintendent of schools. Mrs. Murphy, prior to her marriage, was a teacher in public school 30 in Brooklyn, her malden name being Kate M. Hickey. After she had auccessfully taught for a period of ten years she was wooed and won by Nicholas S. Murphy, a young and well-to-do commercial traveler.

No sooner had she contracted this matrimonial alliance than the board of education declared that her position as school teacher vacant and thereupon appointed another teacher in her place. This was done in pursuance of a bylaw of the board which provides that the marriage of a teacher forfeits her position. In addition to that there is another by-law which reads: "No married woman shall be appointed to any teaching or supervising position in the day public schools."

Mrs. Murphy declined to accept the decision of the board of education as final and consulted Swanstrom & Keyes, of which firm ex-Borough Pres-

A writ of mandamus was applied for and granted, requiring the board of education to reinstate the relator, Mrs. Murphy, to her former position. The appellate division, Justice Hooker, writing the opinion, decided that the by-laws was reasonable and that the board of education had a right to remove any teacher who was so forgetful of her position in the teaching force as to enter the state of matrimony. Mrs. Murphy's lawyers at once appealed to the court of last resort, which has just handed down a decision reversing the decision of the appellate division and holding that it is no crime for a teacher to get married. There are a number of similar cases in Mr. Swanstrom's office which have been held in abeyance pending this decision.

The result of the decision will be to restore a number of teachers who have been removed for no other reason than their marriage.

Now she has had ten months of enlightened instruction, has listened, with a pleasure that is given to few mortals, to music as interpreted by artists, and has applied herself so diligently to the work she has chosen for herself that she is able to rouse a remarkable enthusiasm whenever she plays for anyone. Her playing is called "original," her expression is beautiful and delicate. Her technic is chiefly noticable for the finger-work, which is marvelously dainty, delicate and perfect.
