Allen Airth was badly hurt while at work on the new Warrenton mill yesterday morning. He fell from a scaffold to the ground floor, the skull being crushed and one of the arms broken. Invitations have been issued to members of Astor lodge, No. 6, Knights of Pythias, the 40th anniversary of the founding of which will be celebrated on Wednesday night, March 30. The celebration will be in the nature of a social gathering of members and the committee in charge expects to provide for an evening of rare amuse-

County Judge Trenchard stated yesterday that an expert would arrive in the city from Portland today for the purpose of testing the ground of the court house block preparatory to the laying of the foundation. The test will be made for the purpose of determining the nature of the ground and the work necessary to prepare it for the structure which is to be erected. As soon as this test is made the work of placing the foundation can be commenced, and, if all goes well, the undertaking will be well under way by May 1.

Unwithout trouble.

Miss M. E. Cole, who is at present in charge of the Astoria directory compilation, states that this year's issue will show wonderful gain in the population of the city over 1902. Miss Cole was here two years ago to superintend the work, and she says that a very large number of new names will appear in this year's directory. As yet the preface of the directory has not been prepared, and exact figures are therefore lacking. The directory is now in The Astorian job printing department and will be issued just as rapidly as modern mechanical devices can turn it out. This year's directory will be very complete in every sense of the word.

"The White Angel of the World" was the title of the brilliant address delivered by R. Foster Stone at the A. O. U. W. hall last evening. There was a noticeable increase in the attendance over that of the lecturer's first appearance. In fact, the auditorium of the old church building was comfortably filled with interested people. Mr. Stone's convincing oratory was punctuated with funny stories, which kept everybody in good humor. During the evening George Watkins sang a baritone solo that scored a strong encore. A stringed trio, led by Miss the "Venetian Night Serenade," which to nominate a straight ticket, the citispeaker will have for his theme ize; if, on the other hand, it is de-"Wonderland." The revolution on the isthmus of new republic rulned a sure fortune for William J. Cook, of this city, who is just back from Central America. Mr. Cook is a warm personal friend of President Zalaya and was appointed by the president to represent the Nicaraguan government in its negotiations with the Washington government for the canal concessions. Nicaragua demanded a cash payment of $6,000,000 and $250,000 yearly thereafter. Mr. Cook was to receive a commission of $300,000 on the first payment and $25,-000 yearly thereafter so long as the United States made its annual payments. But the Panama revolution spoiled it all. Mr. Cook has very large interests in Nicaragua and expects to leave shortly for the east, where his interests are being handled at Chlcago and New York. He is at the head of company which controls 800,000 acres of fine cattle land and negotiations are now under way to stock this vast tract. Some of the leading men of the United States are interested in the deal. Mr. Cook's biggest scheme is to re-establish the currency system of the Nicaraguan government. The country at present does business with a flat currency, and, while President Zalaya is anxious to introduce and maintain a stable monetary system, he finds it impossible, for the reason that the present monetary system has ruined the republic's credit. Mr. Cook has threshed out the currency matter with the president and has agreed with him upon a new scheme, which involves the formation of a national bank. In all there is about $14,000,000 to be replaced with round money, and Mr. Cook and his associates have been assured by the president they will receive all the assistance possible in their plan. Under the contemplated scheme,

the bank will enjoy concessions which insure fortunes to the men interested.

Because of the long period during which the republic has labored under a flat currency the stable monetary system promoters will have to make the change a gradual one. Mr. Cook

Another meeting of the citizen county central committee will be held Sunday afternoon, at which time officers will be elected and the sub-committee appointed to confer with the der the arrangement Astorians at St. republican committee relative to the Louis may secure their daily paper legislative ticket. There is a very pronounced sentiment in the city for the nomination of a straight ticket this year; indeed, leading democrats realize that this is essential, as adoption by the people of the direct primary law would leave the democrats without a party if they clung to the name "citizen." Section 14 of the law provides that the vote for representative in congress shall be the basis on which the percentage for petitions shall be counted, and a party must cast 25 per cent of the votes for representative in order to gain recognition according to this new method of making nominations. The law further specifies that, in nominating for city or county offices, candidates may get places on the tickets by petition, but such petitions must be signed by electors residing in at least one-fifth of the number of precincts in such city or county. This feature of the law is construed to be a thrust at "citizen" movements by some of the committeemen who have given it their consideration, and they are anxious that the true colors of the party should be flown this year. The whole proposition is up to the democratic convention, which meets at 1 o'clock on the afternoon of April 9. The convention must elect delegates to the state and congressional conventions, and then may wrestle to its heart's content with the straight-Elsie Larson with her violin, played out question. If the delegates decide was cordially received. Tonight the zens' convention will never materialcided to continue to use the name so long employed, the democrats will adjourn after the election of state and congressional delegates and meet again as citizens. Members of the committee say they do not desire to make any recommendations to the convention. but prefer to let the delegates arrive at their own conclusion. However, it is not to be denied that the sentiment for a straight ticket is pronounced, and that another effort in this direction will be made again this year is
