"WHAT'S BRED IN THE BONE WILL OUT IN THE FLESH"

Is true of mankind as well as lower animals. We do not expect blooded stock from common sires, physical giants from dwarfs and midgets, nor well-developed, robust children from tainted ancestors and sickly parents. It is contrary to the laws of nature and heredity, which are inviolable, unchangeable and fixed.

Children not only inherit the features, form and disposition of their parents, but the mental and physical qualities, infirmities and diseases as well. That certain diseases are transmitted from parents to children, are bred in the bone and handed down from one generation to another, can not be denied, for we see evidences of it every where and every day.

SCROFULA, a disease almost as fatal as Consumption, is a disease of the blood, is bred in the bone and will out in the flesh in the form of glandular swellings, deep abscesses and sores, boils and eruptions. It affects the eyes and ears, weakens the digestion and destroys the red corpuscles and solids of the blood, resulting in emaciation, stunted growth and poorly nourished bodies.

RHEUMATISM is handed down from gouty ancestors and rheumatic parents. The acid poisons in the blood that cause the sharp, shooting pains in muscles and joints have been there may be from birth, and exposure to bad weather, night air, or cold, easterly winds only hastens the attack by exciting the acid blood. The blood must be purified and the poisons filtered out of the system in order to get relief from this painful disease.

CATARRH is something more than a cold in the head; the poison extends into the Throat and Lungs, attacks the Stomach, Kidneys and Bladder, and every part of the system. We inherit a predisposition or tendency to Catarrh, just like other blood diseases; it is bred in the bone and can not be reached with sprays and salves, but requires constitutional treatment and a thorough cleansing of the disease-tainted blood.

CONTAGIOUS BLOOD POISON is responsible for more suffering than all other diseases combined, and none is so surely transmitted from parent to child. Fearful ulcers and sores and disgusting skin eruptions often break out in infancy, and those whose blood is tainted with this awful poison are handicapped from birth, and unless the poison is eradicated carry the taint through life.

CANCEROUS ULCERS and old sores seem to pursue some families through generations, and in spite of washes, salves and ointments, continue to spread and grow because the taint is in the blood; is bred in the bone and grounded in the flesh.

Nothing but a real blood remedy like S. S. S. can reach these deeply rooted, inborn diseases. It goes to the fountain source of the trouble, uproots the old taint, drives out the poisons that have been lurking in the blood for years, and tones up the weakly constitution.

S. S. S. reaches diseases of this character that no other medicine does or can. It has been tested in thousands of cases during the nearly fifty years of its existence, and its reputation as a cure for chronic blood troubles is firmly established.

S. S. S. is guaranteed purely vegetable and suited to old and young and persons of delicate constitution. If you have inherited a predisposition or tendency to some family taint, the sooner you begin a course of S. S. S. the quicker and more certain the cure. The disease may develop in childhood or later on in life, but is sure to make its appearance sometime, "for what is bred in the bone will out in the flesh," as sure as you live.

Our physicians make diseases of the blood and skin a special study. Write us all about your case, and medical advice or any special information desired will cost you nothing.

SMITH WILL BE ON HAND

Missing Witness in Nan Anderson Case Will Be Present When He Is Needed.

IS OUT OF THE STATE

Cannot Be Found and No One But Counsel Knows Where the Much-Wanted Man Holds Out.

New York, June 11.—Counsel for Nan Patterson has informed a representative of the district attorney and also the detectives who have been searching for him, that J. Morgan Smith, brother-in-law of the woman who is held pending investigation in the death of Bookmaker Frank T. Young last Saturday, will be surrendered next Monday at the same time assurance was given that Smith will then appear before the grand jury to purge himself of the contempt of court which he committed when he failed to answer when subpoenaed.

Smith is now outside the state and is safe from arrest on the warrant of attachment issued last Thursday by Judge Newberger, but it had been the intention of the district attorney to have him arrested on another charge and brought back to this city. The promise to surrender him probably will cause him to abandon the idea of leaving the state, though the police will continue to search for the missing witness. Sweeney, in whose district the shooting occurred, believes Smith's guilt will be experienced. Smith is known to the district attorney and the cause leading up to it. There are reports, which as yet are unconfirmed, that the attitude of the defense will change next week and that an explanation of the tragedy of the case will be offered by the woman who was Young's companion when he was shot.

Not an Empty Echo.

It was two years ago when I first set foot in Echo, Umatilla County, Ore. A couple of stores, a blacksmith shop, a saloon, a poorly-kept hotel, a post-office, a score or less of dingy houses, acres on acres of sage brush in all directions, dust flying. Certainly the most deadening and discouraging site for a town, and a town in keeping with its appearance. But tributary to Echo is the Meadows and Butter creek and a new spirit was abroad in the land. A few of the old settlers who owned considerable property resented the new stir.

"These restless ones were new comers; why did they come to disturb the calm sleep of those who had been there for years content with the existing conditions," they grumbled. But a few progressive spirit—Willis and Robinson and Rogers and a few others—conceived the idea of infusing a little energy into the sluggish current of the town's life. After months of toil Willis organized the American Hare & Cold Storage Company. From a joke it became an accomplished fact. Rabbit drives were organized, the factory whistle tooted shrilly, the eyes of eastern Oregon were turned toward Echo. "Has Echo really awakened or is she but stirring restlessly in her sleep?" they asked.

"We must have a paper," said Willis; and the paper was an accomplished fact.

"Let's incorporate," he suggested; and after strenuous opposition from the conservatives this was accomplished.

"Now," said the progressive element, "let us vote bonds for a new schoolhouse. Let's put up new houses; let's paint our old ones; let's show them this is no idle dream and that we are really awake." And so the Willis idea became the Echo idea. Pledges were given; farmers' institutes were held; new ditch companies were formed, surveying parties began to be seen in Echo. Where before a stranger was a rare sight now the hotel was frequently crowded. The strangers look it over and they said: "This soil is wonderfully rich; all it needs is water."

Bramwell came. He said: "Why, this is a splendid soil for sugar beets." So sugar beets were planted and are thriving splendidly. Now a beet sugar factory may be erected there.

The Hazelwood people say: "This is a good point for a creamery. With these hundreds and hundreds of acres of alfalfa land it will be better to ship out your alfalfa as butter than as beef. Better for your pocketbooks; better for your lands." And so by the relentless energy of one man—a dreamer, an idealist—this little town has become not an empty Echo. May every town in Oregon have a Willis to stir it into life and against criticism and objections keep stirring away till, like Aetna, the crust of old fogyism is blown sky high. All hail to the Willis whether they are H. C. Willis or whatever their names may be. Get in. Boost for your town. Be a Willis. Talk new side-walks. Talk civic improvement. Talk new industries and they will come.—Pacific Homestead.

THE PLOT THAT WORKED.

He was astonished when his 16-year-old sister-in-law walked into his office in the Townsend building.

"What is it?" he inquired.
"Margery," was her brief response.
"Good heavens! Has anything happened?" he exclaimed, jumping from his chair and closing the door. "She was all right when I left Montclair this morning."

"Yes," with a sorrowful shake of the head; "but she's up at ma's now crying to break her heart."

"What the deuce—?"

Worst of All Experiences.

Can anything be worse than to feel that every minute will be your last? Such was the experience of Mrs. S. H. Newson, Decatur, Ala. "For three years," she writes, "I endured insufferable pain from indigestion, stomach and bowel trouble. Death seemed inevitable when doctors and all remedies failed. At length I was induced to try Electric Bitters, and the result was miraculous. I improved at once, and now I'm completely recovered." For Liver, Kidney, Stomach and Bowel troubles Electric Bitters is the only medicine. Only 50c. It's guaranteed by Chas. Rogers, Druggist.

Driven to Desperation.

Living at an out-of-the-way place, remote from civilization, a family is often driven to desperation in case of accident, resulting in Burns, Cuts, Wounds, Ulcers, etc. Lay in a supply of Bucklen's Arnica Salve. It's the best on earth; 25c. At Chas. Rogers' Drug Store.

"It's the first anniversary of your wedding day. You did not mention it. You even forgot to kiss her."

"So I did, so I did," he remarked sorrowfully. "But what is to be done? Here! I can take the day off. You run home and tell her you and I had been planning a little surprise; that it was all arranged yesterday. Tell her," he continued almost deliriously, "that you commanded me to keep quiet for fear of spoiling it. Get me out of this scrape, Bertha, and that ring we talked about is—"

"Why tell her that?" asked the demure sister-in-law.

"Don't you see?" he continued excitedly. "While you are going up home—and you needn't hurry—I will buy a little present on the way to the ferry. There's a man in the ferry house who sells flowers. By the time you get home—"

"No use," she interrupted. "She has closed the house and sent the servant away for the day."

"Great Jehoshaphat!" he shouted.

"Poor little Margery. I am a brute."

"I have a plan," said sweet 16, tentatively.

"What is it?"

"I did tell her you and I had planned a surprise."

"You angel! What's your plan?"

"I told her I had intended going to your house this morning, and bring her over for a quiet anniversary little dinner at ma's. But that you would happen along about noon with a coach, and that you and she and ma and I would go to the races."

"Great Scott!"

"And I told her that instead of the dinner at ma's we would dine at some nice place you knew, and go to the theater afterward."

"Anything else?"

"No," said sweet 16, "except that I think I ought to get that ring."

"I'll bring it with me when I come with the coach. Bertha, you're a darling."

"Margery, dear," he said that night, "you have forgiven me, haven't you?"

"I suppose I must," she replied, "we have had such a delightful time."

"And Bertha is a little brick, Margery!" Then he confessed.

"I know it, dear," said Margery, sweetly. "I sent her to your office. She showed me the ring."

CHEMICAL DISCOVERY.

Chicago, June 11.—A dispatch to the Tribune from Peoria, Ill., says:

Miss Adelaide Mickel, a teacher in the art department of the Bradley Polytechnic Institute, in an attempt to rediscover madder printing has discovered a chemical resistant that, when used on white duck with a stenciled design, makes possible dyeing in blue and white.

The resistant is applied with a brush through the stencil and the material thus designed with the resistant is thrown in a blue vat when removed.

The design is clear, there being no evidence of running colors. The process is similar to zinc etching work.
