

OLD ACTOR IS DEAD

John T. Sullivan Dies in New York of Rheumatism of the Heart--Was Popular.

WAS GREAT CHARACTER ACTOR

Once Studied Law But Left the Bar to Become Successful on the American Stage.

New York, June 20.—John T. Sullivan, for 15 years one of the most popular American actors, is dead at his hotel in this city from rheumatism of the heart.

Mr. Sullivan became ill two weeks ago. He had never before suffered from the disease which ultimately caused his death. He sank rapidly Saturday evening and for several hours preceding the end was unconscious. As a character actor Mr. Sullivan had few equals in America and had been leading man to most of the pro with his former wife, Rose Cogan and with great success a few years ago. Recently he had been an invalid. He was born 42 years ago in Detroit, Mich. He studied law but took to stage work after having been admitted to the bar. His mother still lives in Michigan, but efforts to locate her have not yet proved successful.

first on Morton's wild throw. Johnson sent a hummer into the diamond, Thomason scoring. Sellinger then hit a long fly into Tommy Ross' territory, scoring Hulse and Johnson, and went down to third when Stockton dropped McDermott's fly. Miller's sacrifice brought in Sellinger and Miller reached first because of the failure of the Commercial infielders to make connections. Chilton fanned, McDermott was caught at third and Miller met a like fate while Moore was at bat.

Flannigan hit out in the second and Halderman fanned. Trullinger batted out a pretty single and Chilton dropped Bert Ross' fly. Tommy Ross went to first on a passed ball, Trullinger scoring, and the side was retired when Stockton hit a short one to Pfeiffer. Moore and Pfeiffer fanned. Thomason hit one to Brother Harry, whose bad throw to Flannigan allowed him to make the entire circuit. Hulse fanned, retiring the side.

In the third Morton fanned, Harry Graham flew out to Thomason and O'Toole's long fly to Miller ended the Commercial's effort. Johnson fanned and Sellinger hit one to Halderman that was not handled in time to head him off. McDermott's grounder to Graham put him on the list of those who tried and failed, and Sellinger was caught trying to plifer third.

In the fourth Flannigan batted a fly to Sellinger that was caught; Halderman was thrown out by Thomason, who handled his grounder, and Trullinger fanned. When the soldiers came to bat Halderman fanned Miller, Chilton and Moore in one-two-three order.

In the fifth Bert Ross fanned, Tommy Ross batted an easy one to McDermott and Stockton flew out to Johnson. Tommy Ross dropped Pfeiffer's fly. Thomason then swatted out a clean two-bagger. Hulse hit out to O'Toole and Pfeiffer scored while Hulse was being thrown out at first. Johnson and Sellinger fanned.

At this stage of the proceedings the score was 6 to 2 against the clubmen. It looked like sure defeat, but the men took a brace and in their half of the sixth piled up four scores. Morton walked, but Graham flew out to Chilton. O'Toole singled, Morton scoring. Flannigan walked and O'Toole scored on Halderman's bingle. Trullinger, who was batting in excellent form, singled, Halderman scoring. Bert Ross touched up Pfeiffer for a single and Trullinger scored. Bert was thrown out while trying to steal third. McDermott's long fly to Bert Ross was handled, and Miller, after getting to first through a stroke of good fortune, was caught between bases and tagged out. Chilton fanned.

In the seventh Tommy Ross hit one to Pfeiffer that headed him off. Stockton singled, but Morton fanned. Then Harry Graham batted one far out into left field for two bags, scoring Stockton. O'Toole walked, but Flannigan fanned, Graham and O'Toole dying on bases. Moore flew out to O'Toole, Pfeiffer flew out to Bert Ross and Thomason was hit by a pitched ball. Hulse singled, but Stockton threw out Johnson and retired the side.

In the eighth Johnson handled Halderman's short hit and Trullinger was permitted to walk. Bert Ross fanned. Tommy Ross singled, scoring Trullinger, but Stockton was out on a short drive to McDermott. The score was now 8-6 in the Commercial's favor, but the soldiers regained the lead in their half of the eighth. Sellinger was called out on a close play, having batted a hot grounder to O'Toole that was thrown to first just in time to head off the batter. McDermott singled and Miller reached first on Stockton's error. Then Chilton batted a long fly over Trullinger's head, and some wild throwing allowed three runs to come in. Moore flew out to Halderman, but Pfeiffer reached first on Graham's wild throw to Flannigan. Thomason flew out to Graham, retiring the side. Score, 9-8 in Fort Stevens' favor.

In the ninth Morton, who had been knocking fouts, hit out to third. Graham singled, but was called out at the home plate. O'Toole reached first on an error, and Flannigan sent a fly to Miller, who dropped it, letting O'Toole in. This tied the score. Halderman died on a short hit to Thomason. Hulse was thrown out by Graham, and Johnson and Sellinger fanned.

In the tenth Trullinger fanned. Bert Ross hit one to Chilton, who failed to handle it. Tommy Ross flew out to Pfeiffer, and Stockton singled. Morton had been having bad luck at the bat, but at this stage redeemed himself by smashing out a clean two-bagger, which brought in Bert Ross. Graham hit one through third and scored Stockton, and O'Toole repeated the feat, scoring Morton. Flannigan batted one out to Thomason, with whom O'Toole collided while going down to second. O'Toole was called out for interfering with the fielder. With the score 12 to 9 against them, the soldiers tried hard to pull out in their half of the tenth, but failed. Stockton dropped McDermott's fly, and Miller sacrificed McDermott to third. Chilton hit to Halderman and was thrown out. McDermott scoring on the play. Moore hit through Graham, but Chilton died trying to steal second, and the game was over.

Lieutenant Cooper, one of the umpires (a very pleasant gentleman who is quite popular here), has much to learn of baseball. He seemed unable to recognize "balls" when Morton was at the bat and his decisions throughout were not at all satisfactory to either side. Macomber called Graham out at home when Hulse himself acknowledged later that the runner was safe. The game was characterized by much rag-chewing, and at one stage it was stated that the soldiers would quit unless they were given the benefit of a close play that was decided in favor of the clubmen. The score shows the following dreadful state of affairs to have endured:
