

A MAN SHOT AT SEASIDE YESTERDAY

Lawrence Sullivan of Portland Had a Close Call for Final Reckoning When a Bullet Cut His Breast.

The Men Had Had Some Trouble Over a $500 Deal About Two Weeks Ago.

FRANK MOODY GOT THE DROP

Sullivan Went Down From Astoria With the Remark That Moody Should Suffer for It.

Seaside, Aug. 26.—(Special.)—Lawrence Sullivan, erstwhile sailor boarding house man and part owner of the Portland Club, but now a mining promoter, was shot and slightly wounded this afternoon by Frank Moody, a gambler. The trouble arose over a losing that Sullivan booked a short time ago while backing the tiger at the Bridge Exchange. Moody was very deliberate about it, and fired two shots. The first struck Sullivan in the side and the second narrowly escaped killing two little girls, who were passing the saloon.

About two weeks ago Sullivan dropped in at the Bridge Exchange and started to play the game dealt by Moody. He lost $500. Sullivan gave Moody a check for the amount, but afterwards telegraphed to the Portland bank, Ladd & Tilton's, to stop payment. Anticipating this move on Sullivan's part, Moody hastened to Portland and cashed the check before the telegram was delivered at the bank. Yesterday Sullivan and "Mysterious Billy" Smith came over from Astoria. Sullivan was said to have made the remark that Moody would suffer for the money he had won, and the statement was repeated to Moody. He closed his game last night, saying that he was anxious to avoid trouble, but that he would not take the worst of it from Sullivan.

This afternoon about 3:30 the men met at Frank Scott's saloon. Angry words passed between them, but just what was said could not be learned. Sullivan pulled a gun and started for the front door, while Moody also drew his revolver and started for the side door. As Sullivan walked out of the front door Moody, who had reached the sidewalk, fired twice at him. The first bullet struck Sullivan in the side, inflicting a flesh wound along the breast. J. Brallier, who had walked out of the front door, reached the walk just in time to push aside two little girls and prevent them from being shot when Moody fired the second time. But for Brallier's action one of the girls would certainly have been killed.

Dr. Sellwood was called and dressed the wound. As he unbuttoned Sullivan's shirt the bullet fell to the floor. He says the wound is not serious, except in the event of unforeseen complications setting in. Sullivan was taken to his cottage. Mrs. Sullivan was with him when the wound was dressed. No arrests have been made and it is probable none will be.

A SPLENDID PRESENT.

Emperor of Germany Sends the U. S. Fine Statue of Frederick the Great.

Berlin, Aug. 26.—Prof. Uphues' statue of Frederick the Great, to be presented to the United States by Emperor William, and which has been standing all summer in the sculptor's garden, was packed yesterday and shipped to Hamburg. It will be forwarded to America by one of the Hamburg-American line steamers, consigned to Ambassador Von Sternberg.

It has been understood that a delegation of descendants of Germans who fought in the American war of independence would be sent by the German government to attend the presentation ceremonies in Washington, October 16, but the foreign office is unaware of such a plan. All the arrangements have been entrusted to Ambasador Von Sternberg who, for the occasion acts as Emperor William's special representative.

CANNOT STOP LOCKOUT.

Supreme Court Justice Declines to Issue Injunction. New York, Aug. 26.—On the ground that the agreement is not a mutual or reciprocal one, Supreme Court Justice Dickey has denied an application by the Mosaic and Encaustic Tile Layers for an injunction to restrain the Building Trades Employers' Association from "ordering, maintaining or continuing a lockout in alleged violation of an arbitration agreement entered into between the association and representatives of the labor unions on July 3, 1903." In his opinion Judge Dickey said the action was an entirely new one in the courts but he came to the conclusion that the arbitration agreement was not enforceable by the means sought, or by any other method, for the reason stated. "It is well settled," said the court, "that an employer has a right to employ and discharge any one he pleases, and a workman may work or refuse to work at will."

Japanese cannon were destroyed in a battle to the westward.

Conflicting Reports Explained.

Chefoo, Aug. 26.—A Russian who has intimate knowledge of the Port Arthur fortifications explains that there are three forts known as number 5. This accounts for the various and conflicting reports regarding the fighting at fort number 5. Two batteries in the left wing bear this number, as does also a strong fort to the left of the Elzhan fort. The fort near Elzhan is believed to be the one object of the fighting reported from here yesterday.

MUNROE WAS WHIPPED IN TWO ROUNDS

Scared and Awkward the Big Miner From Butte Did Not Stand a Ghost of a Show in the Ring.

The Contest Ended So Quickly Neither of the Men Realized That It Was Over.

MONROE NOT IN SAME CLASS

Jeffries Says He Trained as if He Were Going to Meet Corbett or Fitzsimmons, but This Was No Fight at All.

San Francisco, Aug. 26.—Like the veriest amateur in the prize ring, Jack Munroe of Butte, Montana, went down and out before Champion James Jeffries tonight in the second round. The man from the mining regions made such an extremely sorry showing that the great throng hooted him as he protested to Referee Graney against the decision.

The miner was scared and awkward, and Jeffries in the first round had him twice on the canvas taking the count. Jeffries directed his bombardment against the stomach of his opponent and each shot was followed by a blow on the jaw that sent Munroe to his knees. Jeffries went back to his corner after the opening round with a sneer and laugh on his swarthy face, while Munroe's seconds busied themselves with smelling salts and restoratives.

When the two came together for the second round the laugh on the champion's visage changed to a look of determination that boded ill to the miner. Forty-five seconds after the gong sounded, Munroe, counted out, was lying on the floor, a bloody, bruised mass of humanity.

The man from southern California did not understand that the victory was already his, nor could Munroe realize that his pugilistic star had so early set, and the two men in a moment or two were facing one another and Jeffries landed a terrific blow on the jaw of his staggering opponent. Graney came forward and ordered Jeffries away, telling him that the fight was ended in his favor. Munroe tottered to his corner, with the blood streaming from his face, and fell into his chair dazed and helpless. When he came to a realization that the fight had gone against him, he arose, and going over to Referee Graney, began to make a protest. The huge crowd understood from his protesting gesticulations the purport of his talk and a mighty volume of hooting gave evidence of the sentiment of the spectators.

A great throng witnessed the contest, estimates of the number in attendance ranging from seven thousand, and it is believed the gate receipts approximate $35,000.

Jeffries accepted the victory as a matter of course and said: "This fellow is not in Corbett's or Fitzsimmons' class. I am only sorry I had not a chance to give him a few more and harder knocks than I was able to do. I admit I have some bitterness against Munroe, for it was through his friends and from his camp that I have been called a cur. Why, I have trained as if I were going to meet Corbett or Fitzsimmons. There was actually nothing to this fight."

So utterly crestfallen was Munroe over his crushing defeat that he begged to be hurriedly taken away from his dressing room and was quickly taken out of the building. When asked for a statement concerning the fight he refused to be interviewed, saying he had nothing to say.
