Our World's Fair Visitors Are Speechless With Admiration of the Waterfalls.

SCENIC EFFECTS MARVELOUS

Our Regular Exposition Correspondent Tells How the Crowd Is Affected by the Fair's Wonders.

St. Louis, Oct. 18.—Your readers have no doubt noticed that I have said nothing about the wonderful spectacle produced by the night illumination, the cascades, the lagoons and the gardens. I have not attempted a description of this, the most impressively beautiful feature of the exposition because it is indescribable. No words that I am able to command could convey any conception of the dazzling beauty and magnificence of this spectacle. What's the use of trying to draw a "word picture" of this spectacle when you haven't the words to do it with and when the artists themselves cannot depict its glories or transfer its color and motion to canvas?

Jane has used her kodak industriously and has taken pictures of it from every conceivable point of view but these "snap shots," be they ever so beautiful, are flat, lifeless and colorless things compared to the real spectacle. It is the only thing at the fair that makes John speechless. He is willing to talk and write about everything else but when the thousands of electric lights are turned on and the water begins to rush down from the sculptured grotto in front of Festival hall and goes splashing in cascades down to the Grand Basin, he sits in a dazed condition and views it in silent awe just like everybody else does.

This fair was not built on a flat, boggy marsh as was the Chicago fair. It is true that it has no lake for a background but it has, picturesque, wooded hills and ravines and these have made possible landscapes, fountain and cascades effects more beautiful than anything that could be produced on a prairie such as Chicago used in building her fair. So far as water is concerned St. Louis didn't need the lake to produce these matchless water effects that constitute the main picture of the fair. Ninety thousand gallons a minute go tumbling down the three cascades, and there are two miles of lagoons over which launches and gondolas are constantly gliding.

There are four hills which the exposition builders utilized to the highest artistic advantage. On one of these is the United States government building, on another the Japanese gardens and pavilions while the two central prominences with the connecting ridge, form the cascade effect. At the center of this ridge is Festival hall, a noble colonnade forming the Terrace of states, each terminating in a large pavilion. The side cascades have their sources in fountains in the centers of large basins in front of each pavilion while the central cascade flows from a high grotto in front of Festival hall. These torrents of water rushing over illuminated steps at night look like stairways of molten gold and green stretching away to the summit of the sculpture-crowned hill between gardens of red and yellow canna's and sputtering geysers and spouting dolphins and—

But I said I would not attempt to describe this spectacle and I will not. All that the crowd can say when it first bursts upon its vision is "Aw!" and "Aw's" all day long until late at night. Better to do like John and say nothing. After John looks at it for an hour he wants to go over and watch them feed beavers in the Forestry building so as to realize that he is still on earth.

ONE ON SENATOR FULTON.

Campaign Joke that Should Be Taken With A Grain Of Salt.

Salem Statesman:—Everybody knows that Charley Fulton is a good campaigner, so it was no surprise that he made a good impression on the Californians during his recent visit to their state. But at Stockton he made an unusual effort to be pleasing and proceeded to say that he had always heard the most flattering reports of the California climate, fruit, roses and sunshine, and was not, therefore, surprised at the magnificent sights in those lines that had met his gaze, but his surprise was that the most marvelous and bewitching beauty of California women, which had overwhelmed him at every turn, had not been given more extensive publicity. He could now easily understand why men from every country on the globe flocked to California, but from what he had seen of the California men he failed to understand why the women of that state didn't emigrate to Oregon en masse, and at once.

Of course, this rally put him on a good footing with his audience, or a part of it, at the start, and he felt quite well satisfied with the impression he thought he had made, until while leaving the hall he overheard a woman remark that "if he was a sample she didn't see that Oregon men had anything to boast of."

The point to the joke is, that being too good to keep, Charley told his speaking companions of it, and from there to Cheyenne he was kept busy in his waking moments defending the physiognomical characteristics of the voting population of his adopted state.

FORMER DOCTOR, NOW VAGRANT.

Dock Lewis a Prisoner and a Physical Wreck.

Seattle, Oct. 17.—"Dock" Lewis, once a well-known physician, now a hopeless wreck from the use of cocaine, morphine and opium, is a prisoner in the city jail, charged as a common vagrant. The case is one of the most pitiable with which the police have had to deal in years. Lewis has kept out of jail for several months, but before that had been arrested a number of times.

A few years ago Lewis was a practicing physician and stood high in his profession. He became addicted to the use of drugs, well knowing their terrible effects. Step by step he went down the ladder until he mingled with the lowest class of morphine users.

The ex-physician was arrested yesterday in the restricted district. When found by Patrolman Mayou he was wet, cold and almost dead, but begging for morphine. He will probably be charged with vagrancy under the state law and given a long term in the county jail.

UP TO ENGLAND AND AMERICA.

Can Prevent War If Strong In Armies And Navies.

New York, Oct. 17.—Although declaring that all wars have not resulted in evil, Dr. Minot J. Savage, comparing "War and Peace" before his congregation in the Unitarian church of the Messiah has asserted that if there could be some sort of understanding between England and America those two nations could keep the peace and lift the civilization of the planet; but, in order to do it, he added, they should need to be strong in armies and in navies.

A DOUBLE TRAGEDY.

Lieutenant Kills Brother Officer And Commits Suicide.

Manila, Oct. 17.—Second Lieutenant William D. Pritchard, in a fit of insanity shot and killed Second Lieutenant Fred L. Deen. He then shot and killed himself. Both of the officers were attached to the Thirteenth regiment of United States cavalry stationed at camp Stotsenberg.
