

WASHINGTON NEWS LETTER

Superintendent of Indian Schools Says Good Is Being Done for Poor Lo.

COMPLETE WIRELESS SYSTEM

Where Will Immigrants Go—They Are Not Farmers—They Have No Capital—Many Used to City Life.

Washington, Oct. 27.—The annual report of the superintendent of Indian schools, Miss Estelle Reel, has been submitted to the commissioner of Indian affairs. It shows that educational advancements have made during the year in the general field of Indian education. The Indian child is taught to speak English in a shorter time than formerly. The policy of giving agriculture foremost place in Indian education has been continued during the year and the results obtained are satisfactory. The report states that marked improvements have been made in the method of instructing the boys in the various trades and the girls in cooking, sewing, laundry work and general house-keeping. The day schools have continued their good work, and their civilizing and elevating influence upon the older Indians becomes more apparent each year. Statistics are given in which it is shown that the products of native industries have a greater value to the Indian than is generally known, and that they form a substantial aid toward his support. Among the evidences of the good results of Indian education are the reports of the career of returned students, which show that they are endeavoring to overcome the environment of camp life and prove themselves worthy of the education they have received. A feature of the report is the evidence it gives that the Indian is altering his ways of living to meet the requirements of an advancing civilization through the educational influence of the schools upon the children who are being taught the white man's ways of living.

Sites for 50 additional wireless telegraph stations are recommended by Rear Admiral Manney, chief of the bureau of equipment, in report to the secretary of the navy, which has just been made public. Admiral Manney's report shows that 22 stations have already been established and the additional ones will complete a series designed to include all the American possessions. It will extend all along both coasts, touch Cuba and Porto Rico, the Canal Zone, Alaska, Midway Islands, Hawaii, and the Philippines.

Congress is to tackle a proposition of immigration Commissioner Sargent during the coming session. Commissioner Sargent has an idea that it will be a wise plan to turn the tide of immigrants now landing in New York, and remaining there, out into the wild and woolly west, so to speak, or down south, where they are needing laborers. A right good plan, perhaps; but isn't Mr. Sargent reckoning without the consent of his immigrants? Most of the foreigners who land in New York are from the great cities of the old world, and they know about as much about tilling the soil as a hog does about holidays. They have no money and as they are ignorant of our language, our customs, our government, the very last place on earth to send them is unto a big quarter section of unbroken land, where they must establish a home out of nothing. They—the families at least—must have some place to live, and they must have something to live on until the crops materialize. Houses cost money, even if you build them of mud, or burrow in a dugout. Food costs money; money. Who is going to put up for all these things and run the risk of the Poles, Hungarians, Bohemians, Greeks, Italians, or the Russians being able to yank enough out of the ground to pay back and yet support their families? It is a very chimerical proposition. It isn't every man who is a farmer; it isn't every man who can be made into a farmer; if a few miserable farmers were day laborers, and men who thought put into their places, farm statistics would show a wonderful increase in values. We have enough poor farmers, goodness knows. As for sending these people into the south to work in the cotton fields, who has any idea that they will go? The immigrants will have something to say about this proposition, and he will most likely say "nay."

Klondike Gold Output For Season Is $9,500,000.

Dawson, Y. T., Oct. 24.—(Special to Seattle P. L.)—Steamer navigation for the full length of the Yukon has practically ceased, and the first overland stages with mail will leave for White Horse and Dawson tomorrow, using wheels until there is more snow. The steamer Prospector, the last boat to attempt the trip from Dawson to White Horse this season, leaves tonight with a full load of passengers. The steamer will have to make the run against a river full of light ice, but it is thought that if she succeeds in making the Yukon crossing that the remainder of the trip will be easy.

Late reports from Tanana are to the effect that the Monarch, the last boat to leave Dawson for Chena, arrived at her destination in safety. The report also states that the steamer Tyrrell, with Judge Humes, of Seattle, aboard, managed to get within twenty-five miles of Chena, when she was stopped by the ice, and will be obliged to remain where she is for the rest of the winter. Her freight will be hauled over the ice to Chena. Official figures just given show the output of Klondike camp, including the British Yukon radius within fifty miles of Dawson, this season to be $9,500,000. This is a falling off of $2,000,000 from the output of last year.

YOUTH GETS LONG TERM.

Judge Called Reform School a Failure—14 Year Old Lad to Pen.

Marysville, Cal., Oct. 27.—Claude F. Hankins, the 14-year-old murderer of George R. Morse, son of Detective Harry Morse of San Francisco, has been sentenced to serve sixteen years in San Quentin prison. He had been convicted of murder in the second degree by a jury two weeks ago, with a recommendation for extreme mercy added. Notice of appeal was served. Judge McDaniel refused the motion by defendant's counsel for a new trial and refused to sentence the prisoner to the reform school, saying the boy was dangerous and the possibility of reform remote. He stated that the reform school was a failure, and Yuba county's experience was that more boys return from the penitentiary reformed than from the reform school.

MAKE MANY VOTERS.

Anaconda Will Have 200 New Citizens for Election Day.

Anaconda, Mont., Oct. 27.—The work of making full-fledged Americans out of candidates for citizenship is progressing satisfactorily, and it is believed that before election day arrives fully 200 votes will be added to the polling list of this city. Since September 1 citizenship papers have been granted to 125 applicants and the work is going on nicely. What will be the politics of the new citizens is a matter of conjecture. Each of the parties claims a majority among the accessions, but nobody knows the truth of the matter.

TO KILL THE DANDRUFF GERM.

's the Only Possible Way of Having An Effective Cure.

If you see a woman or a man with luxuriant glossy hair, you may be sure neither has dandruff to amount to anything. In nearly every case where women and men have thin brittle hair, they owe it to dandruff. There are hundreds of preparations that "claim" to cure dandruff, but not one but Newbro's Herpicide tells you that dandruff is the result of a germ burrowing into the scalp, and that permanent cure of dandruff and its consequent falling and baldness, can only be had by killing the germ; and there is no other preparation that will destroy that germ but Newbro's Herpicide. "Destroy the cause, and you remove the effect." Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

MAY USE OIL FOR STREETS.

Seattle Council Will Secure Estimates Of Cost.

Post Intelligencer.—A resolution was introduced into the council last night instructing the city engineer and the street committee to estimate the cost of sprinkling the paved streets of Seattle with oil. The resolution contemplates the use of oil instead of water for sprinkling purposes during the summer of 1905. The matter was referred to the street committee for consideration.

Oil as a dust allayer has been used quite extensively by railroads in the east and has been introduced on some of the western roads that run through sandy and dusty territories. Reports are to the effect that the oil has been found highly satisfactory. Owing to the fact that it is far less volatile than water, it evaporates very slowly, thus its effect upon dust is more lasting. It is pointed out that while water has to be applied continuously to keep the dust down, one sprinkling of oil will suffice for hours. The less frequency with which oil has to be used, it is claimed, almost makes up for the difference in cost between it and water.

As to whether oil is a success as a street sprinkling substance is an open question. Reports from some places where it has been used say it forms a gummy mixture of oil and dust that soon becomes a nuisance.

RAILWAY SUE FOR $78,083.90.

Utah Construction Company Plaintiff in Federal Court.

Helena, Mont., Oct. 27.—Suit has been instituted in the federal court here by the Utah Construction company to recover from the Montana Railroad company the sum of $78,083.90, together with interest at the rate of 10 percent from December 24, 1903.

The plaintiff in the complaint alleges that it had a contract with the defendant company under the Lewis-town extension of the Montana railroad was built and that the sum claimed represents the unpaid balance on the contract. The construction company asks for a lien against all the property of the railroad company. T. J. Walsh of this city is attorney for the plaintiff.

Drowned in Tub of Whitewash.

Willie Cussick, sixteen-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Cussick, was drowned in a tub of whitewash, at Rainbow Camp, six miles from Sisson, last Wednesday afternoon. Lime to the depth of three or four inches had some time ago been stored in the tub. The recent rains had filled the vessel, which set outside, to the depth of eighteen inches. The water had slackened the lime, virtually making whitewash out of the mixture. Willie, a baby boy, and his three-year-old sister, Anita, were playing about the tub, when the former in some way fell in, face downward, and was drowned.—Ashland Tidings.
